Seattle World's Fair to Be Monorail Test Site

The following story was written by Stanton H. Patty of the Seattle Times. The firm building the Seattle monorail is the same one which constructed the famous Disneyland monorail. It also is the firm which offered to finance and build a 14-mile "backbone" line along Wilshire Boulevard into downtown Los Angeles-a proposal turned down by the Metropolitan Transit Authority. The city of ·Long Beach has authorized City Manager John Mansell to negotiate with the MTA on the possibility of running a monorall line from here to San Fernando Valley. By STANTON H. PATTY

The Seattle World's Fair next year may determine whether monorail is an answer to rapid-transit needs. A one-mile, high-speed monorail line is nearing completion now between downtown Scattle and the fairgrounds at a cost of $4,200,000.

There will be two four-car electric trains capable of speeds up to 70 miles an hour.

This is the first rapid-transit-system prototype monorail built anywhere in the world. Previous installations have been confined to the dips and curves of amusement parks and test tracks in Europe.

The Seattle monorail is being financed by Alweg Rapid Transit Systems of Washington State, Inc., a unit of the industrial empire of the late Swedish industrialist

The sponsors are frank to say that the monorail is an exhibit for possible future sales of monorail systems-

Municipal transportation officials from all over the United States will be in Seattle during the fair to judge the monorail's performance.

Will it live up to its advance billing? Will it be noisy? Will it be dependable? How much will it cost to

These are some of the questions to be answered as the streamlined trains whisk passengers to and from the fair-

The monorail cars will ride on rubber tires atop a chain of 144 precast, prestressed concrete beams supported by T-shaped pylons about 15 feet above street

So far the installation has been smooth--smoother than anyone in Seattle expected.

The beamway sections have fit together without a hitch. Automobile traffic has been hindered only slightly during the construction. Merchants and apartment-house operators along the route have been promised that the monorail will make no sound other than the "whoosh" of a conventional transit bus passing by,

The monorail system now is about 90 per cent complete. First testing of the trains is planned in about mid-January. The trains, being manufactured in West Ger-

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—President Kennedy got his South American visit off to a triumphal start Saturday with a festive reception unmarred by incidents. Later in the day his helicopter had to land twice, once on a high-way, on a flight from the in-terior to Caracas because of bad weather.

Kennedy received a festive, flag-waving welcome to the nist troublemakers by the tightest security measures ever undertaken for an American president.

HIS HELICOPTER and the one carrying Mrs. Kennedy both later had to set down twice on the flights from Maracay to Caracas because WASHINGTON (Pi - Secretary of State Dean Rusk of weather conditions, which ALBANY, Ga. BUT THEY had to land again because of rain and clouds surrounding the mountains. They put down this time at La Sucre Airport, on the edge of Caracas, before proceeding to centrally lo-cated La Carlota Airport.

The landings took place on Kennedy's return flight from the mountainous interior, where he visited a government land reform project.

Kennedy threw down a warning to Cuba's Fidel Casro within hours after arriving for a weekend here and in Colombia to dramatize his $20 billion Alliance for Progress program for the Americas. In the major speech of his

L.a.C. Says: Were You Here Then?

An interesting chart shows how few adults today had any experience in the great economic changes that occurred a generation ago. Most of these present adults were given an education as concerns what happened to the economy of Greece and Rome 2,000 years ago. But there is a question if they realize what has happened to their own country during the last 30 years. And it is asked how would they react if the same conditions again occurred-as they may be expected to do.

The chart shows that 79.5 ner cent of all present adults had no experience in the great stock market crash of 1929 and the 10-year depression that followed. Many of them think of the New Deal as something that stepped into the depression and quickly solved most of the problems. The measures passed then are today important factors in our economic and social lives.

For the past decade we have seen an almost continual rise in stock market prices. In the series of recessions we have seen the Dow-Jones averages drop 20 to 25 per cent only to recover and rise to new highs. But the 1929 drop was catastrophic and it took many years to regain its losses-some stocks have only regained the 1929 levels during the past few years. But a large percentage of investors seem to think such losses could never again be incurred. But these adults who lived through those days know it can happen again.

We are alarmed today over having about 6 per cent of our civilian labor force unemployed. But a third of our adults can remember the time when we had 25 per cent of them out of work. This was at the depth of the 1930's depression after President Roosewelt closed the banks and put the New Deal into ef-Tect. Unemployment was to be eliminated and prosperity was to be assured for all. But for the next seven years unemployment was never below 14 per cent-double what it is today. Only the start of World War all brought it down.

Since then we have lived under a war economy. World War II, then the Korean War, and since then, the cold war. A large portion of our production is war materials. We have not had a normal peacetime economy during the last 23 years. The largest employment factor in California is the military personnel and missile and aircraft industries. The great majority of our labor force, including executives, know no other economy.

These last 30 years have seen the purchasing value of the dollar shrink by more than half. It has seen the farmer subsidized and surpluses pile up faster than warehouses will hold them. We have drifted far toward socialism. But it has come during a period of war economy when everyone had more money to meet the "welfare state" programs and in-flation. But it would be well for all the young adults of today to carefully analyze what has happened during these three decades of change. It would better prepare them for what could happen again, And it might cause them to do something about the philosophies that are urging us further on this road to a totalitarian state.—L.A.C.

New Dispute in Offing on Oil Imports

HOUSTON, Tex. (A)-The new dispute over oil imports involves an old and very tick-lish problem.

y Various segments of the United States oil industry have been at odds over imports at least 35 years.

International implications haved dictated cautious ac-tions by the White House, Congress, and governmental agencies.

The intensity of the dispute has risen and fallen over the years with the status of domestic supply and demand. Restrictions on imports have been sought during periods of lagging domestic demand. Such requests have been forgotten during years of booming demand,

THE CURRENT imports coincides with a world-wide oil surplus that got under way in 1957 after the end of the Suez Canal crisis. Barring another international emergency, the end is not in sight was 10,800,000 barrels a day. Governmeent officials, after World War II, asked the domestic industry, in the interest of national security, to develop 1,000,000 barrels of excess productive capacity. The National Petroleum Council has estimated today's excess capacity at 3,500,000 barrels

DOMESTIC producers have ost markets in recent years to imported oil but all the blame for a lack of balance between supply and demand cannot be placed on foreign

The current problems of do-mestic producers actually are a combination of the effects of imports, the growth of demand for natural gas and its by-products, and a lower growth rate for demand for petroleum products,

DOMESTIC demand for petroleum products in 1961 is expected to exceed 1960 by about one per cent, The aver age annual increase the last five years has been 2.1 per cent. The average annual gain for the 1945-1955 decade was 6 per cent.

Industry spokesmen have issued repeated warnings in recent months producers are going to have to live with demand's lower growth rate.

Two international emergencies have delayed the impact of this lower growth

Domestic supply of petrol-eum caught up with a booming post war demand growth in the late 1940s, A campaign to limit imports was well under way by the time fighting broke out in Korea in

The campaign was renewed in late 1952. .

CONGRESS tacked the defense amendment onto the trade agreements act in 1955. The amendment authorized the President to adjust imports of any commodity which threatens the national security by impairing the health of a vital domestic industry.

The amendment did not mention oil by name but it was a result of the oil imports campaign, Bombs fell on the Euez Canal in early November in 1956. The domestic oil surplus was wiped out temporarily as the United States rushed oil to western Europe Domestic production reached un all-time high of 7,818,400 barrels a day in March, 1957.

DOMESTIC crude output slumped shortly with the reopening of the Suez, A voluntary imports control program was launched in July, 1957. The voluntary plan was replaced by the current mandatory program in March, 1959.

Interior Secretary Stewart Udahl announced in October he had recommended a reduction in oil import quotas for the first half of 1962. The suggestions ran into opposition. particularly in the State Department.

Preservative of Food Seen

ter Corps hopes'in about two the next decade is even grim year. months to seek "safe and nu-mer. tritious" certification for radiated bacon.

He said it would be the first radiated food to be cleared for home consumption and would mark a milestone in research program aimed at preserving food by exposure to radiation.

American scientists in their experiments have fed radiated food to nearly 300,000 rats, mice, monkeys, dogs and chickens-and a limited number of humans.

"THE VAST majority of the experimental data now available demonstrates no harmful effects," a Defense Depart-ment report said.

The Army has spent about $5 million since 1953 using high-dosage radiation to destroy bacteria and permit preservation of food without refrigeration.

The Atomic Energy Commission, which is about midway through a new $1 million research program, expects to step up its development of a low dosage radiation tech-nique for providing "fresh-like" fish and fruits far from harvest areas.

THE ARMY'S program is designed primarily to improve military rations but ultimately it may have civilian applications as well.

"It is expected that radiation processing of food will eventually find its place among the historic food preservation processes of drying, salting, canning, freezing and . . . freeze-drying," said Paul C. Achersold, director of isotopes development for the

The Army spokesman emphasized that bacon was not necessarily better suited for the process. He said the reason it was in line for applica-tion for approval by the Food and Drug Administration was that "we have more data prepared on it."

Among the more than 100 foods tested, one big problem is taste. "But we are making progress," one scientist said.

A REVISED six-year, $5 million program to accelerate research on specific irradiated foods for military use was announced by the Army, in March, 1960. The six-year program was developed fallowing the Army's decision to suspend construction of a proposed $7 million full-scale pilot production plant in California, In lieu of the production plant construction of a $1.8 million food radiation research facility has been started in Massa chusetts.

lief in some circles that the government was de-emphasiz-ing the process. But the AEC's Aebersold said in a speech in August that "our general attitude is one of confidence." He said there was "growing confidence elsewhere," and noted that Canada and Russia had approved for consumption potatoes subjected to low-dose radiation to inhibit sprouts.

DOG WATCH

shy little black dog of uncertain ancestry has kept a lonely vigil on a midstreet traffic island here for about a month, apparently waiting for his unknown master to return.

Blackie, as he is known by concerned townsmen, won't make friends and retreats when someone approaches. But he always returns to get food which employes of a nearby grocery offer him.

Recently, a lighted Christmas tree was erected on the island and Blackie spends most of his time under it, sleeping or just watching. Temperatures as low as 14 degrees below zero haven't driven him

Every now and then, he looks up expectantly, but so far that familiar face hasn't passed by.

'Asleep' Year, Never Saw Son

YULE TRAGEDY

ABILENE, Tex. (49)-Tuesday will be the anniversary of tragedy for Jack and Sharon Jones.

A year ago, on Dec. 19, 1960, Mrs. Jones, 24, went on one last Christmas errand to pick up one last gift for her

At an intersection her automobile and another were in ollision. She was hardly marked by the wreck.

But the crash jarred her into unconsciousness. Since that moment she has been, even when open eyed,

She lives, unaware of the massive machines around ner which keep her alive, unaware of the baby she delivered, a son she has never seen.

MRS. JONES was one of those ordinary city wrecks, an intersection collision. She was taken to an Abilene hospital, on to Fort Worth for brain surgery which did not repair the damage, then back to the Abilene hospital where she gave birth. The baby, Eddie, was delivered by Caesarian section on July 5, 1961-six and a half months after his mother was knocked into unconsciousness.

The struggle goes on to keep his mother alive. The struggle is costly. Earlier the hospital and nursing care required cost about $80 daily. Jones now does much of the work himself so that, with his wife now at home, bills are down to $30 daily.

★ ★ ★ LAST SPRING, a group of near-strangers decided to help. The Sharon Jones fund was set up at Abilene's Citizens National Bank. Some 18 persons began it and have contributed monthly gifts to it. Others, locally and from all over the nation, give irregularly. The fund has lately been as low as $200, but in all it has produced about $8,000 toward the $30,000 Sharon's injury has cost.

Last year's Christmas presents have not yet been opened. Jones says he will not open them until his wife

He says doctors tell him the life of his wife is "in higher hands than theirs.

many, are scheduled to be shipped to the United States December 15.

World's Fair officials are saying that monorail will be the "main gate" of the exposition, which will open next April 21 for a six-month run.

But Seattle very nearly did without monorail in the early days of fair planning. For several months, monorail was strictly an "on again, off again" project.

In the spring of 1959, the Seattle Transit Commission named the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. as prime contractor tojinstall a monorail system.

But negotiations bogged down when the parties were unable to agree on financing. Lockheed was worried be-cause the company would have had to absorb several million dollars in design and engineering costs. Bargaining dragged along for several months.

But, all along, another monorall firm was in the background—Alwac International, parent organization of the Alwac submitted a proposal to the Transit Commission in August, 1959-more than $1,000,000 under the Lockheed figure.

The big difference, however, between the two offers was that Alwac offered to finance, build and install the monorail, with no financial risk to the city itself. That gave Alwac the inside track.

At that point the Seattle World's Fair Corp. took over negotiations from the Transit Commission and made a deal with Alwac. The Transit Commission, at the same time, voted to drop Lockheed from the monorail competition. Finally in May, 1960, the World Fair Corp. decided to sign with Alwac. The price then was $3,500,000--but later advanced to $4,200,000. The fair agreed to pay Alwac (now Alweg) 25 cents from each paid admission to the fair. Alweg also would retain the monorall fares, concessions revenue at the monorall terminals and advertising receipts related to

NEITHER THE CITY nor the fair were asked to put up any other money. Alweg and its subcontractors agreed to pay the entire bill, other than the 25 cents from

The Seattle Transit System will operate the trains for Alweg. After the fair the fair can decide whether to acquire the monorail-or assign its option to the city or the Transit System. Alweg is required to remove the system at no cost to the fair or the city if there is no purchase.

The final contract was signed Dec. 22, 1960. TWO PARALLEL beamways—one for each train—are being constructed. The monorail cars literally will straddle the rails, with rubber tires hugging the sides of the beams as well as rolling atop the rails.

The sponsors estimate that the trains can carry 8,000 to 10,000 persons an hour.

The monorail will make the trip to the fair in about 95

General Electric Co. is supplying the 100-horsepower units. Automatic braking devices are included for emergencies, in addition to manual controls.

Each train will be capable of carrying 450 persons. An escalator-like "speed ramp" will lift passengers from street level to the loading platform in the downtown terminal. The monorall will coast to a stop at ground level on the fairgrounds.

SEATTLE, among other cities, is looking at monorail as a possible-repeat, possible-rapid-transit solution if the monorail proves a resounding success during the fair.

One Seattle firm has in mind a 110-mile network of monorail costing about $60,000,000. One suggested method of financing is through tax-exempt revenue honds issued through the existing framework of the Municipality of Metropolitan Seattle (Metro), un agency formed originally by Seattles and its neighboring communities to solve water-pollution problems. A citizens' committee is at work in Scattle now studying the possibilities of rapid transit after the fair. Several ma jor organizations, including Municipal League and the Central Association of Seattle favor the Metro concept. A proposal may be on ballot here next March. Will monorail fit into that plan? Monorail's performance in the next few months will answer the question for Seattle-and perhaps many other, American cities afflicted with traffic strangulation.

Board's elimination of bargain coast-to-coast air fares-com ing after thousands of holiday reservations had been booked -left many passengers disap pointed and angry Saturday

Among the estimated 10,-000 persons affected were students and military personnel, their trips home for Christmas budgeted to the ast penny.

"Some of them cried and some of them got mad and asked for their moncy back, said an airline reservations clerk in San Francisco.

Some merely cancelled the eturn trip.

BUT THE majority, their holiday plans already made, paid the extra toll-amounting to as much as $92 on a round-trip jet flight between New York and San Francisco or Los Angeles, as little as 13 between Chicago and the West Coast.

Ticket cancellations ranged from 3 to 10 per cent among affected airlines in New York o 10 to 25 per cent in Los Angeles.

At Ft. Devens, Mass., ahout soldiers held the cutrate tickets. One called the CAB action a "dirty, bureau-cratic trick." They all asked the same question: Why couldn't the ruling have been delayed until after the holi

"WE'D RATHER not com-ment on the timing," said an airline representative in New Airlines and governmen officials reported many comblaints.

"Buyers of the plan can' understand that if the air-lines were willing to set lower rates, why the government shouldn't approve," Trans-World Airlines official said in Washington.

The key to modern-day surgery of the heart is the pump oxygenator—heart-lung machine, if you will. This device, called the Kay-Cross, was now rolled into operating room No. 5 by its technician, the 11th member of the surgical team.

The machine consists of a row of rotating metal discs, 2 in a transparent cylinder. Over these discs Cathy's blood would be filmed and exposed to oxygen. The blood 🛣 would pick up the oxygen.

The device would give the surgeons time to work without haste, functioning for Cathy's heart and lungs during the crucial part of the operation.

NE of the jealously guarded privileges of a con-gressman or senator is that of announcing to home folks federal action on some local matter that makes them happy: This tends to associate the office-holder's name with good news and, justifiably or not, probably helps him later at the polls.

The thing can work both ways, of course. Sometimes the news from Washington about some local project or activity isn't so good, Under those circumstances, there's no scramble among the various officials for the privilege of being quoted in the re-

One of the most painful experiences of this kind that I've observed came some years ago to Congressman Clyde Doyle, then representing Long Beach as well as the areas to the north he now represents. We had a whole series of bad breaks on federal activity—shipyard closed, Naval Hospital closed, elc.—one right after another with frustrating consistency. Bro. Doyle, a brave man, dutifully reported each inci-

A nearby editor, I recall, ran a box listing all of these unfortunate developments which, he emphasized, came with Mr. Doyle as our rep-resentative. "What next," he then asked, "may we expect from this great statesman?"

A NOTHER amusing sidelight on this sort of thing came a day or so ago when Washington let out the news that there would be some slacking up of certain work at the Long Beach Naval

We are represented, as all know, by two U. S. senators Tom Kuchel, Republican, and Clair Engel, Democrat. Bro. Engel has had the privilege recently of giving us good news about the customhouse and some other matters.

Evidently about the time of this shipyard announcement my old friend Clair realized that he was hogging the reports from Washington to constituents in our area. It. was time to let Tom be quoted. So it fell to the lot of Bro. Kuchel, the Republican, to inform us that some work would be held up at the shipyard and some recently em-ployed workers might be laid off.

Sen. Tom faced up to it and put out the bulletin. Now we'll wait to see whether the next one is good or bad and who gets the "privi-

AS PROMISED here the other day, I went out to the Naval Base Friday to the "ration-dense" luncheon and to get a report on the palate reaction to foods that are cessed so they won't take up too much storage room on ships long at sea.

I was a little embarrassed when they came around to pick up my plate because much of the servings was still there. I hasten to inform Adm. Kenneth Veth and others that this was due entirely to the fact that my wife, having observed my figure recently, handed me an immense "appetite depressant" pill Friday a.m.

I'm not eating much anywhere these days. And it's holiday season, too!

PLEASANT holiday item comes from Nancy Brooks, who went out for a stroll the other eve near the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house on E. Ocean Blvd.

As she went by about 50 girls from a nearby sorority approached the SAE house and proceeded to serenade the boys with a lovely rendition of Christmas carols. It ended up with both boys and girls joining in "O Holy Night." It left Nancy misty eyed and with a memorable alghlight of the season.

Youngsters are playing Santa Claus this year. Nearly half of the 5157 members of four branches of the Long Beach Boys Clubs have made gifts for the 392 patients at Long Beach General Hospital,

Among articles made by the boys are: long-handled shoe horns, boot pullers, change purses, jewel cases, tie clasps, letter files, pencil holders and games.

Wasteful Drift in Welfare Programs Due for Correction

THIRTY YEARS after the depression suddenly propelled public welfare into the front line of government functions, many of the programs are still being operated on a helter-skelter emergency basis.

"The main thing is to get the aid out," a supervisor told Edgar May, fledgling case worker. "You can always check things later if you have suspicions. But the opportunity to check things never came, so compelling were the distractions of paper work and an excessive case load. May, incidentally, won a Pulitzer prize last spring for his analysis of welfare shortcomings as reported in the Buffalo Evening News. More recently he brought his findings up to date in Harper's Magazine.

MEANWHILE the need for welfare reform has drawn nationwide attention. Many of the improvised techniques of the 1930s remain unimproved, though the types of public aid have increased along with the dodges of chiselers.

May quotes Abraham A. Ribicoff, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare: "I've come to feel that we have just been drifting. . . . Many welfare workers have become mere conduits between state treasuries and those they seek to heip-neglecting prevention, rehabilitation and protective services."

Ribicoff has started a shakeup in the form of new administrative orders and proposed legislation intended to curb abuses and help people get off relief rolls. He can bring pressure on state and local agencies because the federal government supplies most of the use of dependent children. Improvement of staff training and recruitingprobably controversial, since in many instances a corollary must be higher salaries for professionally qualified case workers.

MAIN PURPOSES of the federal department are: To enforce greater responsibility on the part of parents by such expedients as pressing the search for deserting fathers, taking children from unworthy mothers and issuing vouchers instead of cash for the

Encouragement of more effective family welfare services directed at creating job qualifications and opportunities so that relief recipients may become self supporting.

ADMINISTRATIVE changes already ordered will cost $17.3 million the first year, Ribicoff estimates. This, too, will generate dispute. There is a considerable body of opinion that public welfare agencies should always be kept extremely cramped for funds to deter further waste and mismanagement.

A more tenable theory is that a short-term increase in outlay is justified if it buys improved order and method in public welfare.

In California a State Senate Committee has charged that the part-time Social Welfare Board has failed in its duties and should be replaced by a fulltime commission. More will undoubtedly be heard on that subject. As a prime target for seekers of public relief, this state should certainly be among the first to overhaul any creaking machinery.

A major problem, how-ever, could be Morton's bid for te-election to the Senate next year. He would have to win very big, the experts say, to convince the party he's the man to carry the banner in '61. Although Morton is popular in Kentucky, indications now are that he'll have a real fight on his hands if Wilson Wyatt, who has been mayor of Louisville and lieutenant governor, becomes the Democratic candidate.

But if he gets past Wyatt, Morton presumably will be aching to head the Republican ticket nationally.

Juggernaut's Derivation

Q. How did the word juggernaut come to mean some force that can not be stopped? A.R.

A. Juggernaut ("lord of the world") is one title of the Hindu god Vishnu. At annual festivals held at the site of of his temple in India, an idol representing him is placed on an enormous wooden cart, about 45 feet high, and dragged by thousands of pilgrims from the main temple to another temple outside the city. Stories about pilgrims being crushed to death beneath the wheels of these "juggernaut cars" led to use of the word "juggernaut" to characterize an invincible, crushing force, as in the expression "military juggernaut."

Doing nothing is not a way to perpetuate the status quo, which is radically changed anyhow since Aug. 13. Doing nothing is to perpetuate a state of anxiety, apprehension and jitters. West Berliners cannot live in that state of anxiety indefinitely, and, for their sake alone, a negotiated agreement guaranteeing their freedom and Western access is indispensable. We cannot make such an agreement if Gen. de Gaulle vetoes it. But that does not prevent us from finding out whether such an agreement can be made. If it cannot be made, the future of West Berlin is very bleak and the tensions of the world will mount. If it can be made, it will not be easy for Gen. de Gaulle to veto it, and thus to deny the anxious world a little relief.

Attack Use of Drug to Avert Births

CHICAGO (P) --- Hundreds of serious injuries and a number of deaths have resulted in the past 20 years from the use of potassium permanganate by women seeking to end their pregnancies, two California doctors reported Saturday,

The doctors said the cor rosive action of the strong chemical causes ulcers, burns and hemorrhage when it contacts the wall of the birth canal. Use of the substance by uninformed women has been based primarily on the mistaken belief that the bleeding was proof of the abortion of their pregnancies, they added,

Drs. Edward C, Hill and John M. Thomas of the University of California School of Medicine, San Francisco, re ported their findings in the current issue of Obstetrics & Gynecology, official journal of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

THEY DESCRIBED 83 cases of patients admitted to San Francisco General Hospital between 1948-1960. Admissions were heaviest in the years 1955-1959. The U.S. Food and Drug Administra-tion ruled in 1959 that potassium permanganate may not be sold in the United States without a prescription.

JAPANESE WOO ENGLISH

Raised Eyebrow Usage Abounds

Editor's Note-Few people can fracture broken English as bewilderingly as the Japanese. So the fact that a current Japanese best-seller is a "How to Speak English" book should be good news. Unfortunately, however, the English is so basic that much of it would bring blushes even in the locker room.

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (4)—The sign in the Tokyo apartment house said: "The elevator is under repair for the next two weeks. During that time we regret that you will be unbearable."

In a prewar Tokyo clothing store, another sign intrigued foreign visitors. It announced: "Ladies have fits

Between the clothing store of the 1930's and the apartment house elevator stretches a vast Japanese wasteland. It is studded with the mangled adjectives, misplaced verbs and broken sentences of a generation which has tried, but not quite succeeded, in mastering the English language

BUT THOUGH, with some signal exceptions, the Japanese have failed they have not given up. An industrious people, they have thrown themselves into the pursuit of the dangling participle with a verve usually reserved for street demonstrations, baseball or mountain climbing.

Among the most popular radio and TV programs are the English lessons. One Japanese professor is in such demand he appears as himself on one show and in a handle-bar mustache in another. Books which purport to unlock the mysteries of Eigo

-English-are selling faster than dried squad. One, called "the book that strengthens your English," by Prof. Kazuo Iwata, has created a near-sensation.
In two months it has sold 800,000 copies and the end is nowhere in sight.

THE UNITED STATES postwar influence in Japan has renewed the Japanese interest in matters American.

It is a rare stranger who has not been approached by eager youth with these questions: "Sir, may I speak English to you? How old are you? Do you have a wife? How many children do you have? How much money do you earn? What do you think of Japan?"

If Prof. Iwata's book is any criterion, foreign visitors should be warned before hand that they may encounter some strange and wonderful English from their well-

THE PROFESSOR, a man endowed with a full sense of humor, prefaced his best-selling book with a hypotheti-

"Suppose," he wrote, "you are in the toilet and there is a knock from outside. How would you answer? I asked this question of some 30 people. They included presidents of big businesses, government officials, journalists, housewives and students. No one could give me the right answer. Isn't it a pity that after learning English for some time you cannot express such a simple thing?"

The correct answer, he goes on to say, is: "Someone

This difficult situation is clinically illustrated.

The professor goes on to give some examples of everyday speech in America.

He describes the right phrase to use when speaking of someone who seeks advancement by flattering the boss. But, alas, it is one which never could be printed in a

HE NOTES THAT some people find that they learn English more quickly by reading "sexy," or earthy books and he throws in a few four-letter words which might be of use since they appear in no dictionary. The words would have curled the hair of Lady Chatterley's gamekeeper lover.

In the more reprintable sections of the book he lists many idiomatic phrases which will be of real use to the student. But the strong spices he adds-without warning -to this saind give cause for pause.

He says, for example, without a word of explanation, that "in modern society, many words are made by mixing words." He calls these portmanteau words.

IF THE JAPANESE take him seriously, the unsuspecting foreigner may emerge from a movie and hear his companion observe: "Wasn't it sexciting. Quite a sexperience, don't you think?"

"She was a brilliant cinemactress. I thought the moneymoon scene was terrific. What a comedelirium!"

Afterwards, if his companion is a lady, he may suggest a visit to the "beautatorium," or maybe a little later some "sex-ploration." All this, of course, after drinking a little "joy water" in a "joy house."

THE PROFESSOR warns his readers against too readily saying "yes" to a foreigner when he asks a question they do not understand. What would happen, he asks, if you said "yes" to "do you love me?" or "lend me 100,000

Edward Seidensticker, a well-known American professor and translator living in Tokyo, reviewed Professor Iwata's book in the English Yomiuri under the headline Seventy happy ways to better your English, startle your

He noted that the professor had appended a list of "70 happy phrases" at the end of his book which included such words as attaboy! baby-wife, con game, hang-over, kiss-me-quick, varsity man and some others not usually mentioned in polite conversation.

"A BETTER BEGINNING," he wrote, "toward strengthening your English might be made by throwing away Professor Iwata's book and all books on the problem and listening instead to English as it is spoken. Then, when progress has reached the point where "lovely bride" as read by an eager student no longer sounds like "rub-bery blight" the emphasis might shift to learning abso-lutely standard English to the point of being prim."

The English Asahi Evening News, as part of the learn-English boom, is offering 1,000 yen for illustrations of Japanese English.

The other day, red-faced, it gave the prize to someone who sent in a photograph of its own edition, with a

Packers 'Twist' Into L.B.

Any doubts I might have harbored about the Green Bay Packers being a close-knit TEAM-and not just a Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor operationwere dispelled forever Thursday night when 17 of them got together for an unofficial "Welcome to Long Beach Party" at the home of their "rookie" placekicker, Ben Agajanian.

"I had figured on inviting about four or five players," explained Agajanian, "but they're so close to each other that I wound up inviting half the team."

Having been nurtured the past dozen years on Ram and Dodger cliques, this recorder was genuinely surprised at the 100 per cent harmony among these 17 Packers, who were bent merely on enjoying themselves for a few hours and not the slightest concerned with "cuttingup" a teammate here and

You might fall over when I tell you that these two-time Western Division champions spent most of the evening doing the Twist, sans females. The ringleaders were Ron Kramer, the very huge offensive end from Michigan State who looks more like one of Frank Nitti's "guns" than a dancer; end Gary Knafelc and defensive back Jesse Whittenton, the ex-

The trio spent the night showing their beely mates intricacies of the nation's newest dance craze.

"That Whittenton's a tiger when it comes to dancing," commented 240-pound linebacker Bill Forester, the subject of a lengthy sports magazine spread this past week. "He's gotta dance all the time. Kramer's a dance nut, too, but he hasn't got the class of Jesse.'

Defensive end Bill Quinlan, another 240-pound glant, showed the effects of his Twisting more than anyone else. He was so thoroughly drenched with perspiration that he looked as if he had gone four quarters against the Detroit Lions.

"Man, this beats practice," gasped Quinlan. "If Lombardi (Coach Vince) ever heard about this, he'd make us do it every day."

TWO OF THE QUIETEST PACKERS were a pair who get much of the headlines, fullback Jim Taylor and quarterback Bart Starr . . . and both are deceptively small compared to their 240-pound teammutes,
"I've seen a lot of football players in 14 years of pro ball," mentioned Emlen Tunnell, who started so many seasons with the New York Giants, "but this Taylor's about the finest fullback I ever saw."

"Aw, cut it out, Em," blushed the tiger from Louisiana
State. "Anybody can run when they get holes like this club opens. The real star of this club is Bart. You don't win in this league without a great quarterback."

Starr was the next to blush. "With guys like Taylor and Hornung running the ball, anybody can quarterback the Packers," hedged Starr.

"Cut out the talking and dance," ordered football's best center, Jim Ringo. The mutual admiration society came to an abrupt halt.

I WAS SURPRISED how much these players thought of the Pro Bowl game, played annually in January in the Coliseum. Players on West Coast teams generally regard the game as an imposition on their off-season time, Not the Packers.

"My one ambition in football is to play in that game," declared guard Jerry Kramer, whose injury a month ago prompted the Packers to land Agajanlan, "This is the absolute proof that you're one of the finest football players in the world-and that's the kind of recognition I want."

"Me, too," chimed in Forester, "but it's tough making that Western team in my position. Guys like Bill George, Joe Schmidt and Les Richter are almost automatics for the game. If the Rams don't care about playing in the Pro Bowl, we've got a lot of Packers who'll take their

The entire Packer team hones one teammate in particular lands on the Pro Bowl roster, guard Fuzzy Thurston.

"Fuzzy's the hardest working guy on the club," commented Henry Jordan, Green Bay's 260-pound defensive lineman who's a cinch to make the Pro Bowl himself. "A lot of guys have got more natural ability than Fuzzy, but he worked day and night to get goodand we sure think he is right now."

Immediately after they had cinched the Western Division title two weeks ago, the Packers unfuried a huge banner that read, "Fuzzy Thurston for the Pro Bowl." If you get the idea they love Fuzzy in Green Bay, you're

ANOTHER THING that surprised me somewhat was

, the general Packer feeling about the Rams' Richter. "Les is just an ordinary linebacker, but he's got the benefit of all this Hollywood publicity," summed up one Packer. "He's always trying, I'll have to admit, but the best thing he does is toss fists and elbows. Our linebackers-Forester, Currie and Nitschke-all are better than Richter, but they don't get that publicity that Les Richter stories were swapped all evening, but space brings this dissertation to a halt.

I'll be most interested this afternoon to see if their Twisting exhibitions improve the Packers' general play (not that they really need any improvement)-and also if the boys do a little twisting on Les the Lionhearted.

By DEL DANIEL SAN JOSE-After rallying

gamely to send the game into overtime, Long Burch City College dropped a 4646 decision to San Francisco C here Saturday night.

The loss, the Viking's eighth against two victories, came after they had rallied from a 45-39 deficit with 3:50 remaining to tie the game at 45-45 and send it into overtime

After a scoreless first two overtime minutes, Brad Duggan shot San Francisco ahead with a 20-foot jump. The Bay five then stalled for 1:45 until Tim Sweeney stole the ball and cut the deficit to one point with a free throw.

DUGGAN, however, wrapped it up with two free throws of his own as the Vikings fouled attempting to get the ball. Duggan tied the Vikings' Jim McCutchion for scoring honors with 17 points, 15 in the second half.

Mike Woodward sparked the Long Beach rally at the end of regulation play, scoring his team's last five points.

LES RICHTER 'No One Taking Credit'

By JERRY WYNN

One of football's finest players is seriously ill.

Gene Brito was a giant of a man at this time a year ago. A star defensive end for the Rams, he exuded strength and courage while charging into the enemy backfield and snorting defiance at all who opposed him. He was a specimen of supreme health.

Today Gene Brito has little strength.

He lies in a bed at Wadsworth Hospital in Sawtelle unable to move his once-powerful legs.

He is suffering from a paralytic disease which doctors have been unable to check.

defensive ends of the past two decades.

"Gene was a player's football player," says Les Richter, his roommate with the Rams. "He put out 100 per cent effort all the time, was always in top condition, was a leader on the field, was always willing to help others, and never stopped trying to improve himself."

graduate of Loyola University commanded as much respect off the field as he did on it. He made hundreds of friends throughout the nation including former Vice President Richard Nixon.

Those friends as well as his former teammates and rivals have not forgotten Brito now. They are waging the fight for his recovery by contributing to a fund for Gene, his wife, June, and their daughters, Michelle, 3 and Sharon, I.

"Everybody wants to do something," says Richter, "and no one is taking credit."

Already the Rams have contributed $15,000; a Gene Brito Appreciation Breakfast last week netted $6,000; the Ram Fan Club and Ye Old Rams organizations are foregoing their annual player award funtions to raise money for the fund, and several other National League clubs are making arrangements to aid the program.

What can you, as a fan, do to help now? Adress a card of cheer to Gene Brito, Veterans Administration Center, Wadsworth Hospital, A-wing third floor east, Sawielle, Calif.

Once Over Lightly By DAYL LEWIS

Hornung Makes the Difference

· It was on Thanksgiving Day that the Green Bay Packers really wrapped up their second straight 'Western Division championship.

Although they didn't officially clinch the title until 10 days later, their 17-9 victory over the Detroit Lions that day was the key victory. And it was Pvt. Paul Hornung who made the difference for Green Bay once again,

He not only set up the lead touchdown with a tremendous pass reception, but as coach Vince Lombardi said," "If he'd done nothing else but block the way he did, it would have been enough. We couldn't have won without him." It was Hornung's first game after being called back into the Army. He has played in the past two games as well and expects to be on hand for today's finale with the Rams in the Coliseum . . . thanks to another week-end pass.

"He isn't the 'old' Hor-nung of a month ago. He isn't quick like he was earlier in the season. Not being able to practice daily has slowed him up some, but not too much, fortunately," says Lombardi.

Does Hornung himself notice the difference since becoming a "weekend player?"

"Are you kidding? Why, I can't move after a game, I'm so tired and bruised, It's amazing what you lose in condition and timing in just a few days."

PAUL HORNUNG

Tired and Bruised

ose It has been only the last couple of years that Hornung has really come into his own. Last season, he smashed Don Hutson's scoring record that had held up for 18 years when he tallied 176 points, bettering the old mark by 38

HORNUNG WAS BORN AND RAISED in Louisville and his ultimate enrollment at Notre Dame resulted in one the great tugs-of-war in recruiting history.

Many schools, of course, sought his services, but it finally narrowed down to Notre Dame and Kentucky. Paul (Bear) Bryant, coach of Alabama's national champions this season, was at Kentucky then.

A master recruiter, Bryant came close to selling Paul 10 Chargers on Kentucky. The governor of Kentucky even made a personal sales pitch to Paul's mother,

"But Paul is an only child and his mother had her heart set on Notre Dame and even the governor couldn't change her mind," a friend says.

Paul became one of Notre Dame's legendary heroes, but the Irish were not big winners when he played. He didn't have the supporting cast he now enjoys. However, his play was great enough for him to be awarded the 1956 Heisman Trophy.

THEN CAME HIS DECISION where to play pro ball.

Again his mother played a major role in his final selection Hornung had a fabulous offer from Canada, Green by the coaches was an-

Paul would be better off in the NFL over the long haul. The Packers, of course, acquired the rights to Hornung by the luck of the draw. They pulled the winning number from the hat of the late commissioner Bert Bell and were awarded the bonus selection that year.

"We take Paul Hornung of Notre Dame," cried a jubilant Lisle Blackbourn, then coach of the Packers.

The road to Green Bay was not smooth, It led through Chicago where Paul served obscurely with the College All-Stars in a 26-0 defeat by the Cleveland

Curly Lambeau, head coach of the All-Stars whose pioneer days at Green Bay were over by then, didn't think very much of the Packer bonus choice and relegated Hornung to third-string quarterback behind John Brodie of Stanford and Len Dawson of Purdue,

NATURALLY, THE VETERAN Green Bay players joked about the forthcoming arrival of "their glamor boy

-big No. 5."
They were waiting to "give him the works," but when he got to camp he quickly toned them down.

... As a team spokesman revealed "he always had a smile and he not only took all their ribbing, but really seemed to love it. Some of the players could hardly wait for, the first scrimmage. They wanted to flatten 'Heisman,' as they called him. They really clobbered him, too, but each time he jumped up with a hig grin on his

They may be privates in khaki, but wearing the green and gold of Green Bay, the Packers are commanders of the Western Division front for the second season. This is pro football's best-balanced if not best team, and more than 50,000 fans are expected to watch it in action today.

ALTHOUGH SPORTING a 10-3 record compared with the 4-9 of the Rams, coach Vince Lombardi's hattalion is only a six-point favorite, Ram support stems from the impressive 34-17 victory over the Colts last week while the Packers were being edged by the 49ers, Green Bay has an arsenal of powerful weapons. Hornung is the league's top scorer with 146 points. Full-back Jim Taylor is second in scoring with 96 points and second to Jim Brown of the Browns in rushing with 1,229 yards. Quarterback Bart Starr is the No. 3 passer with a sensational completion average of 58.2.

Packer receivers Max McGee, Ron Kramer, Gary Knafelc, Lew Carpenter and Dowler normally are the best flanking platoon in the league, but will be below par today by the absence of McGee, who cracked a rib last Paced by all-pro center Jim Ringo, the Green Bay offensive line has no peer, and there are few defensive lines stronger than the Henry Jordan-powered Packer wall. The linebacking corps of Dan Currie, Bill Forester, Tom Bettis and Nitschke is the best; the defensive backfield has two nifties in former Ram Jesse Whittenton and former Trojan Willie Wood.

Convinced of Packer prowess?

GREEN BAY DEFEATED the Rams, 35-17, in their first meeting, but the Rams outgained the champs by more than 100 yards and had a 19-17 margin in first downs. Taylor was limited to 34 yards, his lowest output of the season. Starr compensated by passing for four

Ducky Weather Means More Birds

California hunters are being treated to something unusual in the second half of the migratory waterfowl season; they are getting some real ducky weather and, as a result, the game bags are heavier.

Actually, it's the first time in several years that we have had that kind of fare on the hunting menu, unless, of course, we chose to go north to Tule Lake and do our shooting there.

From all points in Southern California came the glad tidings that the opening weekend was wonderful. Hen-shaw, Sutherland, Morena and Barrett Lakes, normally closed to hunting because of the drought, reported good shooting. So did Isabella Lake.

Best news came from the state-controlled areas, with Wister in Imperial Valley and Mendota in San Joaquin Valley, topping the public shooting areas. Mendota is averaging 3.7 ducks per hunter and Wister 3.4.

It's impossible to get on the state-controlled areas on Saturdays unless you have arranged in advance for permits. Sundays and Wednesdays are better for those who choose to try the first-come, first-served plan as practiced by the Department of Fish and Game,

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIANS, who can fish the year around for trout, may have an extra bonus this season. The Fish and Game Commission has agreed to advance the 10-trout limit one month. That means that, beginning March 1, you may take 10 trout instead of five, which is the legal limit through the winter.

Much depends on the trout-planting program. We are getting early rains and snows for the first time in years and the streams will be running for a longer period. But we must remember that most of those streams dried to the point where no fish life could survive, so if the DFG doesn't plant trout, there will be none to catch,

Another decision by the FGC that pleases this writer is the ruling to limit daily crapple catches to 15 and bluegill to 25 at Cachuma Lake. I believe that I have been fuming for years about anglers taking literally tubs of fish (mostly bluegili) from Southland lakes. So Cachuma is a

There were many minor changes in regulations, but all will be printed in the DFG booklet in plenty of time for the general trout season, which opens in the rest of the state April 28. Legg Lake's daily limit was increased from two to five fish.

California and Nevada have come to terms on fishing in Topaz and Tahoe Lakes, both split by the states' mutual boundary. Beginning in 1962, a California or a Nevada license will be valid on the shores of both lakes. It will not be necessary to have stamps, such as are required when fishing the Colorado River. It's too bad that Arlzona could not have come to a similar agreement with this state several years ago.

There will be a five-fish limit at Tahoe and liver and other meat-will be permitted as bait. However, only minnows native to Tahoe will be allowed. Chumming and underwater spearfishing (Br-r-r-r, I shudder to think of that) have been ruled out.

Effective Feb. 17, 1962, one salmon under 22 inches in length may be included in the limit of three salmon. That plan caused considerable debate at Sacramento, but

William P. Elser, San Diego, was elected 1962 president of the commission. Jamie H. Smith, Los Angeles, took over as vice president. The commissioners announced the appointment of Leslie P. Edgerton as assistant to the FGC. He replaces William J. Harp, who retired after 33 years of service.

CALIFORNIA'S CONTROVERSIAL DEER management plan, which now permits the DFG to set up special shoots in which does may be killed, got an overwhelming backing of 61 of the 65 witnesses present at the Sacramento meeting. The commissioners, however, decided to put over until April a decision on a change in the deer

The present plan was started with the idea of keeping the deer heards and rangelands in good condition, but there were dissatisfied persons, particularly in Northern California, who felt that the killing of does was wrong regardless of herd and rangeland conditions.

Bill Desmond, of the U. S. Forest Service, sald that there are more deer in California now than the land can

"The hunter's bullet is far more humane than nature's method of harvesting, which is starvation or disease," he against Gene Dupree.

Charles Bull, who hammers at the DFG at every opportunity, differed, as is his usual pattern. He said that the present program was wiping out the deer herds of the state,

He was one of four witnesses who favored the shooting of bucks only at all times.

Japanese 'Lost Face' at Wake is the second in a series of 20 articles recalling people and places, campaigns and catastrophies of World War II. The 20th anniversary of the United States entry into that war occurred Dec. 7. Subsequent articles will appear at intervals of approximately two weeks.)

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS On the morning of Jan. 12, 1942, the Nitta Maru stood off the coral reefs of Wake Island to take on 200 American prisoners of war.

Most of these prisoners were clad only in their underwear, some only in their underwear shorts. As they stepped to the deck of the Japanese liner, they found sailors lined up in rows - and armed with

The American enlisted men and civilians were forced to run this gauntlet, before they were jammed into the holds.

IT WAS, the prisoners realized, a way the Japanese had of saving "face." But it didn't work.

The Japanese Army and Navy never got over the shame they experienced at Wake Island, nor the battle fought Dec. 11, 1941. On that day the Japa-that they didn't count as casualties -- one man suf-fered a minor arm burn, two others scratches from flying shrapnel.

THE STOUT defense of Wake Island created, in the words of Masatake Okumiya, Japanese naval observer, "one of the most humiliating defeats our navy had ever suffered."

The task force of nine warships that moved against Wake Island's,300 defenders - and four airplanes — that day was routed. A cruiser and a destroyer were sunk a transport was sent to the Marines, sailors and civil- bottom, and other warships

Little of this, however, had been spent by Dec. 8, Radar installations that might have prevented a surprise attack on Wake were lying on the docks at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese attacked. So the defenders of Wake Island, commanded by Col. James P. S. Devereux, were caught flat-footed when the bombers flew out of a rain squall and attacked. They knew of Pearl Harbor, but did not have detection de-

THE PRICE of that raid was high. Of the 12 American Grumman Wildcat fighters that had arrived only four days before, eight were destroyed on the ground. Thirty-four marines and civilians were left dead or wounded.

On Dec. 27 Japanese bombers attacked again. This time they destroyed the hospital, killing the wounded of the day before.

With two sweeping successes from the air, the Japanese moved to seize the three tiny islands that form the Wake group.

PERHAPS the case of the first two attacks made the Japanese overconfident. At any rate, with the cruiser Yubarı in the lead, they sent their invasion force to within four thousand yards of the islandstsmanship a creed...accuracy a law!

The headline of this advertisement was written almost sixty years ago.

It is the motto of the men who build Cadillac cars-and it has served as both proud legend and stern taskmaster for three generations of Cadillac craftsmen.

We selected it to help tell our story today, because we think it still summarizes perfectly the quality and the care—the pride and the precision-that go into the making of every Cadillac motor car.

There is no really adequate way to describe the crafting of a Cadillac. But this recitation of facts might be helpful. 1. The average Cadillac craftsman has ten years of experience on the job. 2. One out of every seven people involved in the building of the car is an inspector. 3. Cadillacs are built in only one place by men who build nothing else.

4. The car is crafted to unbelievably fine tolerances. Some engine parts, for example, must be accurate to within one ten-thousandth of an inch.

5. Every model undergoes more than 1400 different checks and inspections in the course of its assembly.

The list is longer, of course. But however lengthy, it could never be more impressive than the result. It's the 1962 Cadillac.

See it and drive it soon. We know you'll understand why it has been so widely acclaimed as the Standard of the World.

Economic Outlook Good for New Year

> By KEN CHILCOTE I, P-T Business Editor

Long Beach economy moves into the new year in a confident mood with more employment assured and extensive building activities that will see more changes on the city's skyline.

Over the Long Beach trading area there is glowing optimism in financial, building and retailing circles, boosted by the increased consumer spending noted the past six weeks and by announced plans for industrial and housing developments.

Across the nation the U. S. economy, its health restored, has many rosey pictures painted of an improved 1962, Increased government spending is expected to botster conditions in most states.

LOCALLY, huge developments in the harbor area already have been announced for the coming months and there are many millions of dollars already alloted for commercial building in the downtown and beach areas.

Soon to be announced and already on planning boards are such major projects as a large hotel, a major development of luxury homes on one of the few large tracts available in the city, and some decided improvements in the

Along Automobile Row in Long Beach the recent increase in new car sales shares the national optimism automakers hold for 1962. Nearly every agency reports a big pick up in recent weeks on the local scene and some agencies are running behind already in furnishing 1962 models.

THE HOUSING PICTURE in the Long Beach-Orange County area remains as bright as ever with the continual flow of newcomers into the Southland.

Optimistic forecasts for the 1962 housing market came from a variety of national sources,

The Department of Commerce predicted a total of 1.4 million new private housing starts (compared to an anticipated total of 1.3 million for this year). The Department said that this prediction was based on "anticipated favorable money-market conditions and relatively low interest rates for residential mortgages."

Robert C. Weaver, Administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, forecast between 1.4 and 1.5 million starts in 1962.

"Thousands of families who could not afford to buy homes are now able to do so," he said.

Joseph P. McMurray, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said that "if interest rates on mortgages stay reasonably close to what they are, and I believe they will, I expect that you will have from 1.4 million to 1.45 million units next year."

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)-The woodwork on the outside of your home can be made to last four times as long through proper treatment with water-repellant preservatives, says Texas A&M College forester Bill Smith.

Smith says surface treatment with pentachlorophenol and a water repellant can help wooden siding, steps, porches, exterior trim and other wooden items exposed to seepage from rain. The wood can be treated either by complete immersion or by brush application.

Chinese Held Easy to Learn

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)-Chinese is not difficult, but a comparatively easy language for English-speaking students to learn, said Dr. William S. Y. Wang, who is teaching it at Ohio State University.

Chinese grammar is similar to English and has no tense conjugation or declension, Wang said. "Chinese has sounds easy to produce for English - speaking students," Wang said. "For instance, it doesn't have the nasal vowels as in French, or the rolled r's as in Spanish, and it doesn't have difficult consonant clusters such as in Russian and German."

MOTHER WITH MISSION SAYS .....

Daughter's People Are "Stepchildren"

By MARY NETH

"You don't need to go to Nigeria to see backward people in poverty—just to the Southwest."

That's the opinion of Mrs. Grant Thomas, 284 E. 56th St., who thinks President Kennedy's Peace Corp is needed at home as well as abroad.

"My daughter's people, the Navajos, live on a diet of weak coffee, frybread and mutton. They suffer famine and disease."

And Mrs. Thomas, a Long Beach housewife with a mission, is quite familiar with their plight.

She lived among them for six years.

Six years in which she saw first-hand, what she terms, "their continual battle to eke existence from land that could not support 5,000 whites—yet must support more than 80,000 members of the tribe."

The land itself, vast, barren and unrivated in stripped-clean scenic beauty, consists of 16 million desert and semi-desert acres in three states: New Mexico, Arizona and Utah.

The Navajos, who still live in ancestral

one-doored, dome-shaped hogans, without floors or windows, rely on sheep raising as their means of livelihood.

AND WHEN THERE is no rainfall, both they and their animals starve.

It was during one of these years of drought that Mrs. Thomas and her husband first visited the reservation.

"We went to look over the situation and returned to open a non-profit, nondenominational mission," says Mrs. Thomas

"Helping the Indians was something we had always wanted to do. My husband is full-blooded Crete and I am a quarter Miami—they are our people."

Thomas took leave of absence from his job to establish that first mission which was later turned over, debt-free, to the Navajo Council.

A second mission, still in operation today, was then opened in 1957 on 59 acres of land 19 miles North of Gallup, N. M. It was there at the "Bethel Mission, Inc.," that Mrs. Thomas put in her six years of unsalaried service.

After learning the language, she busied herself, teaching, conducting Sunday services, assisting the health nurse, transporting the sick to hospitals and distributing food and clothing.

Her husband commuted from his fiveday job in Long Beach—715 miles each way—to help on the weekends.

"It was not an easy life," says Mrs. Thomas, "but if it hadn't been for illness in our family, I would still be there."

Now, though the mission is operated by the Marrin Gleasons, the Thomases and their daughter make frequent return trips with clothing and other items for the program,

OF THE NAVAJOS, Mrs. Thomas has many words of praise. Says she, "They are a proud, shy and highly intelligent people, who distrust the white man-not without cause.

"Not one of the U.S.-Indian treaties has been kept," she says. "They've been promised schools with a teacher for every 30 students, yet only a third of all the children receive an education—and it doesn't prepare them for off-reservation

"When they get home to the hogan they slip back into the old ways—there is no other way to go."

As to the inadequacies of hospitalization and medical treatment, Mrs. Thomas cites the case of the elderly Indian who waited 15 years for a bed in a TB clinic and died before he could be admitted.

"Think of how many people were infected during his later years," she says.

"The Indians are pathetically grateful for help given them," continues Mrs. Thomas. "Many walked more than 100 miles to attend the mission services. And the medicine men were eager to work with, and not against me, once they understood that I really wanted to help the tribe.

"I'm so weary of hearing people say that the Navajo won't accept help, wants to live as he does. It's not true."

But dealing with a pre-industrial and pre-literate people like the Navajo is admittedly a knotty problem, says Mrs. Thomas.

However, she feels that if this country is going to make an impact on the backward populations of the world it must somehow work harder to solve the problems of the primitive peoples within its own boundaries.

A grass roots Peace Corp policy for our own Indians is called for she believes, and her daughter, little Tsianina readily agrees.

In fact Tsianina has already planned her own program of aid for her people.

Primitive and modern man living side-by-side have found no way to understand one another. "Nearby fast - paced guardian culture makes little effort to communicate with tribe," says Mrs. Grant Thomas (right). She and adopted daughter, Tsianina, working together on Indian loom, hope picture will change.

Beware Lonely Heart Road

DEAR ABBY: Tell me in plain language, how does a nice woman find a nice man? I am a very respectable unmarried woman of 42 who would like male companionship. I disapprove of going alone to bars. I have even thought of writing to a Lonely Hearts Club, or registering with a Marriage Bureau that matches up people for a small fee. (They claim each applicant is thoroughly investigated and screened.) What do you think of the idea? I don't want to waste my life living alone.

DEAR R AND L: In this big, wonderful world no one need be "lonely."
Try to make YOURSELF attractive and interesting to men and women.

(Women have brothers, cousins and friends who are eligible.) Get out and do volunteer, political or church work. Make yourself useful and needed. Investigations and screening mean nothing. Most Lonely Hearts Clubs and "Marriage Bureaus" are run for $$--not as a service to humanity. Don't fall

DEAR ABBY: A letter in your column applied to me, but I didn't write it. My husband has a bigmouthed sister who tells everyone who mentions my name that I am her sister-in-law. This burns me up because as far as I'm concerned, I married my husband and not his family. Furthermore, if this person were not my husband's sister, I wouldn't even speak to her. She is vicious, two-faced and I am not proud to be related to her. What is the solution, Abby? I hate having her call me her sister-in-law.

DEAR PROVOKED: Whether you like it or not, she IS your sister-in-law. She is apparently prouder of you than you are of her, but the best way to handle the situation is to have as little to do with her as

Ho! More Fur-Bearing Santas This Year

By MARY ELLIS I, P-T Fashion Editor

Generally speaking, men are planning to dress up their ladies for Christmas.

They're attending "for men only" fashion shows, taking in men's nights at local smart shops, also are haunting fur, jewelry and lingerie departments.

And that's fine with the ladies. Because, like other years, they're thinking mink for

A study of America's gift-buying habits (done by an independent research firm for Chicago gift-wrapping manufacturer) finds that women are hoping for a fur coat or other fur piece, preferably mink, in their Christmas stocking.

They also want dresses, jewelry, robes and other wearing apparel. Fact is, in the study, clothing proved to be the most popular gift men planned to give their wives, and expected to get in return.

A SAMPLING of local fashion resources indicates men in Long Beach are acting just like self-styled Santa Clauses in New York, Chicago and Timbucktoo.

Most amazing news: they're buying dresses like crazy.

"Men are better clothes shoppers than women," said Genivieve Wood, Town and Country Fashions, who noted that before Christmas the store's largest clientele is of the male gender.

"We do everything to help men make their selections," she observed, "even to modeling the garments for them.

"Usually men know exactly the size and color they want-also style. But if they don't, we send them back home to rummage through wifey's closet to be sure of size and wardrobe color coordination.'

Result: very few of the gifts are re-

SAID Mrs. Nettye Heyman at Greta's Ladies Ready-to-Wear: "It's amazing. Men are even picking out coats for their wives this year. Also, knit suits galore."

An often-heard masculine remark: "I want a knit suit for my wife-just like the one you sold my secretary."

"Men are excellent shoppers when It comes to picking out dresses and suits-but they need help when it comes to accessorizing," she noted,

Mrs. Marseilla Allyson at Chrysteens in Bixby Knolls rated sportswear, robes, sweaters and jewelry-in that order-as top gift attractions among masculine shoppers.

"But as it gets nearer Christmas, men swarm in, with proper dimensions in tow, to buy everything from daytime dresses and knits (a great favorite) to cocktail and evening dresses."

This store sends out invitations to prospective Santa Clauses as a "come on" to make them feel welcome.

AT BLANCHE-MARIE, boutique shop in Belmont Shore, manager Marie Mulvey noted that men are "very color conscious and highly interested in fabrics.'

They go for bright, vibrant colors . . buy high style clothes . . . even pick out an occasional hat for their spouses."

Fur-trimmed sweaters are tops on the gift list at Gladys Fowler's, according to spokesman Eleanor Schaeffer. "We feature a men's night—with cocktails—and men really get down to some serious shopping

They come toting their sizes, know what they want, often ask to have the gar-ments modeled."

BUT IN large department stores, it seems, men aren't so daring about invading female fashion domains.

According to John Hersey, fashion coordinator at Buffums', male shoppers more often confine their gift-hunting activities to first floor perfume, accessory and jewelry

"Last-minute shoppers, though, flock to lingerie counters in great numbers," he noted. "Some days it looks more like a men's club than a women's department,"

And about those furs: "Men buy lots and lots of furs," said Hersey, "But" . . . a fact verified by local fur shops . . . "for such an expensive purchase, men usually have their wives in tow-or vice versa.'

Which proves that fur-bearing Santa Clauses, like most men, have great "presents of mind" when it comes to gift

With Christmas almost upon us, several LBSC groups are involved in projects appropriate for the season.

For instance, a combined Tau Kappa Epsilon-Delta Gamma actives contingent is giving a party this afternoon at the YMCA for 25 orphans. There will be Santa Claus,

While the DG actives work with the Tekes, Della Gamma pledges are sponsoring a needy family. Looking backward a bit, Thursday's Christmas Formal had an extra admission price—one toy per couple. Circle K will supervise distribution.

Disneyland is the scene today of the traditional Phi Kappa Tau outing. The PKTs host 45 orphans from foster homes for a day of rides, gifts, and a picnic, Two LBSC groups have projects to benefit Indians: Delta Delta Delta is collecting toys, blankets, warm clothing, and food for Indians near Gallup, N. M.; and Chi Gamma Iota (Veterans Club) is conducting a food drive for Navajo Indians near Winslow, Arizona.

Alpha Phi has adopted a family and will provide gifts, food, and clothing; Delta Zeta's plans include caroling and visits to hospitals; and Kappa Sigma is another with a party for underprivileged children.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON, long a LBSC fixture on the Christmas project scene, is still present, but in a different way. After years of selling Christmas trees with proceeds to the Exceptional Children's Foundation, SAE is planning a dance early in January with proceeds still headed in the same direction. More on this in a couple of weeks.

Brenda Bernsten is the Tri-Delt "Pearl-of-the-Month." The selection is based on outstanding service to the sorority, and Brenda certainly qualifies for the many hours she devotes as DDD house president.

Latest group to sponsor a series of noon lectures is Epsilon Pi Tau, industrial arts honorary fraternity. Dr. Oliver Johnstone spoke on "Education in Mexico" in the first program last Monday in the studio theater on the lower campus. Watch bulletin boards for future program. Everyone is welcome

Congratulations to St. Anthony's High School whose Allen Frankel took top individual honors in last weekend's 'Math Saturday' at Long Beach State, and whose team of Frankel, Donald Westenhaven, and Tom Walsh, posted the highest aggregate score for the 16 high schools entered. The sponsoring LBSC Mathematical Society termed the event a big success.

So to Heck WithExec; Stay Poor

"Lady, if your husband doesn't make a pile of money -you're a lucky girl, He's more likely to come right home after his day at the office and not turn up

This is the theory advanced by Ed Goldfader, general manager of Tracers Co. of America, the New York firm which has specialized in locating all sorts of "missing" people for the past 37 years. It is Goldfader's conclusion that mar ried couples with modest means are the happiest.

POINTING out that 95 out of 100 divorces occur among people in higher income brackets, Goldfader says, "Money is an evil. Maybe its the kind of evil you can't get enough of, but its possession has some definite draw-backs."

Goldfader describes the average John Doe as a man who has a job with routine hours that keep him occupied from 9 to 5 daily. He is expected home every evening after work and earns a modest income. Even if he does harbor a notion to have a fling, he can't afford the extravagance.

ON THE OTHER hand, the set-up of the higher wage-carner offers opportunities for leading a more complicated life. The vary nature of his job may present plausible excuses for being absent from the home When a husband is tempted, and can finance some extra-curricular activities, the seeds of disruption of family ties have been firmly planted.

Annette Date-Waiting for Non-Showman

Pretty girls make bashful boys more bashful

If you don't believe it, ask Annette Funicello, 19, who is pretty enough to be beautiful and is having dating problems.

Annette is one of the featured stars on "Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color" at 7:30 p.m. today (Sunday), chan-

"Boys in show business don't hesitate to ask me for a date," said the dark-eyed lovely. "But there are some boys outside the business I'd really like to go out with and they won't ask me."

Among her show-business dates have been Paul Anka and Frankie Ayalon. Any red-blooded American feminine teen-ager would give up a month of chocolate malts just to be able to get close enough to Paul and Frankie to say hello.

AND ANY GIRL who would complain about dating these idols should probably have her pretty head examined, beginning with the hole in it.

'Annette's not really complaining about dating Paul and

"It's just that I don't want to marry anyone in the business," she explained.

Annette has, she dreamily admits, been thinking about marriage quite a lot recently.

And some of the things that go along with marriage.

Like, for example, nine children.

Pan and Fan Mail

I'm wondering why "Mav-erick" is re-running old programs that had James Garner in them. We've had these repeats for the past three weeks.

Also, a while back, the "Maverick" program wasn't on at all, not even with a re-Also.

Mrs. T. Bellint, Long Beach.

You'll have 10 more "Maverick" repeats James Garner, Mrs. Bellint. In addition, during the 33week season, you'll have 6 7 repeats with Jack Kelly.

The Garner repeats, basically, are the idea of sponsor. Henry Kaiser.

As you may recall, James Garner won a court battle with Warner Bros, that permitted him to romp out of their video corral.

Another actor, Roger Moore, was tried out as a replacement near the end of last season but didn't cut the "Maverick" mustard. The decision was made that it would be very difficult to find anyone who could replace Garner, so why try.

Warner Bros. went ahead and made 13 new "Mav-erich" programs for this programs for this season which starred Kelly. Other than the 13, the rest of the programs will be repeats.

You're also right, Mrs. Bellint, about "Maverick" not being on at all "a while

It got booted from the air by the American Football League.

ABC-TV, the network which airs "Maverick," also features an AFL game every Sunday.

When the game is played on the West Coast, the telecast starts 1:30 p.m. our time, which means it begins on the East Coast at 4:30 p.m.

When it begins that late on the East Coast, the 2hour, 45-minute game runs over into the time period occupied there by "Maverick." Consequently, under those circumstances, the East Coast "Maverick" is automatically booted off the air.

Sure, Mrs. Bellint, that doesn't need to happen on the West Coast. The game winds up in plenty of time for us — in our Pacific Standard Time zone — to catch "Maverick" as regularly scheduled.

But the sponsor figures he has already lost 51 per cent of the total audience, that percentage being represented by East viewers.

So why pay the whole bill for the Pacific Coast's 19 per cent, the Mountain Zone's 4 per cent, and the Central Zone's 33 per cent?

I was so pleased to see that someone has finally spoken up for the adult viewers of the "Soupy Sales Show." Mrs. Brown, thank you!

Soupy's show is something for "kids" of all ages, not just teenagers as so widely publicized. His comedy is the kind that makes everyone glad to be alive.

Speaking for myself, I sin-cerely think that the "Soupy Sales Show" is by far the best half hour on TV.

New Panel Show

A new panel show, "Your First Impression," will make its debut on NBC-TV Jan, 2. Three panelists will attempt to identify a mystery guest.

One thing bothers me, though. If pies and slapstick are so popular with Soupy's many fans (adults and teenagers alike), why then is his show the only one of its type in existence?

Long Beach Ninth-grader Karen Huffman,

VHO WAS WHO' OF TV HU

* A List of the Lost Legion of Video Comedians

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)-The bravest men in the world — astronauts, test pilots, frog men and marriage counselors—don't need the steel nerves a television comedian does.

Astronauts, test pilots and the others realfize the chances of survival are on their side.

The percentages favor them.

Even a nitroglycerin handler at the epicenter of an earthquake has better odds going for. him than the poor clowns who think they can make a career of a weekly TV series.

Those who tried, and were eventually lynched by ratings and/or heartless sponsors, make up a "Who Was Who" of TV humor.

Today only two authentic comedians are in business on a weekly basis, Red Skelton and Jack Benny. Both have survived the appalling casualty rate through the years while fellow funnmen dropped by the wayside.

Bob Newhart, a newcomer, is struggling along this season, but the old pros doubt if he will be around two years hence.

HERE IS A RUNDOWN on "Where Are They Now?"—the lost legion of weekly video comedians:

Jackie Gleason - Now working in motion pletures with occasional television "specials." He bombed out of two weekly shows.

George Gobel — Recently escaped from a

Broadway flop in which he had invested heav-

tion comedy series next season.

Wally Cox—At loose ends since "Mr. Peepers" and "Hyram Holliday" collapsed, Wally now makes infrequent "guest" appearances on TV when he isn't birdwatching in the woods Red Buttons—Keeps himself out of mischied by working in movies and appearing on TV strays playing most dramatic roles. He quest shows, playing most dramatic roles. He guest stars 9 p.m. today on "General Electric Theater," channel 2.

Milton Berle—Another two-time loser, hopes to star in dramatic TV shows and movies in addition to guest appearances as a comedian. His last regular show was as an emcee on a bowling show.

Sid Caesar—Appears infrequently in televi-sion, usually in "dramatic" roles. Phil Silvers—Back on Broadway

EVEN THE TOP comedy teams, Burns and Allen, Martin and Lewis, not to mention Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, have disappeared.

Distaff members of the trade are not spared the inevitable pink slip either.

Gale Storm — Is semi-retired and playing housewife to her insurance-man husband in the Eve Arden-Tours the country in plays. Nanette Fabray—She concentrates on "specials" and "spectacular" guest shots.

Imagene Coca — Now spends most of her time on the road appearing in plays.

SUSAN Harrison, Kelton Garwood (the tramp) and Clark Allen are fea-tured on "The Twilight Zone" at 10 p. m. Friday, channel 2. They are three of "Five Characters in Search of an

Monique Stars in Spy Story

By DOC OUIGG

NEW YORK (UPI)-Monique Van Vooren, Belgium's gift to mankind, was a child in Brussels during the second world war but she wants one thing clearly understood:

"I was never in the underground. My parents were never in the underground, I was never an urchin. I never starved, If all the underground stories about girls coming from Europe were correct, there'd be nobody above ground.

Miss Van Vooren majored in philosophy in college and then studied law. She speaks six languages. She was junior figure-skating champion of Belgium for three straight years. She designs clothes and writes short stories.

And yet, in television and movies, she is not asked to play the part of philosopher, lawyer, linguist, designer, or writer-and junior figure-skating is out because Miss Van Vooren long ago lost her junior figure. For some years now, she's been senior to practically everybody. As figures go, her's goes almost too far.

"I'M ALWAYS PLAYING parts where I get killed, or pushed, or I steal or I lie," she said. 'I don't think I've ever done anything where I don't end up killed. They say wicked girls have to die-lhal's so untrue.

"However, I'm happy to be playing the other woman." The other kind is always kind of dull. In this TV show, I'm a spy for the Nazis, And I get shot,

"As a small girl I always used to play spy, I remember. Like you in America play cow-boys and Indians, in Europe the kids play spy. But this show I'm doing is a true story of World War II. It took a long time for it to be cleared by the OSS."

The show to which she refers is tonight's (Sunday) offering of the Du Pont Show of the Week titled "Trick or Treason." It airs 10 p.ni. on channel 4.

"They picked me up for this part as a spy because I looked like one," Miss Van Vooren continued. "As soon as they got me, they began trying to make me not look like a spy. The makeup department tried to make me look about like a peasant."

IT IS SAID that the makeup people tried to de-glamorize Miss Van Vooren for this part. The effort must have shaken their resources. However, she was exposed to makeup at an

"I remember one Christmas Eve during the war we were asked to take home an American soldier for dinner. To our family came a private, Richard Gully, and he had worked for Warner Bros. He later sent me my first movie magazines and pancake makeup. I had asked him to, and my mother was furious."

As a singer-actress, Miss Van Vooren has run through the whole show business gamut in several countries—television, movies, theater, night clubs—and has shown a considerable talent on TV panels such as "To Tell the Truth" and "I've Got a Secret."

Of panels, she says: "They're casy—no rehearsal, good pay—I feel like I'm stealing the money." But she wants to concentrate on act-

"When I entered show business eveybody said: 'Good lord, a name like Monique Van Vooren—you can't use it.' But I kept it. And acting is what I like and want to do. I've done night clubs all over. But I like acting, And I'm like the Russians—I've got a five-year plan and three more years to go."

My goodness, what is your goal?

"I want to retire—in the style I've become accustomed to. Feed the ducks. Sit in the sun. Then go into clothes designing, or writing.

New From Acme Mattress . . . Convert Regular Bed to Contour

THE ABOVE illustration is the Select-A-Rest bed by Dura, which is sold and distributed by ACME MATTRESS FACTORY, 3425 E. Anaheim St.; Long Beach.

The Select-A-Rest bed is available in various widths, i.e., twin hed—39", three-quarter bed--48", double bed--54", Queen size beds--60". Extra long (80") are available in all sizes. This unit is also available for hospital convalescent use, on rental or sales basis.

In just 3 minutes you can convert your twin or Hollywood bed into a relaxing contour bed without changing the decor of your bedronom. And if you have been having trouble relaxing, a new Select-A-Rest contour unit may be just the answer to relieve muscle fatigue and tension.

Ask your doctor about the benefits derived from proper positioning white relaxing. Many units have been sold to people suffering from heart disease, asthma, varicose veins, respiratory problems and outhopedic ailments.

The electrically controlled and hydraulically operated unit replaces the old box spring and requires no special installation.

Remove the mattress and box spring, place the Select-A-Rest unit where the box spring was, place the mattress back on top and the conversion is complete.

After assembly, plug the unit into any standard, 110-to-125-volt AC outlet for immediate use.

The unit operates as smoothly as a convertible top. No wonder! It was developed by Dura-Corporation of Oak Park, Michigan, the exclusive supplier of hydraulically operated convertible tops to the automotive industry.

A palm-size four-button control unit that can be held in your hand lets you adjust your new contour bed to any of the more than 100 possible relaxing positions. If you want to sit up and watch television or catch up on your reading, just press the "head-up" button and the head of the bed will rise from a reclining position to a 70-degree sitting position. You can stop it at any comfortable place on the way up—or down. Say goodbye to "pillow-packing."

If you have been on your feet all day, lie down and touch the "foot-up" position. You can raise your feet to a 45 degree angle.

When you feel like going to sleep, Select-A-Rest will purr you quietly back to a horizontal position.

The compact contour units can be used in almost every room in the house. Built into lounges they can make paties, dens, living rooms and television rooms more comfortable.

ANOTHER CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION FROM CITY PHOTO

Ready for better pictures? Whether you're deeply involved in photography or take "just snapshots"—let us show you a Leica. You may have a friend who owns a Leica; he's probably told you that it never disappoints. A Leica owner never gets into a photographic situation where his camera can't deliver. Bring in your old camera; let's discuss a trade-in for a new Leica M-3 or Leica M-2, with automatic features that make photography easier than ever. Once you own a Leica, you'll never want to trade again.

Bert's Eye View

Baby Rose Marie no longer is.

When a child hits age 36, it is time to shed the swaddling clothes.

In fact, swaddling shedding is way overdue.

But it is difficult to shuck the raiment of childhood when you are a phenomenon.

Legend does not stop becoming legend with added age. Its flavor mellows with time.

When Baby Rose Marie was 5 years old, she started becoming a legend. She had a phenomenal voice.

It was a husky, masculine voice that sometimes led sceptical listeners to believe that Lawrence Tibbets was in the wings singing the song the pint-size girl was mouthing.

Lawrence Tibbets was not in the wings. The voice actually boomed from the girl.

It was not just a freakish voice. It was not just some-throat rasping.

It was harmonious. It was pleasant.

So was the child who used it.

She used it on radio. She used it in motion pictures. She used it on the stage and in recordings.

She professionally used it and the name Baby Rose Marie until she was 13 years old "and I became fat and ugly."

THE FATNESS AND UGLINESS are gone now, if, indeed, they ever did exist save in the mind of the then teen-ager.

They are gone but the name, "Baby," legend-lingers on.
"Lots of people still call me 'Baby'," she said.

"Phoo!

"Actually, they mean it with love and affection and I really shouldn't resent it.'

But the fact remains that "Baby" Rose Marie no longer is.

Rose Marie, yes.

An accomplished comedienne-who can still belt out a tune in a voice that has shown remarkably little change—she is featured in the role of Sally on "The Dick Van Dyke Show" at 8 p.m. Tuesdays on CBS-TV (channel 2).

The woman who was "Baby" has been married for 15 years to trumpeter Bobby Guy. They have a 13-year-old daughter, Georgiana, Understand this woman. She is not resentful because she was a child star.

"Listen," she said. "I don't know where people get the idea that a child actor has to be deprived of a normal childhood. "I had time, most of the time, to attend public school, I had everyday friends.

"On Saturday mornings I had to clean my room, including scrubbing the floor.

"My mother (Mrs. Stella Curley) repeatedly told me: 'Whenever you want to stop being an actress, just say so and you can "I never said I wanted to stop.

"A child actor has got to want it to do it.
"I don't care what kind of a 'stage' mother or father he has.
"There is nothing any 'stage' mother or father can do about it if their child rebels. If he doesn't want to act, they can't force

"Because, even if they could force him out on the stage, the forcing would show in his performance. His performance would be a nothing. And 'nothing' performers don't last,"  $\star$

ROSE MARIE, who wasn't forced, has lasted.

The child, who "was born in a wind tunnel," became an acting adult that traipsed the nightclub circuit from East Coast

The child became an adult that was co-starred with Phil Silvers in a Broadway musical, "Top Banana."

The child is a woman who has appeared in dramatic roles on such television programs as "Gunsmoke," "Studio 57" and 'M-Squad."

She is a comedienne.

"Two drunks went to a zoo and stopped to look at a lion. The lion roared. One of the drunks started to run away. The other stopped him.

"'You can't leave now,' the second drunk said to the first. The movie just started'.'

She is a housewife who cooks, knits and believes marriage and a career can successfully mix.

She is a mother who isn't sure whether she should be concerned or amused because her 13-year-old daughter has a mania for horses.

She is all these adult things. Just don't call her "Baby.

Houseboat Colony

Portraying the life of married college students living in a houseboat colony, "Hooray for Love," a half-hour series, will debut on ABC-TV next fali, Darryl Hickman, who previously starred in NBC's defunct "The Americans," will have a feature role,

'Enchanted Nutcracker' Airs Saturday

An original musical fan-sy, "The Enchanted Nutcracker," airs 9 p.m. Saturday on channel 7.

Three Broadway stars, Carol awrence of "West Side Lawrence of Story," Robert Goulet of "Camelot" and Pierre Olaf of "Carnival," are featured in the production,

The story was written by Sam and Bella Spewack, Academy-Award winning authors.

It is based on Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite" ballet

LINDA CANBY enacts the role of an 8-year-old girl whose parents are in show business, They are unable to visit the youngster at her boarding school during Christmas vavation.

The unhappy child is befriended by a French teacher who gives her an unusual gift, a magic nutcracker that makes dreams come true,

Carol Haney, choreographer, has "translated" the traditional Nutcracker ballet into the modern for the "Westing-house Presents" production. Original lyrics were penned by Edward Eliscu and Tchaikovsky's music was adapted by Sol Kaplan.

Brightest, freshest, most exciting discovery in recent years . . . that's what they are saying of Nancy Kwan, pretty Hong Kong-born ballerina, who makes her Hollywood acting debut in "Flower Drum Song" as the hep-talking, hipswinging Linda Low. The role is that of a San Francisco Chinatown night club entertainer. Nancy won the praise superlatives as a result Nancy won the praise superlatives as a result of her debut in the title role in "The World of Suzie Wong," filmed in London and Hong Kong. In "Flower Drum Song," Nancy sings and dances to such outstanding Rodgers & Hammerstein hits as "Grant Avenue," "Fan Tan Fannie," "I Enjoy Being a Girl," and has a duet number with Jack Soo in "Sunday." The film is a Ross Hunter adaptation of the Broadway musical hit. For more about "Flower Drum Song" see Page 10.

NEXT WEEK

Christmas long ago in Long Beach lacked the fanfare of the modern approach and the brilliance of today's electronic age, but the spirit of Christmas shone brightly and the thrill of Santa's impending visit was evident in young hearts weeks before the big day. Social events and school entertainment were built around the season. In 1885, the whole community joined in celebrating yuletide. Southland next week will recall these happy by-gone days in a nostalgic article, "Early Day Christmases in Long Beach," by Maymie R. Krythe.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on D'ATH. -P. D., Lakewood,

P.D. D'ATH is a French name with a remote, historical background, D'Ath, for-merly D'Alhis, means "From Athis," a village located in northeast central France. Originally the source of Athis was the Roman word "Alesia" describing "Place of the round, primitive houses, owned by the natives of this region early in the Christian Era. No coat-of-arms is recorded for D'Ath.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform us on FULTON -E. C., Long Beach.

E. C.: FULTON is from an old town by that name that was in Roxburghshire, southern Scotland, Fulton has a much disputed source, formed either from "Fula-tun" meaning "People's Estate," or from "Fugel-tun" for "Fowl-enclosure." Ancestors include John and Robert de Fultone of Cambridge who lived in the late 1200s. The Scotch Fulton coat-of-arms has a blue boar head placed between two red spur-rowels on a silver stripe across the center of a blue shield covered with a pattern of interlaced silver fleurs-de-lis. American forelathers were William. James and Alexander Fulton of York County, Pa., in the 1770s and 1780s. The Fulton family motto "Parta labore quies" translates from Latin as "Rest obtained after

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze OXENIUS. — G. S., E. O., Long Beach.

G. S., E. O.: OXENIUS is a German name that originated in the Middle Ages from a farm-owning ancestor. The primitive spelling of this surname was Ochsenius, deci-phered as "Oxen or cattle owner." No coat-of-arms is recorded for Oxenius

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the meaning of SEBAS-TIAN. — Mrs. C. S., Bellflower.

C. S.: SEBASTIAN can be German, Austrian or English. The family founder in each country was named in honor of the celebrated Roman Christian martyr St. Sebastian. The Sebastian coat-ofarms granted in Austria pictures St. Sebastian tied to the trunk of a black tree, and is centered on a golden shield. This ancestral insignia refers to the Roman torture of Sebastian, who was tied to the trunk of a tree and shot with arrows.

Dictionary Habit

GRADE CARD CARD

By Harry Karns

NEEDING two of a certain kind of animal for a jungle movie, a motion picture director wrote his supplier:

'Dear Sir-Send me two mongeese . . . '

That didn't sound right, so he tore up the letter and started again;

That didn't seem right, either, so he decided on this version:

"Dear Sir-Send me a mongoose. By the way, while you're at it send me another."

Then there was the policeman who discovered a dead horse on Conquistador Avenue. The conscientious officer couldn't spell conquistador, so he hauled the animal over to Main Street before writing his

SOME PERSONS will go to almost any lengths to avoid the simple, direct act of verifying words they don't know.

If you want to help your child acquire a strong vocabulary, and one which he will use correctly in writing as well as in his speech, teach him the dictionary habit. The dictionary helps him get acquainted with the spelling and pronunciation as well as the meaning of a word.

A person has three vocabularies: (1) the words he recognizes and understands in the books he reads and in his conversations with others; (2) his own speaking vocabulary; (3) his written, or spelling vocabulary. Use of the dictionary helps him shift words from the first category to the second and third.

THE BEST spellers — such persons as teachers, writers, newspaper copyreaders and proofreaders— are the ones who use the dictionary most. They WANT to use and spell words correctly. A person cannot learn all the tens of thousands of words in our language. He can, however, look up the ones which come to his attention.

Make sure your child has a good dictionary. (Ask your librarian to recommend one.)

Encourage him to learn five words a week, A new word becomes a permanent part of his vocabulary when he looks it up in the dictionary and uses it at least three times in his speaking and writing.

Encourage him, by example, to consult his dictionary whenever in doubt-instead of hauling the horse over to Main Street,

(If you wish assistance in helping your child to do good work in school, mail questions and requests to Harry Karns, Room 403, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12. Letters cannot be answered individually, but some will be answered in this "Grade Card" column.)

WHAT'S YOUR HOBBY?

Oodles of Poodles

By Robert Hazelleaf

GIVE Mildred Long a hank of yarn, a couple of small wicker baskets and some cloth, then watch. In a little while she'll come up with a purse that looks like a poodle.

Mrs. Long's interest in small dogs began about eight years ago, when she acquired a toy poodle as a family pet. Remember, the toy breed looks just like the Inrger French pobdle and lends itself to the fancy coiffure, rhinestone-studded collar and 14-karat leash. The difference between the breeds is size. If the toy poodle looks much larger than a Chihuahua, it's mostly hair.

Presently, there are five toy poodles making their with the Long family at 1293 Cameron St.

But there is another side to Mrs. Long's poodle hobby. Her reat kicks come from devising purses and other dress and home accessories. She began about four years ago, and most of her product went to friends who showed interest. They were so intrigued that they suggested Mrs. Long show her novel products at the 1960 Los Angeles County Fair,

SHE SAYS: "The fair was a real dud the first three days that year. I'd taken a booth with the idea that it might be a had gamble. Those three days, I just knew it. People did nothing but stay away.

"But, then, by the fourth day, the rush started. For the next two weeks I did nothing but make poodle purses as fast as I could. It was rough,

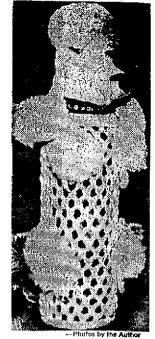

but it was wonderful, too."

In the few years she's been making them, Mrs. Long's purses have sold to George Jessel (a gift for his daughter), to Lucile Ball from a stock of them at Palm Springs' Acapulco Shop, and to other celebrities.

A friend of Mrs. Long's, Bobbie Norwood, is a fashion model who makes it a point to take a purse with her as travels about the country, Her last trip, to San An-tonio, Texas, aroused both interest and orders,

From purses, Mildred Long has branched into decorative pillow covers with poodle heads, knitted overcoats for wine bottles with poodle heads, small baskets with poodle heads, and other accessories-with poodle heads.

She has no idea what her next project will be, but, no

It Happens Every Christmas

YHAT DO YOU want for Christmas, little one?"

Department store Santa Clauses ask this question unendingly each working day. Yet, each answer is a new experience. A toothless grin, a shy request for a doll, a little tyke who breaks into tears and clings to mama on his first trip to Santa's toyland-all these make a typical day for an average Santa Claus.

Although they are enthusiastic about their work, most department store Kris Kringles suffer the occupational hazards of the trade, Last year they reported a variety of casualties ranging from having their beards suddenly and violently wrenched from their bleeding chins to receiving the kicks and punches of disappointed small fry. One youngster even whipped out a cigarette lighter and converted Santa's beard into a flam-

IN DETROIT last year, one little boy reduced Santa Claus to a quivering hulk before the season was half over. He was delivering his list to Santa and the old fellow was nodding at each item. "You'd better write it at each item. "You'd better write it down," the lad suggested, "Oh, that won't be necessary," Santa smilingly replied. "I'd never forget a nice little boy like you. You just wait and see, Santa Claus never forgets."

A couple of hours later the same little boy made his way into another department store and headed for the smiling bearded gentleman. "Aha," smiting bearded gentleman. "Aha," said the completely unsuspecting Santa. "and what would you like Santa to bring to your house?" "See, I knew you'd forget," howled the youngster, kicking Santa in the shins. "I told you to write it down." To most of us walking into a busy store to do our Christmas shopping, Santa Claus is just another guy earning his living. He's that to be sure and much more. He's the most important man in the world to millions of youngsters—a fact he must never forget. And it's sometimes difficult to remember, especially when his adulators drive him to the brink of physical exhaustion, exasperation and even FORTUNA (ELV, this doesn't occur every day. Even so Mr. Claus en-counters a hatful of woes. After houncing a couple hundred kids on and off his knee each day, one prac-titioner of the St. Nick profession could scarcely walk by the end of the day. A doctor diagnosed the case as a bad attack of "Santa's Lap," and warned the patient that his knee just warned the patient that his knee just wouldn't take the traffic. So the store came to the rescue with a little seat that swung out over Santa's lap.

On his first day at work, the Santa Claus at a Los Angeles department store had his pocket picked of his wallet and watch. The same morning he was embarrassed to the toes of his shiny black boots by the skeptic. dreaded by all Kris Kringles—the lit-tle beard tugger. "This boy came up to me," the hapless St. Nick recounts, "and said he wanted to pull my whiskers."

"I said okay, if I could pull his hair, figuring a little child psychology would scare him off. Instead, he gave my beard a tremendous yank. Down it came, mustache and all—clear to my Adam's apple." On the other hand, a cuddlesome little girl in Philadelphia stood back and studied Santa for some time. Then she tiptoed up to him and with a look of adoration whispered, "Santa, will you promise me you will never shave?"

One thoughtful little lass climbed on Santa's knee and presented him with a safety razor and an aerosol bomb filled with shaving cream, Comnever relax their vigilance for a mo-ment because children are unpredictable. Innocent and shy as they appear, they may have mayhem, or worse, on their minds. And that's not to mention the questions, often em-barrassing, that they may spring.

In Pekin, Ill., a Kris Kringle was victimized by a band of "enlightened" youngsters. They lay in wait for Santa to appear in a street parade. When he came on the scene, the little monsters snowballed the old boy right off the street and out of his honorable profession. honorable profession.

TROUBLE plagues Santa Claus in so many forms that it is a wonder he ever leaves the North Pole. In St. Louis, a harrassed Santa inadvertently dropped a 4-year-old from his lap and wound up paying a $10,000 judg-ment. An unsympathetic judge ruled he had shattered the kid's faith.

Santa Clauses the nation over unanimously agree that they must

There's no telling what their inquisi-tive little minds will ask. "Santa," one tyke asked, "if you bring all our gifts, who the heck buys all the toys I see in the stores?"

Accompanied by a plump mother, one young miss sat on Santa's lap and enumerated the usual requests for dollies and such, then blatted out at the top of her voice, "And for goodness sakes, please bring mama a new girdle." Blushing fiercely, mama snatched the tot and exited in

Kids ask for everything from live elephants to baby brothers and sisters. One 6-year-old girl in San Francisco asked for a pair of hoxing gloves. "The boys in the first grade are getting too fresh," she informed Santa. "The next kid that gets smart, I'll biff him one." A couple of years ago one youngster asked for a new daddy because hers was "wearing out on top." Another lassic requested a wedding gown "so that I can marry my daddy."

ONE OF THE strangest requests a Santa Claus ever received came from an 8-year-old boy. Listing the items he wanted for Christmas, he wound up with a request for $500 in cash. Puzzled, Santa asked him why he wanted all that money.

"Well, sir, Santa," he said, "after this year I'll not believe in Santa and I'll want the cash to purchase my own Christmas gifts."

Selecting the right man to fill Santa's boots is a painstaking project. The final decision comes only after hundreds of applicants have been carefully screened. Usually sixtyish, the average St. Nick boasts a ruddy face, a prominent paunch and a benign air. Above all, he has an abundant fondness for children. And if he's a graduate of the Santa Claus School at Albien, N. Y., so much the better.

Founded a number of years ago by Charles W. Howard, this unique school tutors would-be Kris Kringles in such subjects as child psychology, in such subjects as child psychology, realistic make-up, the educational value of toys, and how to make tactful suggestions. Graduates of the week's course receive a diploma. Further study qualifies them for a B. S. C. degree—Bachelor of Santa Claus. A number of students have earned the emblem of this honor—a silver pin representing a chimney. silver pin representing a chimney.

DOUBTING Thomases occasionally bring Santa a trying moment or two. One Santa Claus tells of a young man who held grave doubts as to Santa's true identity. Being precocious, he investigated the whole matter to his own satisfaction and pronounced: "Santa, you are all right."

Pressed for an explanation, the youngster told his story. "When I was in here the other day, I swiped one of the hairs from your beard. My granddaddy has a white beard, too, and I pulled out one of the hairs. My daddy is a doctor and has a microscope. I put both hairs under it and they were both alike. Santa, you are real." are real.

Despite trying moments, there's probably not one Santa Claus in a thousand who would give up the privilege of meeting the starry-eyed little people. For every mayhemminded kid, there's probably a hundred with the starry their little. dred others who throw their little arms around the old gent, sit on his lap and kiss him.

Kris Kringles of long experience can recall a barrel of pleasing ex-periences. One youngster, who had been listening to the motley array of goodies his small tyke friends were going to leave out for Santa's mid-night snack, visited the bewhiskered gentleman at the local department store. "Santa Claus," he said, "I've been listening to all the stuff the other kids are going to leave for you to eat. I feel sorry for you. If you want to come to my house, I'll leave some Alka-Seltzer."

A little blind girl, though, who was led to Santa's side, deftly epitomizes one of the chief attractions that keeps Santa Clauses on the job year after year. She felt his whiskers and ran her hands over his fur cap to make sure who he was. Then she hugged him and said, "Yes, you're Santa Claus, I love you very much."

The Girl Who Learned to Laugh Again

Life's outlook is brightening for Janice Young, due to personal help by experts like physical therapist Janice Nelson and mechanical aids.

By Ben Zinser

ANICE YOUNG was the name on her plastic wristband, and she had just arrived at another hospital. It was a February day in 1961, some months since the automobile had hit the mountain side, and it was not pleasant to think about being 17 years old.

Seventeen and a paraplegic. Paralyzed from the waist down. Forever. Her first two weeks in another town were a drag. Janice Young of Tucson, Ariz., couldn't have cared less about her immediate future: re-habilitation. Rehabilitation in the new Rehabilitation Department at Memorial Hospital of Long Beach.

HER ATTITUDE, briefly: Big deal, It had all started on the way home from the picnic, this new way of life. She was lucky to be alive, they had said. The crash could have killed her. It did kill her brother.

The papers had said she was in critical condition. What a monumental yak, Perhaps she had been once, but at the time they printed it, and she read it, she was sitting up in bed in a Tucson hospital eating popcorn.

And now at Memorial the chart said "apathetic." A physical therapist recalls: "Janice just wasn't interested. She had no motivation to do anything for herself."

BUT THERE came the day when she maneuvered herself into a wheel chair and ventured into a hospital hallway.

Quickly, though, she trundled back to the privacy of her room.

"Why are they all staring at me?"

she pleaded. "Because I can't walk?"
"No," replied physical therapist
Louise Obenchain truthfully. "It's because you're pretty."

In the gymnasium on Memorial's fourth floor, the first order of business was arm exercises.

Janice winced. "But they'll make my arms too big," she objected. Then she shrugged, complied.

JANICE DIDN'T realize it but her rehabilitation was under way.

Next, there was tilting on the tilttable a half hour at a time (to fa-miliarize her once more with the upright stance). . . Balance exercises on hands and knees (to get her used to the feeling of body weight). . . Electrical stimulation of hips and knees (to prevent muscles from wasting). . . . Standing in "kcystone splints" (to ready herself for leg braces). . Letting her foot move back and forth on a "skate board" (more leg exercise). . . Swinging down parallel bars (to get used to leg braces).

And then they put on the braces and handed her the crutches, "I can't do it," she said, "I just REHABILITATION - The physical restoration of a sick or disabled person by therapeutic measures and re-education to participation in the activities of a normal life within the limitations of his physical disability. — Web-ster's Third New Interna-tional Dictionary.

THE Rehabilitation Department of the Memorial Hospital of Long Beach is one of the most up-to-date units of its kind in the world.

Occupying one whole wing on the hospital's fourth floor, it offers the services of two physiatrists (doctors specialphysiatrists (doctors specializing in physical medicine and rehabilitation), two physical therapists, an occupational therapist, a social service director, a psychologist, a speech pathologist and a rehabilitation coordinator.

doctor.
Its facilities are divided into two major sections: physical therapy and occupational therapy.

The physical therapy section offers a gymnasium equipped with more than a dozen exercise devices,

The occupational therapy section also offers an array of devices designed to help restore function of disabled arms and legs.

Janice eases into a wheel chair at Memorial Hospital from a special bed too disabled patients, a $700 perior known as a Stryker Circolectric bed.

There's much to do in life again for Janice who has learned to get about as therapy advences under direction of the Memorial Hospital reliab staff.

Using hand levers—and without the use of up-to-date bomb sights two CAP pilots in World War II sent their bombs crashing into German Uboats and sank them.

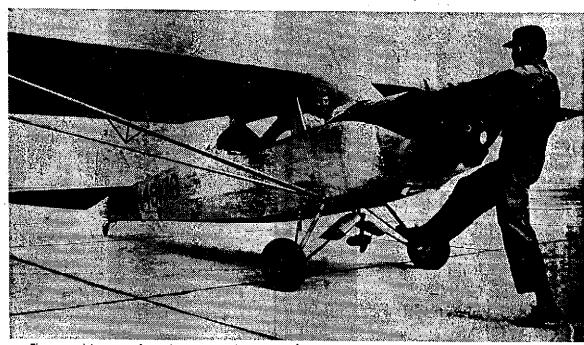

The Air Force also says the civilian pilots spotted another 173 enemy submarines during the war to pave the way for more successful sinkings by better-equipped Allied fighter planes.

"IF THEY DIDN'T spot a sub, they had to jettison their bombs out at sea," Air Force personnel recall. "It would have been suicide for them to come bouncing down the runway with the bombs still in the racks of those small planes."

Around the World in Cheesecake

International parade of cheesecake comes to the screen as one of the musical high lights of "Flower Drum Song," starring Nancy Kwan, James Shigeta, Miyoshi Umeki and Juanita Hali and produced by Ross Hunter for release by Universal-International, Twelve songs from Rodgers & Hammerstein musical hit that ran for 18 months on Broadway are utilized on the screen in 17 musical sequences.

The song number "Gliding Through My Memory" is performed by a Chinese night club master of ceremonies in the musical's famed Celestial Gardens and the musical offering recalls the many loves of a vagabond sailor in his journeys around the world. To backdrop the number, producer Hunter and director Henry Koster personally selected an all-Oriental chorus line to depict the girls from the foreign lands mentioned in the song.

Take a delightful peek at global cheesecake as depicted by four striking Oriental chorines.

"In sunny Barcelona, a dancing chick I picked . . ." sings the sailor, to which Carol Kikumura, above, answers "Ole!"

Lovely Casablanca miss is Amy Liu . . . ending this sampling of beauty, but there's more, much more in the film.

BEAUTIFUL HOMES; Southland takes it readers into a different

By Stella George

T LOOKS NEW, modern, and spacious, and the wide living room cious, and the wide living room with a glass wall in the rear faces a large, expertly landscaped formal garden—such is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wang, 2508 Vuelta Grande Ave. Actually, it is a tract house that received a professional face lift that almost puts it in the custom class

Class.

The original Plaza home had the chopped-up look that several small rooms give to a house. It did, however, have a large lot than ran 64 feet wide and 185 feet long. An expert landscape artist in his spare time, Wang waited until this particular house was available because he want-construction changes in the house include enclosing the back porch and making it part of the living room; removing the rear wall (that included a fireplace) of the living room and form-ing the glass wall; and adding a service porch to the house.

A hall now leads to the wide living room that has a full, unobstructed view of the gardens beyond. A modern bar separates the kitchen to the left of the living room and the dining area is at the far right. Directly to the right of the entry hall is the master bedroom and bath plus a smaller room that serves as a den.

THE FURNITURE in the living room is tailored to enhance the spaciousness of the area. Oyster white carpeting adds to the smooth, streamlined look. Peacock blue is the predominating color in the sectional couch, with low walnut benches at either end. The golden goddess bamboo plant fits well with the decor. Furniture in the dining area is light oak. The ceiling-high plant in the far corner, so well formed that it appears at a glance to be ar-tificial, is a ficus lyrata, excellent as an indoor decoration.

Directly ahead of the entry is a custom music corner with an electric organ facing the entry and acting as a divider for the area. TV and stereo line the far wall.

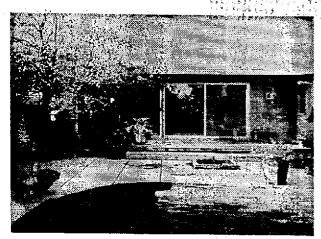

The remodeled kitchen now actually consists of three rooms: the cooking, dining area with the bar separation into the living room; the freezer, refrigerator, and pantry area; and the rear room which functions as a laun-dry. Items large and small now have their place and maintenance is at a minimum, walnut to match the furniture in the adjoining living room. The floor is a cream-beige, formica working areas are yellow, Folding cupboard doors on the working area open to reveal such muchused appliances as mixers, blenders and the like Storing these appliances away when not in use is not a problem since they almost don't have to be moved from their storage place Partitioned drawers (such as one might find in a desk) keep pie tins, muffin tins, and cake pans neat and orderly. Large lazy susans in the corners provide easy - to - reach shelves for other cooking utensils.

DOUBLE DOORS open to a tall, narrow (in depth) pantry in the next room. Shelves have been built into the doors themselves, thus almost doubling the storage area. In the laundry room a corner closet holds bulky items such as the vacuum cleaner, mop, brooms, etc.

In the master bedroom, one wall was set out and snace was taken from the adjoining room to form an extra-large clothes closet. The smaller room is still very functional with one wall lined with bookshelves, and a built-in corner chest of drawers.

The garden in the Wang home is not unlike some of the famous formal gardens in the Santa Barbara area, Directly in front of the glass wall in the living room is a cemented area, then flower garden and behind that a filigree fence and another flower garden. Trees, shrubs and flowers are abundant.

When the glass wall was put in the living room and the fireplace removed, the Wangs decided that they still wanted a fireplace but not in the house. Therefore, they built a low square fireplace right in front of the full length window. It is not a barbecue type of unit, but of simple design that does not detract from the formality of the garden.

This is a tract home that received the full beauty treatment in the often forgotten back yard as well as the home itself. Expert planning in both cases puts the home in the very special category.

One Woman's Diary of Nazi Horrors

AN American writer doing research for an article on the trial of Adolf Eichmann discovered documents in Israel disclosing that Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York had a sister who had been a prisoner in Germany's Ravensbruck concentration camp for women during World War II.

When the writer, S. L. Shneiderman, returned to the United States, he found Gemma La Guardia Gluck, now 80, liv-ing in New York-probably the only native American woman ever sent by the Nazis to a horror camp. He persuaded her to complete her memoirs, which he edited and prefaced,

In "MY STORY" (David McKay, $2.95), Mrs. Gluck recalls her early life as the eldest of the three children of Achillo Luigi Carlo La Guardia, a bandmaster in the U.S. Army, and his wife, Irene Coen, Her brothers were Fiorello and Richard,

Arrested as an important political hostage, along with her husband, daughter, son-in-law and grandson, in Budapest after a bitter denunciation of the Nazis by her brother in New York, she kept a record of her experiences and was especially proud of her uniting of women of many nations at a clandestine International Table despite Nazi efforts to incite them against each other.

Not until her release, eventual repatriation to New York and shortlived reunion with the cancer - stricken Mayor La Guardia did she learn that she had been marked originally for extermination but was kept alive on Eich-mann's orders for possible exchange for an important German.

This is the story of an unconquerable human

SANTA WILL need extrawide stockings to stow away two enormous encyclopedias and a flock of fine anthologies perfect for Christmas giving.

"LAROUSSE ENCYCLO-PEDIA OF THE EARTH" ($12.95 until Jan. 1, later $15) and "LAROUSSE ENCYCLO-PEDIA OF GEOGRAPHY: EUROPE" ($14.95 until Jan. Putnam's Sons, They follow 'LAROUSSE ENCY-CLOPEDIA OF MYTHOL-OGY" and "LAROUSSE EN-CYCLOPEDIA OF ASTRONpublished two years

"The Earth," a comprehensive and authoritative account of the anatomy and history of our planet, answers the questions of how, when, where and why. It delves into geology, paleontology and pre-history, has 500 photographs and diagrams and an excellent index. The foreword was written by Sir Vivian Fuchs, leader of the Commonwealth Antarctic Expedition, 1957, and the introduction by Carroll Lane Fenton, American paleontologist and author.

"Geography" is an attempt to outline the pattern of all the countries of the world, relating social history, economic trends, vegetation, politics, customs, natural forces and resources. This volume, centering on Europe, is planned as the first of a series of three self-contained volumes covering the world. This is the work of a group of eminent geographers, with 500 illustrations.

"THE AMERICAN YEAR." edited by the late Henry Hill Collins Jr., distinguished naturalist (Putnam, $8.95 to Jan. 1, later $10) traces the changing seasons across the face of America through writings from the earliest observers to the present day. Contributors include Thoreau, Mark Twain, Walt Whitman, Edwin Way Teale, Rachel Carson and Joseph Wood Krutch. In all there are 110 selections by 77 writers.

"THE UNDYING PAST," edited by Orville Prescott (Doubleday, $7.50) is 45 selections of historical fiction arranged to form a panorama of the story of Western man from antiquity to the American Civil War. Prescott has introduced each selection with a paragraph identifying the circumstances of the narrative and placing it in its proper historical background.

"CLIFTON FADIMAN'S FIRESIDE READER" (Simon and Schuster, $4.95) includes 60 selections of fact and fiction chosen by Fadiman for family reading aloud. Selections range from passages from great novels to suspense yarns to historical incidents to humorous essays and light

"THE COLLECTED PLAYS OF EMLYN WILLIAMS" (Random House, $4.50) includes "Night Must Fall," "He Was Born Gay," "The Corn Is Green" and "The Light of Heart." In the candid introduction, Williams tells how the plays came to be written, how they first were produced and how they have fared since. Early next year Random House will publish "George," Emlyn Williams' autobiogra-phy of his early years.

DAG HAMMARSKJOLD. reserved Swedish aristocrat, a bachelor, dedicated to peace, is portrayed by Joseph P. Lash, New York newspaperman and long-time friend in "DAG HAMMARSKJOLD, Custodian of the Brush-Fire Peace" (Doubleday, $4.50).

The book, in preparation for more than a year and then hurried into publication after Hammarskjold's untimely death, shows how "Dag" transformed the office of secretarygeneral and with it the United Nations into a major influence in world affairs,

Here are descriptions of how he handled such explosive problems as the American airmen held by Communist China, the Suez and the Congo. The book explores his approach to the Cold War and his concept of a "U.N. presence ence" serving as a neutral buffer between East and West in brush fire areas.

Old St. Nick Knew Best

By Ruth C. Ikerman

T IS a well accepted seasonal fact that Santa Claus has the marvelous ability to read the letters which small boys and girls scribble or print for him. Or even those they write only in their hearts and with their smiles and dimples.

But sometimes it is hard to remember that he can also read the correct and ordinary letters of adults, provided they remember to ask him for what they truly want from life. He can also read the paw prints of the family cat or dog. Finding this fact out for certain has given me new faith in Santa Claus, and in marriage as well,

For when my husband asked me what I wanted for Christmas, I told him there was one thing which I needed every day of my life. Looking at the scratches on my hand I ruefully confessed that I needed a pair of gloves to wear during the daily romp with the family tomeat and his bouncing rubber ball. For sometimes this cat forgets that I am not a cat, and I forget that he is not completely

"Gloves to wear while playing with a cat? That's the very silliest letter ever written to Santa Claus," said my husband grimly.

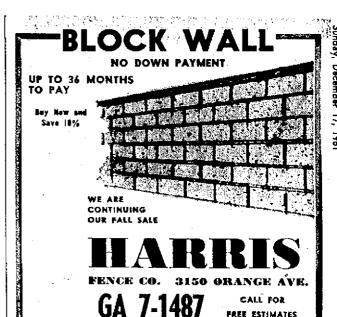

So I thought I was much too old to write such letters. and stood ready to receive a staid proper gift for adults. Yet on Christmas morning a certain box seemed light in Inside were gloves, and you'll never guess but those gloves were made of FUR. That's right, Santa Claus had not only read my letter but had known that the gloves ought to be of fur, if they were to be worn while playing with my cat, transforming my hands temporarily into furry paws.

WHAT I AM wondering now is whether the cat wrote his letter to Santa Claus, too, with his own soft pawprints? I didn't know enough to specify fur gloves when I wrote my letter to him. Yet Santa knew that a cat needed fur gloves to fondle him in a romp.

It's a wonderful world despite the Russians and men from Mars when Santa Claus can once each year read the craziest letters of tension filled adults, the soft paw-prints of kittens and puppies, as well as the hidden wishes of children.

Shaving Vote: Wets', 2-1

By Ben Zinser and George X. Trimble, M. D.

WHICH IS hetter-wet shave or dry dry shave?

No one knows for sure, says Dr. Herbert Mescon, chairman of the department of dermatology at Boston University School of Medicine.

"You can cut yourself just as much with an electric razor as with a blade,

ON THE OTHER hand, he adds, the closer you shave, with either instrument, the more nicks you can expect—and a blade razor shaves closer than an electric razor.

After-shave lotions are of no real value, he continues. But pre-shave preparations for dry shaving permit easier shaving, he believes.

American men prefer wet shaving to dry, 2 to 1, he says.

Here are tips for wet shavers:

- Wash the face with soap and hot water for at least one minute to soften whiskers and remove the water-resistant film of natural oil that collects on them.
- Rinse with hot water and apply shaving preparation, Let whiskers soak for 60 seconds.
- Keep razor and face wet while shaving.
- Shave chin and upper lip last to allow the heaviest concentration of whiskers the longest time to soften:

Taste Treats from Raisinland

ESTIVE DESSERTS, resplendent with fruit and nuts, traditionally receive top billing during the holidays. Some of these are newcomers and others are old-timers done up with flair for the modern hostess.

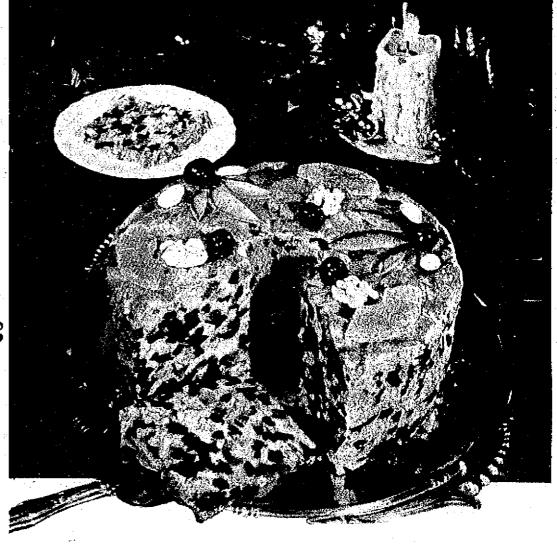

Fruit cake is one of these, supplying eye appeal, taste delight and stirring memories of happy holiday seasons gone by.

And while the ingredients are being assembled, raisins claim attention, having been used in feast day celebrations since long before Christ was born. Down through the ages, treasured raisin recipes for holiday foods have been passed from mother to daughter. In only 100 years, California has come to supply all of America's raisins, with a large tonnage besides for export to foreign countries.

Fruit cake is a choice gift, too; particularly if the giver can say: "I made it myself." Here is help with the making:

Golden West Fruit Cake

- cup dried apricots
- cups dark seedless raisins
- cups golden seedless raisins cup slivered blanched almonds
- cup chopped walnuts
- cup halved candied cherries
- cups diced mixed candied fruits and peels cups diced candied pineapple
- cups shortening
- cups honey
  - 6 eggs
- cups sifted flour
- teaspoon baking powder teaspoons salt
- teaspoon cinnamon 1/2 , teaspoon, cloves
- Cover apricots with boiling water and let stand 5 minutes. Drain and slice. Combine with raisins, nuts, candied fruits and peels. Cream shortening and honey together. Beat in eggs one at a time. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and spices. Blend into batter. Stir in fruits and nuts, mixing well. Turn into greased 10-inch tube pan lined with 2 thicknesses of greased brown paper and one of waxed paper. Bake in very slow oven (250 degrees F.) with shallow pan of hot water on floor of oven about 5 hours. Makes 1 tube cake (71/2 pounds).

Both dark and golden raisins star in this fragrant, moist Golden West Fruit Cake as traditional desserts claim attention for the holidays. A variety of colorful candied fruits and peels join with raisins to make this beautiful cake. Honey and spices add Old World touches to this favorite.

Raisin Crown Cake

- cup dark or golden raisins cup candied cherries
- cup mixed candied fruits and peels
- cup sliced brazil nuts or almonds
- cup softened butter cups sugar
- teaspoons rum extract
  - teaspoon vanilla
- 3 large eggs, separated 2½ cups sifted cake flour
- cup cornstarch

The Fabulous World of Jamaica

bluest sea I have ever seen

By Fred Taylor Kraft

MONTEGO BAY, JAMAICA, DON'T get the idea that this island in the British West Indies is only a pancake with a palm tree on it.

Jamaica, 148 miles long and more than 50 miles wide. and lying about 90 miles off the southeast coast of Cuba, is the largest island in the West Indies Federation. Its area of 4,411 square miles is 390 miles greater than Hawaii, biggest island in our 50th state and the one on which Hilo is located,

I got my first glimpse of it as our 880 Convair, on its inaugural flight into this part of the world for the rapidly expanding Delta Air Lines, swooped down from 37,000 feet for a landing beside the

The Jamaica Tourist Board took over immediately, escorting us through crowds of native Jamaicans who had gathered to greet us. In an unused portion of the air terminal, members of the board extended to C. E. Woolman, president of Delta, and to Mrs. Woolman and the other 84 members of our party Jamaica's greeting and served the official drink—a Planter's

AND THERE WAS plenty left for seconds because, we learned later, Jamaica produces 2 million gallons of rum annually. Later, tooeverywhere we went - we were greeted first with a glass of rum punch.

Refreshed by tropical rains, the island is indescribably lush and green. As we motored to our hotel, the Colony, the warm Caribbean surf pounded on one side, the wind whistled through a jungle of coco palms and banana trees on the other.

Travel the world over and you will encounter no friendlier people. More than 90 of every 100 persons are Negro, or mixed Negro and white ancestry. Visitors will agree that an unforgettable memory is that of these natives walking along the highway, most of them dressed in bright-colored costumes, waving or speaking a friendly greeting as they pass.

A GREAT MANY of them earn their living in agricultural pursuits, of course, since the island's economy is largely fruit, coffee, sugar cane and tobacco. Miles of sugar cane, ready for cutting, stretch out on either side of the highways, interspersed by coco palms and rice fields, Bananas are everywhere; in fact, Jamaica ranks eighth in banana exports among the countries of the world. Citrus fruits are common, and much of the tobacco grown is manufactured into Jamaicamade cigars, one of the big industries along with rum.

Little did Christopher Columbus know, when he dis-covered Jamaica in 1494, that it would become first a refuge for buccaneers, and later the greatest slave market in the Western Hemisphere, before entering the peaceful way of life it knows today.

Of the 1.6 million people on Jamaica, 300,000 live in Kingston, the capital. Every corner of the island is in-habited. Most American tourists traveling by air spend the greatest part of their time here in Montego Bay, where splendiferous hotels and clubs line the powdered coral strand. Another popular spot is Ocho Rios, 65 miles east of Montego, which boasts such fine hotels as the Silver Seas

Cubans who have found refuge here from the Castro regime. The natives, in fact, never speak of the troubles their neighbors to the north are having. Castro, to them, does not exist, it seems.

Only English is spoken except for a native dialect which is basically English. This is particularly true in areas outside Kingston. Visitors often are surprised to hear natives speak with a marked British accent.

Climate, naturally, is what brings, tourists to Jamaica. The island sits aside the trade winds, which keep days cool. Breezes from the mountains Blue Mountain Peak rises 7,520 feet — keep out the tropic heat at night. In the winter, the average temperature is in the mid-70s; in the summer, in the low 80s.

Sports include golf, tennis, polo, boxing, horseracing and, of course, fishing and such water sports as skin-diving, water skiing and spear-fishing. Rafting is popular on the rivers of the interior. Others go for mountain climbing.

shows from the ranks of their regular employes, and permit their guests to dance to

Some of Europe's finest municipal garages are located in Frankfurt where it is possible to park one's car for about 10 cents an hour. 'Can you tell me what is expected in tips in Germany? And about the money?'

THE WESTMARK (for Western Germany) is roughly 4 to U.S. $1, A 10 per cent charge is added to the restaurant bill. You can leave little loose change, maybe bring it up to 15 per cent.

Hotels add 15 per cent to the entire hotel bill. Better give additional two or three marks to the hall porter-the man who hands you your keys, your mail and makes theater reservations. (This depends a lot on how much you use him.)

A mark per day per couple welcomed by the room maid.

These are city tipping rates, In the country, cut it in half.

"Can you give us advice on tipping in New York?"

Undoubtedly the worst of the world's great cities, Tip-ping in New York has become legal-ized, brow-beating extortion.

It is rather amazing that New Yorkers, who consider themselves most sophisti-cated stand for it. Anyway, here are the going rates:

The bellboy: 50 cents per bag, $1 minimum up to the room, Airport porters charge 35 cents per bag.

The hotel doorman expects 25 cents when he opens the cab door.

The taxi driver will scream insults if you give him less than 25 cents for the ride. All New York hackies consider themselves arbiters of social fashions and heavy philosophers.

Hat check chicks get 25 cents. So do the attendants with the towels in the gentlemen's and ladies' rooms.

Waiters have split them-elves into two tip-groups: Waiter captains and waiters, Split a 15-per-cent-of-the-bill tip for them-5 to the captain. 10 to the waiter. Headwaiters are tipped $5 to $10 if they don't seem to know how long it will take to get a table.

. . how much do you lip in France? Don't they have u service charge?"

THEY DO, indeed, have a service charge 15 per cent (plus 9 per cent tax on hotel bills),

However, the French feel a few francs should be added. (The new Franc is 5 to the U.S. $1) Bring the tip up to 20 per cent and everybody beams. The wine waiter is tipped separately -about a franc a bottle.

Taxi drivers get 10 per cent. Or they will follow you into the hotel to explain the local customs. Half a franc for hat checks, powder rooms, and theater ushers.

There is NO tipping in Ta-hiti. Ask the waitress for a dance instead. And a Merry Christmas to all,

Going Places By SHIRLEY GIND BOB SLOANE

BY JET it is less than four hours between Tokyo and Hong Kong over one of the most heavily plied air routes in the world.

Either way the view of Hong Kong on approaching Kai Tak Airport is one of the most stunning aerial sights in the world. The plane swoops low among the brown hills, and in the sharp tropical light details stand out and envelop the viewer like Cinerama.

The scenes shift and change from stacks of angular apartment houses to dismal slum shacks to the skyscrapers of Victoria City, But dominating all is the twisting, winding harbor and its limitless variety of traffic - the cruise liners, the freighters, the rib-sailed junks, the compact sampans, the chunky ferry boats and the jazzy cabin cruisers.

But most striking of all, there are the floating village of Aberdeen and the cluster of sampans of the Tanka people in the typhoon shelter Yau Ma Tai wharf, a world of its own within this world of its own that is Hong Kong.

THE ORIGINS of the boat people of China are obscure. There are several tribes of them, mostly from Fukien and Canton. Traditionally they live out their lives on sampans in the harbor, making their livelihoods at catching, drying and selling fish or building the graceful, efficiently designed junks that have served Chinese fishermen for centuries. They have their own churches, schools and restaurants affoat.

The largest floating village in Hong Kong and the second largest in China (Canton's is the largest) is at Aberdeen, a town on Hong Kong Island. Here 26,000 people dwell on 4,000 boats in a harbor clutter decorated by colorful showboat-restaurants,

At Yau Ma Tai, for about 30 cents, visitors may do of a balmy tropic evening just what the local citizens dohire a sampan and be poled on a tour of this city on water.

THE BOATS-thousands of them-are lined up in neat rows with main boulevards

by the Sicanes

and side streets. Each is a complete home, decorated with colored prints, red lac-quer shrines, draperies and chintz-covered beds

There are neighborhoods as in any city, including a Suzy Wong district known as Flower Alley, Here the boats are more gaily adorned. On the fantail of each, pajamaed maidens of the evening doze, brush their hair, call coquet-tishly to drifters-by and amuse themselves with portable radios.

Boatloads of families, giggling teen-age girls and leering youth, float through the evening.

A group of musicians glides by. One of them strums a long guitar-like instrument, singing with his eyes closed in the curious undulating falsetto of Cantonese music. There is a violin, a xylophone, and a tambourine slapped by a young girl.

There are floating hot dog and hamburger stands, floating schools and school buses and water taxis, hailed like any taxis. And there are the inevitable teen agers who want their own boats when they turn 14 so they can attach outboard motors to them and zoom around in hot rod sampans, to the dismay of their parents.

This Winter enjoy easy livin' at

Sketchlook

Modern styling is possible with a budget bonus if home furniture is made from easy-to-follow plans.

WOUNG couples setting up housekeeping - or, for that matter, anyone wishing to redecorate a stodgy room - have an advantage unknown a few decades ago. They can furnish much of a home or an apartment in high fashion on a ridiculously low budget. The method, of course, is to build the furniture yourself, says the designer, Ursula M.S. Dadras.

Illustrated are a cocktail table and lounge, both modern and easy to build by following a simple but effective plan,

The table is 40 inches long. 22 inches wide. Lounge plat-form is 71x18½ inches. The Sketchbook plan gives all dimensions and easy-to-follow instructions.

To order, specify Cocktail Table and Lounge Plan S-36 and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Tele-gram, Sixth & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Be a Flower Box Gardener

XPERTS say happiness would be increased if every home was brightened with flowers and every homeowner had a garden, even if it is only a planter box. Serving this obvious need is the planter box pictured below, in quaint design and with a space for magazines at each end. It can be used indoors or out, fitted with standard clay pots or filled with earth for direct planting

The planter is easy to build with a full sized pattern, listing directions and illustrations. To order, specify Planter Pattern No. 274 and send 75 cents in coin, check or money order with name and address to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., PO Box 2383, Vay Nuys, Planter shown with Amy Fields, NBC-TV actress, makes it possible for anyone to be a flower-box gardener.

Q. When did hotels adopt the American and European plans of service? T. L.

A. The American plan (under which guests pay a fixed rate for board as well as for room) goes back to early Co-lonial days, when the guests at the inn ate whatever the landlord and his family happened to have. The European plan of furnishing hotel accommodation; and service, leaving the guest to eat when and where he wishes, originated in France and was introduced here about 1835. Some hotels offer a guest his choice of plans.

Q. Is there more than one kind of "fool's gold"? D. V.

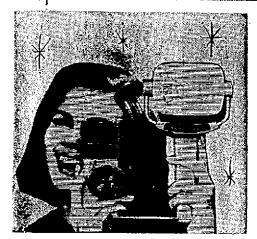

A. The mineral pyrite (iron pyrites), a pale brass-yellow in color, is the one usually called fool's gold. Chalcopyrite (copper pyrites), a deeper yellow, also resembles gold. Flakes of weathered biotite (black mica) washed up in stream gravels are said to look so much like flake gold that they have fooled many finders.

Last of the Hell-for-Leather Pilots

As a matter of fact, all of them pay for this privilege of helping the nation. Cadets buy their own uniforms, pay $1 for books needed in their studies. At the two-week encampment held last summer they shelled out $21. Adults pay $7 a year in dues. Uniforms on the senior level are expensive. Col. Aughton, for example, has $150 invested in his work and dress uniforms.

FOR THIS, the CAP member is allowed to wear Air Force blues (with CAP auxiliary patch), use a government field (a section of the Long Beach airport) and buy goods in the PX (but not cigarettes). The Air Force also has loaned the local group three aircraft.

Despite this, a Long Beach policeman such as Aughton and a Long Beach Douglas security supervisor such as James E. Brady—as a major, he serves as executive officer of the group—consider it no sacrifice to serve in the CAP. With a paternal nod of approval, they point out to visitors that 78 former CAP cadets were in the most recent graduating class at the Air Force Academy in Colorado.

Perhaps, veteran pilot Lt. Bill Raso, a process engineer at Long Beach Douglas, best sums it up when he says: "When I'm out on a rescue, I put myself into the person's place and that I'm downed. In that case, I know I would hope that the CAP would come looking for me."

THE CAP does not store its eggs only in the nests of cadet training and rescue missions. It maintains the world's biggest civilian radio network and, as a result of a recent contract with the state, is designated as California's Paul Revere in the event of nuclear attack.

The California Disaster Office would use the CAP as speedy couriers in civil defense work during emergencies in addition to aerial surveillance of traffic, transport for personnel and supplies, and aerial photography and reconnaissance flights.

Through its more than 1,000 fixed radio stations across the country, the CAP is able to provide vital communication for military and Civil Defense leaders. In the Long Beach area alone, the CAP maintains 15 receiving and sending sets.

Another important function is aerial radiological monitoring. The Long Beach group has one airplane with equipment that could be used to skirt the area to record fallout in case of war. The local CAP group only recently completed a training mission for such radiological monitoring.

The Civil Air Patrol, which marked its 20th anniversary Dec. I, is chartered by the U. S. Congress "to provide aviation education and foster civil aviation in local communities" and serve in times of emergencies.

THEIR BEST tribute comes from their neighboring. Air a Force buddies in the 8646 Air Recovery Group at Long Beach Air Force Base.

Says Maj. Ev Hosking, information officer: "Aeronautically, the CAP fellows are damn good. Militarily, they've got snap and poise.

"More important—they've got drive, they're ready to do a job on a minute's no-

Maj. Hosking adds: "They're the last of the hell-for-leather pilots."

A Gift Could Be a Pet

By Eleanor Avery Price

THERE ARE few gifts you can give your child as rewarding as a pet for Christ-mas. It will give years of pleasure if it is considered a real member of the family and treated with utmost gentleness.

Of course, pick a healthy pet. A kitten or puppy should be bright-eyed, alert, with a shining coat and an air of well-being. Don't consider a shy, apprehensive pet nor one with a runny nose or eyes, dull coat or bloated stomach.

PICTURED WITH this article are five pug puppies, a breed once widely popular and seemingly regaining popularity, Origin of both European and Chinese pugs is wrapped in obscurity, but it seems likely that both are offspring of Chinese ancestors. In England during the reign of William III, the pug was called Dutch pug and was popular among the courtiers and often was decorated with orange ribbons in def-erence to William I of Orange, grandfather of William III, who owed his life to a warning given by one of the breed during a cam-paign against the Spanish. The pug is a clean-limbed toy, responsive, rugged, exuberant, Usual color is silver or apricot-fawn with darker markings; a few rare pugs are black.

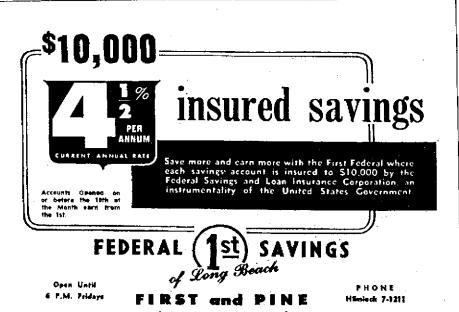

The first day in a new home will be a tiring one for the pet, but if you have prepared a place for him to sleep completely undisturbed, he will adjust quickly. A kitten needs only a basket or box and a litter tray. A puppy needs a draft-free indoor play-pen to protect him from his own impishness yet permit him to watch what is going on. It should contain a sleeping box and newspapers spread flat until he is house-

HAVE AVAILABLE a loud ticking clock to place by the puppy's bed for the first few nights. You can let him sleep near you if you won't mind the problem nights that may follow. Expect some yipping the first night or two. It is the rare puppy that settles down, even on a full stomach.

Make food changes gradually, and feed amounts gauged by what is consumed. Some say it is unwise to pet the puppy when he is eating, but I find the opposite best. You should be able to touch the pup or his food without his growling.

Christmas Movie on a Budget

By Bob Knight

WOU CAN have a whole family Christmas movie on one roll of film-if you plan for it.

Of course, you may like to shoot more freely and use more footage-and far be it from me to discourage your doing this. Christmas is such a wonderful, personal time of the year that you can't have too many pictures.

But, if you're budget-minded this year and want a whole movie for the price of a $2.40 roll of 8mm color film (plus approximately $1.50 for processing), let's imagine a family whose holiday activities revolve about a boy named Billy,

On this single roll of film, you'll be able to get 40 to 50 average length movie shots. Since variety adds interest, you'll want to vary the lengths of your shots, the distance, and the camera angle,

PLAN YOUR script to take in some of the tree decorating and preliminary activities to the actual passing around of gifts. Use your imagination.

To illustrate what we mean. here's a sample excerpt from a simple script (c.u. means closeup shot and m.s. medium shot) of a boy named Billy and his Christmas;

-Billy's hand knocking on parent's door, 3 sec.; c.u.

A Puppy Could Be a Christmas Gift

by Vera Schenck, Japanese spaniel fancier.)

SINCE the puppy dearly loves to rip things apart, take a tip from the gypsies and give him cabbage clumps or roots of non-poisonous plants. (Poisonous ones include elephant car, narcissus, jimson weed, mountain laurel, four o'clock, cyclamen, pim-pernel, lily of the valley, spider lily, rhododendron, bayonet, tulips, monkshood.) I have found that worm-free river driftwood aged until it has become harmless vegetable matter, can be crumbled in your fingers, and is light in weight and non-slivery makes a fine rippable toy.

Housebreaking a puppy is 99 per cent anticipation, Take him outside after awakening. after meals, after play periods, and several other times.

Female puppies are every bit as playful as male. Children should not be too rowdy with any puppy, however, or they may be nursing teeth marks and the pets may develop bad habits.

A light shaking or scolding is far better than a spanking. Never make the puppy afraid of your hands.

THREE NEW developments in the gladiolus field, Ben-Hur, Horizon and Thunderbird, have earned the 1962 rating of All-America Gladiolus Selections

BEN-HUR promises outstanding performance for years to come. Its parentage is Spic & Span and Burma. From Spic & Span, a winner of grand championships in the past decade, comes the consistent ability to produce perfect spikes time after time, and, from Burma, one of the most beautiful glads ever introduced, comes rose color, form and fancy ruffling, The overall effect is a soft, harmonious, medium shade of rose pink. Vigorous, heauty and sound bulbs give assurance of longevity.

HORIZON is noted for its dawn-fresh, pure rose-laven-der color and ease of growth. The large, recurved florets, with their own inherent lustre and sparkling sheen, are formally placed on towering spikes that are remarkably uniform in height and performance. Ten of 26 buds will open at one time. The unusually strong plants produce healthy, plump bulbs.

THUNDERBIRD color is fiery, vibrant, deep persimmon and is of heavy sub-stance and exquisite ruffling. Seven to 10 of 20 or more buds open at one time in precise symmetrical placement on a sturdy spike, and flowers of championship caliber are produced with ease. During the time T-Bird was rigorously tested, it compiled an amazing show record of ten championships and the coveted American Home Magazine Award,

Of special interest to all gladiolus show enthusiasts is the announcement that the ord Motor Co. will award a specially mounted 1962 authentic scale model Thunderbird car to the exhibitor having the best entry of Thunderbird gladiolus at each of approximately 75 gladiolus shows to be held in the United States in 1962.

All-America Gladiolus Selections is a nonprofit organization that tests new originations in gladiolus in 46 trial gardens in U.S. and Canada, seeking high standards by

Many people get a great deal of enjoyment out of growing house plants, especially during the time of year when they cannot work in their gardens,

The pottings soils available from the nurseries are usually so good that few of us bother to mix our own. However, for those who wish to do so, the combination I like best consists of about half leaf mold, the other half good rich loam mixed with a little sand, the sand constituting less than one-third of the mix-

Camellia Show

With camellias at their flowering peak, the interest of cafanciers turns next weekend to the 8th annual Descanso Gardens camellia show at 1418 Descanso Dr. La Canada, Display hours will be from noon to dusk Saturday and from 8 a. m. to dusk Sunday. Admission to the show and the gardens is free at all times.

Exhibitors from throughout Southern California will-be represented with Japonica camellias, now at their peak, and camellia reticulata, just starting their season. Des-canso Gardens, a facility of the Los Angeles County Department of Arboreta and Botanic Gardens, has more than 1,000 camellia bushes, most of which will be in bloom during the show period. The grounds will be open at 8 Saturday but judging will keep the show area closed until noon.

MILES ARNOLD Chicken Every Sunday

CENIUS is a word that should not be casually applied. It should be reserved for inventors, mathematicians, poets and possibly (when you really need one) for plumbers. It also can be used occasionally to describe a restaurateur.

In one area of his life Miles Arnold is definitely a genius. Owner of Arnold's Farm House, 6601 Manchester Blvd., Buena Park, and Arnold's Town House, 3925 Atlantic Ave., he is the wizard who revolutionized the cafeteria business half a dozen years ago. He was so successful he has since been imitated by other restaurant men throughout Southern California.

Analyzing why people go out to eat, Arnold decided they wanted excellent quality food, plenty of salads, brisk counter service and also waitress service at their tables. When he supplied those elements, people flocked to his restaurants by the hundreds and have continued to do so ever since.

At his huge Farm House restaurant in Buena Park, Arnold offers 17 varieties of salads at a long gleaming glass counter. Patrons ordering his complete dinner (priced from $1.60) receive not one salad, not just two, but three. They also enjoy a potato, vegetable, beverage and roll and butter. Among the many entrees offered are Arnold's famed round of roast beef, tender, juicy and flavorful; baked ham, filet of northern halibut and fried chicken.

Each day additional entrees are offered, such as leg of lamb, Swiss steak or roast turkey. On Sundays, for example, the special entree is chicken and dumplings ($1.70), an item so popular that people drive from towns many miles away in order to feast upon it. Closed Mondays, the Farm House is open daily from 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m.

PERSONALITY PARADE

If you have a question on a personality, send it to Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Avc., N. Y. 17, N. Y. Names will be used unless otherwise requested. PARADE cannot reply individually to questions.

Q. Henry Fonda is scheduled to do a TV spectacular on the American family. Can you tell me how many times Fonda has been married?—Mrs. Roland McGill, Levittown, N. Y.

A. Four times.

Q. What's happened to the late Aly Khan's girl friend, Bettina?—Anna Levin, Newark, N. J.

A. She's gone into the dress business, opened a shop in Paris on the Place Gastand called "Bettina."

Q. Where is Mrs. Bruno Richard Hauptmann, whose husband was executed for kidnapping the Lindbergh baby?—T. R., Trenton, N. J.

A. Mrs. Hauptmann was living in Kamenz, Germany, in 1954, then moved to Bautzen. Since both cities are in the East Zone, occupied by the Russians, no news has been forthcoming of Mrs. Hauptmann.

Q. Which book is the all-time best-seller in the U.S.P— Dorothy West, Oakland, Calif.

A. The Holy Bible. Since 1900, about 500,000,000 copies have been sold.

Q. Would you please tell me the real name of Dean Martin and where he was born?—Virginia Benzek, Chicago, Ill.

A. Dino Crocetti, Steubenville, Ohio.

Q. Does former Vice President Nixon send his two daughters to private or public schools?—Loren Lundigan, Buffalo, N. Y.

A. The Nixon girls go to Marlborough, a private school in Los Angeles.

Q. Who succeeds the President and Vice President of the U.S. should they both die in office? — B. Beer, Columbus, Ohio.

A. The Speaker of the House. Prior to the Presidential Succession Act of 1947, the Secretary of State was third in line, but no longer.

Q. Recently Art Linkletter was stopped near Bakersfield at the beginning of dove-hunting season with 124 doves. What was the penalty? — Steve Giacomazzi, Hartford, Calif.

A. No truth whatever to that story. Linkletter never goes hunting, probably wouldn't recognize a dove if he saw one.

Q. Does the Duke of Windsor still own a large cattle ranch in Canada?—Charles Coulter, Seattle, Wash.

A. A few weeks ago the Duke of Windsor announced through his ranch manager that he was prepared to sell his real estate near High River, Alberta, which he has owned for 42 years.

Q. I would like to ask if Dorothy Provine is married. Also what is her age, and is that her real name? — Debbie Griffin, Madison, Wisc.

A. Miss Provine is 24. She is not married and does use her real name.

Q. For 15 years I've been trying to get the answer to this question: How come in 1941, nine hours after news reached General MacArthur in the Philippines that the Japanese had attacked Pearl Harbor, almost all our aircraft in the Philippines were lined up like sitting ducks on the airfields of Luzon waiting to be destroyed by Japanese bombers—and they were, too. Who was responsible for this shocking negligence and why have the American people never been told the full truth?—P. B., Fort Bragg, N. C.

A. Congress has investigated every aspect of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, has reported on the alleged poor judgment of the Army and Navy officers then and there in command—but it has never investigated what happened in the Philippines on December 8, 1941 or apportioned blame for military inceptness there.

Q. Why does Carol Burnett of the Garry Moore Show rub her finger under her nose or twitch her ear at the end of the show? Is she giving some secret message to some one?—Jo Szymanski, Richmond Hill, N. Y.

A. It's a sign to relatives back home that she's OK.

Q. What was Premier Nikita Khrushchev's position in the Communist Party during the regime of Josef Stalin?
—Adrian Gitana, U.S.Navy.

A. Khrushchev was the party's first secretary in the Ukraine, also a member of the presidium of the U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet.

Q. Please tell me if Miss Norma Shearer ever remarried after being widowed, and also how old she is.—Mrs. Nicholas Stanislo, Dayton, Ohio.

A. Miss Shearer, 57, is the wife of one-time ski instructor Marti Arrouge, whom she married in 1942 six years after the death of her first husband, producer Irving Thalberg.

'HOW I GOT AN ISLAND-FREE'

Waving sign, family landing party sweeps ashare for official naming of the Mississippi River Island. "discovered" by Mrs. Dorathy Duncan Storer. Legal technicalities forced her to choose the name "Darty" instead of first choice. "Dorow's instead of first choice. "Dorow's kiff. Storers have no boar of their own.

Birth of an Island is reaced in these two aerial photos. In 1955 photo above, faint pinptick of sand is taking shape in bend of the Mississippi. In lower photo, taken in 1960, the sand dot has grown to elongated baseball mitt shape, and boasts trees and scrub vegetation. Changing currents formed Island, a common occurrence in Mississippi. It continues to grow and today is a mile and a half long.

by SID ROSS and ROSALIND MASSOW

MEMPHIS, TENN.

THERE'S THIS ISLAND, you see.

In 1954, it didn't exist. Then in 1955 it showed up on maps—a tiny pinprick of sand in a bend of the Mississippi 10 miles north of here. By 1958 official aerial photos showed it was growing. In 1960, it sprouted willow trees. Today the island is a mile official aerial photos showed it was growing. In 1960, it sprouted willow trees. Today the island is a mile and a half long and 15 feet above low water—a genuine, tangible, brand-new parcel of real estate.

Then there's this housewife.

Her name is Dorothy Duncan Storer. She's 37, the wife of a surgeon, mother of three children, bulwark of the PTA and a Sunday school teacher. For a long time, she had nursed a great dream that her family should own some land.

This is the oddball story of how Dorothy Storer practically over the dead bodies of half of Tennessee officialdom—came to be sole owner of the Mississippi's new island—and she got it free.

It all began innocently enough, sometime last spring. Dorothy got to thinking about her urge for property. "All my life," she recalls, "I've been a dogoder and now I wanted to be a capitalist. There's a lot of barren, unused, useless land around, so I decided I'd try to find some of this non-productive land and develop it into something useful and productive.

"I figured I could make some money out of it and give people work, too. I thought maybe I'd grow pine trees on it, or something like that."

One day Dorothy was wistfully explaining her land hunger to a friend, John Spence. Spence immediately told her about the sport of Mississippi land-claiming.

Islands, Dorothy learned, are always being formed and washed away in the broad Mississippi. Most of them, mere slivers of sand, don't last long. But some accrete into "towheads"—sandbars with trees—and others grow into permanent pieces of real estate, which can be purchased, developed and used. The trick is to find one that is new and looks as though it might be around awhile, then to buy it or claim it.

Exploring Old Maps

This sounded exciting—"and intellectually interesting," as Dorothy puts it. "The next day," she recalls, "I set out for the U.S. Army Engineers' office in West Memphis and went to their map room. I told them what I was doing. They gave me a pile of old and new maps and let me study them.

"Right away I struck a prospect. It was an itty-bitty sandbar in the river between Mile 742 and 743—that's the way they measure and locate things in the Mississippi. The actual geography of the island places it at 35 degrees, 17 minutes North Longitude; 90 degrees, 6 minutes West Latitude. It was obviously new. The only question was whether someone else had claimed it."

Dorothy bought a book of maps, a sheaf of aerial photos, 10 surveyors' quadrangles, hired a lawyer. Almost immediately it became apparent she had stumbled onto something. No one seemed to have claimed the island. She went back to the Engineers six times to re-check and even to the Engineers' real estate office. There was no record.

"For the first time," she says, "my husband and children got real excited. Up to now, they had been tolerant of me, but now they all began to talk about it.

"My daughter Susan, who's 14, started on a science project to learn what might grow on such an island. Scott—he's 8—decided we could raise minnows. We had long discussions about what to name the island."

When Dorothy found that the Army Engineers had built dikes on the east bank of the river opposite the island, shifting the main channel to the west, that was the deciding factor. It looked like the island—which was now under eight feet of water—might be protected in the future.

"I didn't know," Dorothy recalls, "whether the island ever would appear again. Every morning when I woke I would ask how high the water was." Nonetheless, she went ahead with plans. The island, as it turned out, is under water three months of the year.

The problem now was to take title to the island. State laws and regulations regarding islands are a be-wildering jungle, she found. In Tennessee and Arkansas, title stays with the state. In Missouri, counties hold title. In Mississippi, private owners may own "any land that appears from the shore to the thread of the stream." "Thread" is the deepest part of the channel.

Dorothy was satisfied that, due to a shift in the river channel, both banks were in Tennessee, so that state owned the island. She immediately launched a campaign to claim the land.

She started by writing the Tennessee administrator of property services and offering to pay $76 (a figure she arrived at simply by plucking it out of the air) for the island. After a few days, she got a letter back couched in tones usually reserved for addressing a child. Tennessee didn't think it owned the island, the

Then, Dorothy checked with local title companies. They could find no record of ownership of an island 10 miles north of Memphis.

Next she decided to establish her claim by paying Shelby County taxes on the land. The tax collector acted "like she was tetched." If you don't have a title, he reasoned, how can you get an assessment? So Dorothy wrote to the state again, asking for a quitclaim, by which Tennessee would voluntarily surrender the property. This time a huffy letter came back saying in effect, "Couldn't you understand us the last time around?"

Officials in Circles

But these rebuffs only made Dorothy more determined. "I wasn't going to give up just because all the officials were going around in circles," she says. "I heard about the old English common law that possession of unclaimed property could be gained in seven years by the claimant's occupying it openly. I posted a notice on the Shelby County Court House bulletin board and sent out copies to the State Land Commission, county tax assessor, county trustees and U.S. Engineers."

Her notice read:

"I wish it known that I, Dorothy D. Storer, having by my own efforts located a newly formed island in the Mississippi River... which is above the mean low water and is clearly in the State of Tennessee... having exhausted means open to ordinary citizens of limited means to purchase title from the State and County of Shelby, or to find a person paying taxes on said island, I hereby want it known that I plan to establish title by holding it publicly and notoriously and to use it for agriculture... If anyone knows good reason why I should not put Dorothy's Island to good use and pay the taxes that should be paid on it, let them speak now or forever hold their peace."

To date no one has spoken.

Meanwhile, Dorothy and lier family paid their first visit to the low-lying island. The whole family, except 14-year-old Susan, who preferred to go horse-back-riding, piled into a borrowed aluminum skiff with outboard motor and chugged out into the river.

"We just wanted to see whether it was really there," Dorothy said. "I sat at the bow and looked at the maps. I didn't know if we could even find the island or what it looked like. I watched for landmarks while my husband Ed steered.

"The closer we got the more excited we were. Finally we saw this low sandbar thing—it looked like part of the bank at first. But the closer we got, the bigger it got and it had the right configuration. It was my island!

"We felt like Christopher Columbus. We beached the boat, and my husband jumped out. He got his feet wet. When I stepped on that sand, I guess I struck a pose and leaped high in the air with joy. My island, my own island! We really carried on.

"We estimated that it was about 75 acres, but later found it was more. It was pretty barren with only one sycamore tree. The willows had washed away, but I didn't care. It was really there, not just something on a piece of paper."

'Island Dorty'

But Dorothy hasn't taken possession of the island without one last tussle with bureaucracy. After long and exhaustive conferences, the family decided to name the place "Dorothy's Island." The new owner wrote to the Department of Interior's Board of Geographic Names to register the name. She got back a legalistic reply which said no island could be named for a living person. At the suggestion of Scott, it became "Island Dorty—it rhymes with Island Forty." (Island Forty is a well-known Mississippi landmark.)

Now, with the red tape finally tied up, the family is husy making plans about what to do with the island. There's talk of using the island for farming or camping out. But Island Dorty's new owner doesn't always listen to these practical discussions. Instead, she gets a faraway look in her eyes. Why? Well, there's this other island in the Mississippi, you see, and it's . . .

WHAT CAN YOU GROW on a sandy island that's under water three months a year, in a generally warm, moist climate? Mrs. Dorothy Storer, no farmer, is considering a crop of willow trees or barbaseo root, a tropical herb used in making drugs. But she would like further suggestions from Parade readers. If you know of a cash crop that might flourish under such conditions, write her at 3312 Homewood Drive, Memphis, Tenn.

You can't believe what you see

HOLLYWOOD.

AT A TIME WHEN almost every woman wants to lose inches (below the waist, at least) it's difficult to believe that there are thousands of women who want to add a few.

One man who became profitably aware of this fact a few years ago is Fred Mellinger, 47, founder of Frederick's of Hollywood, which specializes in a variety of padded girdles with such catch titles as Sitzappeal, Glad Paddy, Hidden Flattery, and The Living End. These padded foundation garments are meticulously engineered for the woman who doesn't have enough to go around her hip-line. She is a victim of what Mellinger describes as "derrière deficiency."

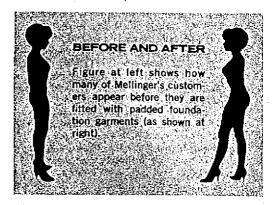

Apparently there are thousands of such women, many of them Orientals—Mellinger receives a good portion of his orders from Hawaii and the Far East—who want to be rounded out in the right places. In a world where the girls are forever mascarading behind false eyelashes, bleached hair, layers of rouge, cakemakeup, eye-shadow, wigs, and falsies, the padded girdle is simply one more innovation in modern woman's attempt to achieve physical perfection.

"The idea for the padded girdle came to Mr. Frederick (as he's called in the business) about four years ago," explains his assistant Helene Peterman, "when he saw women in his retail stores trying to fill up the space for curves in the dresses he was then selling. We had padded bras to take care of their fronts but nothing to add curves to the flat bottom or bony hips. Right then Mr. Frederick went to work with foam rubber—what a marvelous invention that is—and after much cutting and fitting, came up with garments which add curves in different places, just over the fanny or the hip bones or both spots. The shaped foam-rubber pads are located in pockets permanently sewn into the girdles and are easily removed when the garment is laundered."

Big-but Curvy

Women write in from everywhere—not only small, tiny, thin, undersized women but even those who are enormous. For example, one woman wrote: "I'm very, very wide but, unfortunately, straight and wide. If I'm going to be big, I might as well be big and curvy, so could you fix me up with a padded girdle for a 40-inch waist?"

Mellinger says his business zoomed from failure

Born on New York's Lower East Side, son of an immigrant tailor, Mellinger at 17 went to work as an office boy in a mail-order firm. He started his own business after the war, sold his merchandise right from the door to make ends meet, then realized that what women wanted most was "to appear sexy to their husbands and boy friends."

Well-grounded in foundation garments, Mellinger decided to specialize in these. He created a blow-up brassiere which the customer inflates according to the size she desires. He then perfected a bra called the "in-up pushup" which has an angled pad and provides a woman with her own cleavage.

Then came his padded girdles, and business skyrocketed. Today Mellinger has a multi-million dollar business and is about to franchise others to operate Frederick's stores across the nation.

Having made various surveys, he knows a good deal about his customers, most of whom fall into two age brackets: between 16 and 25 and between 30 and 40.

"There's a lull between the two groups," he explains. "The young teenager wants to look glamorous and then the gal of 30 who probably is married and has had her children—she wants to regain her shape and keep her husband interested."

Mellinger provides his customers with a shape insurance policy in which he guarantees that a Frederick's garment "will improve your figure or you get your money back." And of course, he is sworn to secrecy.

Recently he received a letter from an army coloncl in Louisiana. "I am going with a young woman," the colonel wrote, "who regularly receives your catalog. I went through it the other night and was bug eyed and speechless as I saw your illustrations of padded bosoms, padded hips, false derrières. You are indeed a master of black magic. Before I propose to my girl friend, would you be kind enough to let me know if her attractive curves, both fore and aft, are true or false?"

Like a telephone operator asked for her private number, Mellinger's assistant wrote: "I am sorry but we cannot give out that type of information." You get the matchless standard of built-in quality...

Three prisoners from "Operation Youth" talk to students of Kailua High School in a Honolulu suburb. Meeting was so successful school asked men back.

'DON'T BE LIKE US'

These convicts are part of a new program to keep youngsters out of trouble

by BARBARA PROCK

THE YOUNG MAN who stood before the student body was handsome, poised, well educated. He was young, still in his

Just a few years before he himself had been an undergraduate on this same campus, popular with classmates and teachers, leader of his class scholastically. Eight scholarships to college awaited him when he graduated.

But instead of a college degree, he had earned a court conviction; instead of a family, he had only the companionship of prisoners. He was a convicted burglar.

Even as he talked, a prison official sat unobtrusively nearby. Ten long terms stretched ahead of him. And the only reason he was back at his alma mater was to warn the students from the kind of success he had won.

Pranksters or Prisoners?

The young man is a member of Operation Youth, an organization of inmates at Oahu prison here whose aim is to keep juvenile pranksters from becoming adult prisoners. Its handful of members, whose sentences -range from ten years to life and whose crimes include everything from narcotics violations to rape and murder, visit schools, clubs, service organizations and PTA groups,

They introduce themselves, tell why they're doing time and for how long, talk about prison life. They answer as best they can any questions thrown at them by the audience—usually made up of teenagers and young adults.

Operation Youth was born in 1956, the idea of the Rev. William Steeper, who had arrived in Hawaii a few years before from his native Canada. One of a group of ministers who took turns conducting Sunday evening services at the prison, Steeper eventually was asked to return during the week to talk with some of the inmates about the problems that troubled them.

"We talked about a boy in my parish who had been caught stealing," the minister recalls, "about another who was showing signs of getting into real trouble, and always I asked the men for their advice on how such youngsters could be helped. What I was trying to do, of course, was to build up their self-confidence. I knew that if they could give, they would be better able to receive."

Breaking the Ice

Soon Steeper asked if he might bring others to share the sessions. The first were high school boys from his Sunday school.

Embarrassed and shy, they hesitated to question the prisoners, and the prisoners in turn didn't know how to break the ice.

Finally a thirteen-year-old asked a prisoner, "How long are you in for?"

"What for?" "Murder,"

There was a shocked silence, then the boy blurted, "You don't look like a murderer."

In the laughter that followed, men and boys relaxed, and before the meeting ended Steeper and the prisoners knew they had stumbled on something important.

They convinced officials to let them go outside the prison to talk with groups that invited them. The Rev. Steeper quietly spread the word through a few schools and community groups, and slowly, without fanfare or publicity, the men started going out into the community to carry their message and their warnings.

The men prefer to talk to teenagers, particularly those who are headed for trouble, and look forward to their frequent sessions at the detention home, where youthful offenders are kept until they go to court.

The men of Operation Youth try to speak honestly. When they disagree on a particular problem, they admit their differences and explain that they speak only from personal experience and that each individual must judge for himself what is right.

Only once have they been unable to capture the attention of a group. These were young toughs who had been tangling with the police with increasing frequency and who were obviously headed for serious trouble.

"Just the kind of kids who really needed to listen," the men point out.

Realistic Advice

The advice they give is realistic and to the point. In one recent session a youngster asked, "What do I do when someone comes looking for a fight?"

"If there's a principle involved, stand up and fight. If he's just looking for trouble; say 'Okay. You win' and walk away."

"What if he calls me vellow?"

"Tell him again he wins."

"What if someone tries to hijack my "Report him. If he comes back and beats you up, fight him. Maybe you take a beating, maybe you don't but you lose anyway, whether you report him or not."

The group's slogan is a paraphrase of the famous observation about the bent twig: "It is easier to build youngsters than to mend

That these men, some of whom were as tough as any prisoner ever to enter Oahu prison, have mended themselves enough to be able to advise a youngster to walk away from a fight is an indication of the success of Operation Youth.

Kids—Not Statistics

There is, obviously, no sure way to measure how big a success, for the youngster who heeds the warning will never become a statistic on a police report. But the fact that they are working without visible rewards doesn't bother the men.

"If we can just talk to enough of these kids, particularly the ones who need it most, we're bound to be successful," they believe. "We'll probably never be able to point to a particular kid and say, 'We saved him,' but we'll know there are such kids someplace and that's good enough for us."

"These men probably have more to offer in combating juvenile delinquency than anyone else in the city," the Rev. Steeper points out, "if they can just get to the right groups at the right time."

"We're no heroes," the prisoners say flatly, "and we don't want kids thinking we are. It's all right for them to like us. We're just trying to make sure they won't BE like us."

Flowing slides: You can give still pictures some of the continuity of movies with a new slide projector. Composed of two separate optical systems, it works at the touch of a remote control button to "fade out" one slide from the screen while "fading in" another. It's also said to make possible double-exposure and other unusual effects. For complete details, write Bell & Howell, Dept. PP, 7100 McCormick Road, Chicago 45, Ill.

Something new in a dustpan: This one has a deep well trap in back that catches and hold all sweepings, even liquids. Its feathered plastic edge hugs the floor to make pick-up of fine dust easy. And the pan sits by itself on the floor so you have both hands free for the broom and no need for bending. In pink, yellow or turquoise. 79¢. Beeline Products, Dept. PP, Terminal Sales Building, Portland 5, Ore.

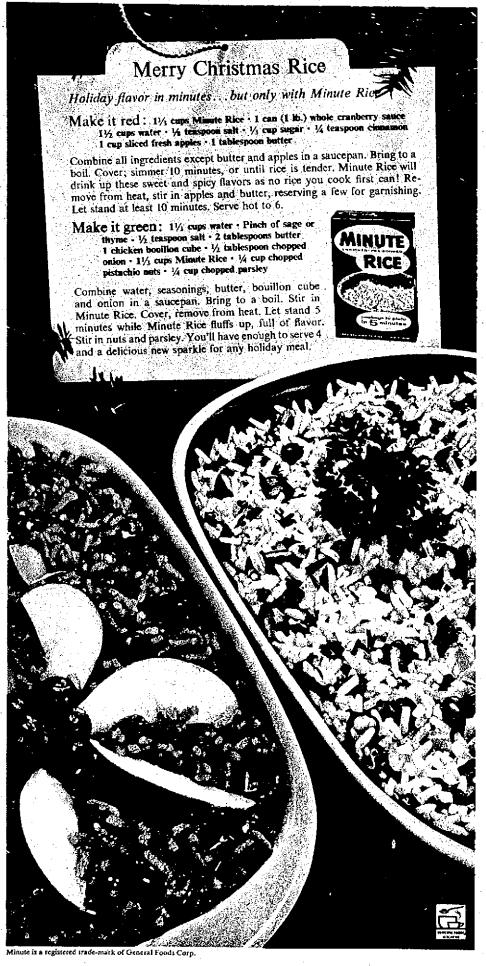

For the stairs: Newest kind of stair tread is made of rubber but looks like wood. An embossed oak grain—in light or medium shade—provides a striking oak-like appearance, yet the tread, like any rubber type, is easy to install and simple to maintain. Special colors can be obtained by use of wood stains and wax. In 18", 24" and 36" lengths and in curved nose and full riser styles, from 89¢. Crown Rubber, Dept. PP, 1615 Croghan St., Fremont, O.

Pedal extender: Slipped onto the gas pedal of your car, a new 7" x 2" steel platform with a black rubber top adds 2 inches to pedal height. It's said to make driving more comfortable, especially for short people and women wearing high heels. Installs in seconds, fits all pedals 1" to 3" in width. $1.98. Eezee-On, Inc., Dept. PP, 1205 New York Ave., Union City, N.J.

Portable bridge set: Open as shown below, here's a standard bridge set of table and four chairs. But when you fold the table's legs and top, it becomes a 34" x 17" x 5½" deep case—with clasp lock and handle—that holds the four folding chairs for easy storage and portability. Useful for patio, picnics or camping. All aluminum, the complete set weighs 22 lbs. About $29.95. For details: Caschome Co., Dept. PP, 4598 East 10th Lane, Hialeah, Fla.

Margaret, 18, and Bannie, 10, brother Walter, 10. At right Maria arrives for Miss America Ball.

MISS AMERICA COMES HOME

ASHEVILLE, N.C.

Waria Beale Fletcher, 19 (see Cover), was chosen Miss America last September, it was news to the rest of the country, but it was no surprise to the people of this mountain city.

"The others just took a long time to catch up with us," one of Maria's neighbors declared proudly.

With this tone of fond, I-told-you-so admiration, Asheville turned out recently for Maria's first visit home since she won the nation's top beauty crown. They gave her a tumultuous welcome.

Nearly 3000 persons were at the airport to greet her. And—as these photos show—for the next three days she was in demand by everyone in town for personal appearances, parades, banquets. Yet Asheville never forgot that Maria was the city's favorite daughter, home for just a little while. They wanted her three days to be as much a personal reunion with friends as a triumphal return.

Thus Miss America got her first opportunity since her sudden leap to fame to catch her breath. She could talk to her parents until 3 a.m., rekindle old acquaintanceships, even spend a few minutes by herself. "Ever since the contest, it's been one thing after another," Maria says. "Thad no idea how really hectic it was to be Miss America. But don't get me wrong—I adore it. It's just that every now and then I need a little time with Maria Beale Fletcher."

"This is my town," declares Maria, "and I love it." She showed it by scrapping the rigid schedule that had governed her actions ever since the pageant. When she was asked to crown the Homecoming Queen at Lee Edwards High School but not at Reynolds High, her alma mater, she balked. She insisted on going to Reynolds too. When her timetable left no time for church on Sunday, she ignored it and went to worship with her friend the Rev. Mark Hopkins.

Aping the Frogman

The limelight is nothing new to Maria, who made her first stage appearance—unheralded—at age 2. "My wife and I were in a USO show," recalls her father, Beale, a former entertainer who now runs a dancing school, "and we left her in care of the performer who went on before us, a fellow called Leroy the Frogman. One night in Baltimore Leroy let her slip away from him. Maria toddled out on stage and did her own stifflegged version of the frogman. She completely nudged Peg and me out of the spotlight."

When she was 7, Maria won her first contest. She sang "Molly Malone" in the Mountain Youth Jamborce, an annual Asheville event, and took first prize. She came back to the Jamborce ten years more and won prizes nine times. Then she went off to New York to dance as a Radio City Music Hall Rockette. Last summer, she returned home to enter the Miss Asheville contest. She won that, won the Miss North Carolina contest, and with this title went on to Atlantic City.

She'll Study Drama

Ironically, Maria won't have much time with her friends in Asheville in the future. After her three-day respite, she set off on a new whirl of public appearances, fashion shows, luncheons, dinners. When her regime ends next fall, Maria will use her $10,000 scholarship to study drama—"probably," she says, "in the Pasadena Playhouse or somewhere like that."

She doesn't plan to accept any of the modeling or movie offers that have followed in the wake of the contest. "I have a lot to learn before I think about a career," she says.

And whatever she does, the home folks in Asheville will be watching. "That's our girl," says one confident Maria Fletcher booster. "Miss America? Why, that's only the beginning of what we expect from Maria."

Maria speaks at home-town banquet; intent faces testify to her eloquence.

CONCHESS killed the federal aid to education bill and I don't blame them. If it's one thing those fellas have to worry about, it's educated voters.

I THINK those record companies are going too far.
Did you hear that new one just out?—ALBERT SCH-WEITZER SCHWINGS.

KHRUSHCHEV says he cannot and will not stop nuclear testing until complete disarmament is agreed on. Like we've known all along—this boy waves the olive branch like it was a club... Strontium 90 has quadrupled in the last 24 hours. Merrill Lynch is getting calls from people wanting to buy some... This fall-out scare is really lousing up those health instructors on TV. They're saying: "All together now—breathe deep!" And nobody'll do it!...

I DON'T BLAME our Indians for being discouraged. They were the only ones ever to be conquered by the United States and not come out ahead.

THE WAY THINGS ARE COING, I can't imagine why all these Martians want to be taken to our leaders. They're gonna learn something?

IN CASE of atomic attack, don't panie. Go to your local finance company, take out a $25,000 loan, then relax. They'll make sure nothing happens to you!

WENT OUT to the art museum to look at the Rembrandts. What a genius this man was! Can you imagine what he could have done if he had numbers to follow?

I'WON'T SAY the railroads are in trouble—but what do you wanna bet, come 1980, this country'll have 8,000,000 station wagons and no stations!

ONE COLLEGE is doing so well with football, they're de-emphasizing education.

YOU CAN'T WIN. Last week I got into the office a half hour early every morning. Friday, the boss comes over and asks me if I'm having trouble at home.

I WANNA KNOW when Kennedy is gonna deal with the biggest surphis of them all—bigger than wheat, bigger than corn, bigger than butter—wire coat hangers!

THEN THERE'S the ten-year-old with problems. She wants to know when she'll be old enough not to wear lipstick like the rest of the girls.

I DON'T KNOW why everybody's criticizing our foreign policy. We're still getting along with Bermuda.

MY WIFE'D BE A BEATNIK right now if it wasn't for one thing—she can't find a leotard size 46!

YOU THINK Khrushchev's mad now—wait'll he hears about that picture, Nikki, Wild Dog of the North!

IGET PHILOSOPHICAL about money and the stock market—like there's plenty more where that went! ... I'll say this about the market, though—it's creating a whole new class in America, the nouveau poor.

I HEAR they sighted a Russian scientific observation ship off Cape Canaveral—secretly trawling for fish.

YOU DON'T KNOW what fear is until you've danced the tango with a girl wearing pointed shoes.

WE KEEP TALKING about co-existence with Russia, but I wonder if co-existence isn't what a farmer does with the turkey—until Thanksgiving Day.

THE TWIST is really creating an interesting phenomenon. For the first time in history, clothes are being worn out from the inside.

Our chips are great, if you can stand the noise.

We have received several letters of complaint recently about the loudness of our chips. In reply we say: A noisy potato chip is a crispy potato chip. And conversely, a quiet potato chip is a soggy potato chip. That's life. If you want crisp, fresh, crunchy, delectable potato chips, you must accept the noise. Otherwise, be doomed to a potato chip-less life. (Horrible fate.) In all fairness to our selves, we did conduct a little scientific experiment to turn down the noise level of our chips. We tried a quieter potato, a quieter

cooking oil, a quieter salt, a quieter secret ingredient, a quieter cooking method, a quieter wrapping, even quieter salesmen. But when the noise went, the crispness went. So we've given up—unless you have any sugges tions. Until further notice, then, Laura Schider's potatoichips will remain the noisiest chips in the world. Therefore we make just one request, If you eat Laura Schider's potato chips, chips for dips or barbecue chips after 11.0 clock at night, please try to chew softly. LAURA SCUDDER'S of the Seattle Times. The firm building the Seattle mono-rail is the same one which constructed the famous Disneyland monorail. It also is the firm which offered to finance and build a 14-mile "backbone" line along Wilshire Bouleward into downtown Los Angeles—a proposal turned down by the Metropolitan Transit Authority. The city of Long Beach has authorized City Manager John Mansell to negotiate with the MTA on the possibility of running a monorail line from here to San Fernando Valley.

Look for our barbecus chips, potato chips and chips for dips in their bright new bags.

Seattle World's Fair to Be Monorail Test Site

By STANTON H. PATTY

The Seattle World's Fair next year may determine whether monorail is an answer to rapid-transit needs.

A one-mile, high-speed monorail line is nearing completion now between downtown Seattle and the fairgrounds at a cost of $4,200,000.

There will be two four-car electric trains capable of speeds up to 70 miles an hour.

This is the first rapid-transit-system prototype monorail built anywhere in the world. Previous installations have been confined to the dips and curves of amusement parks and test tracks in Europe.

The Seattle monorail is being financed by Alweg Rapid Transit Systems of Washington State, Inc., a unit of the industrial empire of the late Swedish industrialist Axel Wenner-Gren.

The sponsors are frank to say that the monorail is an exhibit for possible future sales of monorail systems-

Municipal transportation officials from all over the United States will be in Seattle during the fair to judge the monorail's performance.

Will it live up to its advance billing? Will it be noisy? Will it be dependable? How much will it cost to

chain of 144 precast, prestressed concrete beams sup-ported by T-shaped pylons about 15 feet above street

The monorail cars will ride on rubber tires atop a

So far the installation has been smooth-smoothe than anyone in Seattle expected.

The beamway sections have fit together without a hitch. Automobile traffic has been hindered only slightly during the construction. Merchants and apartment-house operators along the route have been promised that the monorail will make no sound other than the "whoosh" of a conventional transit bus passing by.

The monorail system now is about 90 per cent complete. First testing of the trains is planned in about mid-January. The trains, being manufactured in West Ger-

President, Wife in Venezuela Capital

By STEWART HENSLEY

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)-President Kennedy got his South American visit off to a triumphal start Saturday with a festive reception unmarred by incidents. Later in the day his helicopter had to land twice, once on a high-way, on a flight from the interior to Caracas because of bad weather.

Kennedy received a festive, flag-waving welcome to the capital and was protected from any potential Commu-nist troublemakers by the tightest security measures ever undertaken for an American president.

HIS HELICOPTER and the one carrying Mrs. Kennedy both later had to set down twice on the flights from Maracay to Caracas because

The first stop was made on some thought of transferring the Kennedys to that.

However, after about three minutes on the ground, the helicopter pilots received word from an advance helicopter that the weather ahead was clearing, and took off again.

BUT THEY had to land again because of rain and clouds surrounding the mountains. They put down this time at La Sucre Airport, on the edge of Caracas, before proceeding to centrally lo-cated La Carlota Airport.

L.a.C. Says: Were You Here Then?

An interesting chart shows how few adults today had any experience in the great economic changes that occurred a generation ago. Most of these present adults were given an education as concerns what happened to the economy of Greece and Rome 2,000 years ago. But there is a question if they realize what has happened to their own country during the last 30 years. And it is asked how would they react if the same conditions again occurred—as they may be expected to do.

The chart shows that 79.5 per cent of all present ndults had no experience in the great stock market crash of 1929 and the 10-year depression that followed. Many of them think of the New Deal as something that stepped into the depression and quickly solved most of the problems. The measures passed then are today important factors in our economic and social lives.

For the past decade we have seen an almost continual rise in stock market prices. In the series of recessions we have seen the Dow-Jones averages drop 20 to 25 per cent only to recover and rise to new highs. But the 1929 drop was catastrophic and it took many years to regain its losses-some stocks have only regained the 1929 levels during the past few years. But a large percentage of investors seem to think such losses could never again be incurred. But these adults who lived through those days know it can happen again.

We are alarmed today over having about 6 per cent of our civilian labor force unemployed. But a third of our adults can remember the time when we had 25 per cent of them out of work. This was at the depth of the 1930's depression after President Rooseyelt closed the banks and put the New Deal into effect. Unemployment was to be eliminated and prosperity was to be assured for all. But for the next seven years unemployment was never below 14 per centdouble what it is today. Only the start of World War II brought it down.

Since then we have lived under a war economy. World War II, then the Korean War, and since then, the cold war. A large portion of our production is War materials. We have not had a normal peacetime economy during the last 23 years. The largest employment factor in California is the military personnel and missile and aircraft industries. The great majority of our labor force, including executives, know no other economy.

These last 30 years have seen the purchasing value of the dollar shrink by more than half. It has seen the farmer subsidized and surpluses pile up faster than warehouses will hold them. We have drifted far toward socialism. But it has come during a period of war economy when everyone had more money to meet the "welfare state" programs and inflation. But it would be well for all the young adults of today to carefully analyze what has happened during these three decades of change. It would better prepare them for what could happen again. And it might cause them to do something about the philosophies that are urging us further on this road to a totalitarian state.-L.A.C.

New Dispute Offing on Imports

HOUSTON, Tex. UP-The new dispute over oil imports involves an old and very tick-lish problem.

Various segments of the United States oil industry have been at odds over imports at least 35 years.

International implications haved dictated cautious ac-tions by the White House, Congress, and governmental agencies.

The intensity of the dispute has risen and fallen over the years with the status of domestic supply and demand. Restrictions on imports have been sought during periods of lagging domestic demand. Such requests have been forgotten during years of boom ing demand.

THE CURRENT imports clamor coincides with a world-wide oil surplus that got under way in 1957 after the end of the Sucz Canal crisis. Barring another international emergency, the end is not in sight,

Last week the United States produced 7,397,060 barrels of oil a day, Its estimated producing capacity was 10,800,000 barrels a day.

Governmeent officials, after World War II, asked the domestic industry, in the interest of national security, to develop 1,000,000 barrels of excess productive capacity. The National Petroleum Council has estimated today's excess capacity at 3,500,000 barrels

DOMESTIC producers have lost markets in recent years to imported oil but all the blame for a lack of balance between supply and demand cannot be placed on foreign

The current problems of domestic producers actually are a combination of the effects of imports, the growth of demand for natural gas and its by-products, and a lower growth rate for demand for petroleum products.

DOMESTIC demand for petroleum products in 1961 is expected to exceed 1960 by about one per cent. The average annual increase the last five years has been 2.1 per cent. The average annual gain for the 1945-1955 decade was 6 per cent.

Industry spokesmen have issued repeated warnings in recent months producers are going to have to live with demand's lower growth rate.

Two international emergencies have delayed the impact of this lower growth

Domestic supply of petroleum caught up with a booming post war demand growth in the late 1940s. A campaign to limit imports was under way by the time fighting broke out in Korea in

The campaign was renewed in late 1952

CONGRESS tacked the defense amendment onto the trade agreements act in 1955. The amendment authorized the President to adjust imports of any commodity which threatens the national security by impairing the health of a vital domestic industry.

The amendment did not mention oil by name but it was a result of the oil imports campaign,

Bombs fell on the Eucz Canal in early November in 1956. The domestic oil surplus was wiped out tempo rarily as the United States rushed oil to western Europe. Domestic production reached an all-time high of 7,818,400 barrels a day in March, 1957.

DOMESTIC crude output slumped shortly with the reepening of the Suez, A voluntury imports control program was launched in July, 1957. The voluntary plan was replaced by the current mandatory program in March, 1959.

Interior Secretary Stewart Udahl announced in October he had recommended a reduction in oil import quotas for the first half of 1962. The sug gestions ran into opposition. particularly in the State Department,

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A little pig that goes to market who harbor dreams of a full bit, diated bacon.

He said it would be the first radiated food to be cleared for home consumption and would mark a milestone in research program aimed at preserving food by exposure to radiation.

American scientists in their experiments have fed radiated food to nearly 300,000 rats. mice, monkeys, dogs and chickens—and a limited number of humans.

"THE VAST majority of the experimental data now available demonstrates no harmful effects," a Defense Department report said.

The Army has spent about $5 million since 1953 using high-dosage radiation to destroy bacteria and permit preservation of food without refrigeration.

The Atomic Energy Commission, which is about midway through a new $1 million research program, expects to step up its development of a low dosage radiation tech-nique for providing "fresh-like" fish and fruits far from harvest areas.

THE ARMY'S program is designed primarily to improve military rations but ultimately it may have civilian applications as well.

"It is expected that radiation processing of food will eventually find its place among the historic food preservation processes of drying, salting, canning, freezing and . . . freeze-drying," said Paul

C. Achersold, director of isodevelopment for the

The Army spokesman emphasized that bacon was not necessarily better suited for the process. He said the reason it was in line for applica-tion for approval by the Food and Drug Administration was that "we have more data prepared on it. Among the more than 100 foods tested, one big problem is taste. "But we are making progress," one scientist said.

A REVISED six-year, $5 million program to accelerate research on specific irradiated foods for military use was an-nounced by the Army, in March, 1960.

. The six-year program was developed following the Army's decision to suspend construction of a proposed $7 million full-scale pilot production plant in California, In lieu of the production plant, construction of a $1.8 million food radiation research facilistarted in Massa chusetts.

· The change prompted a be-lief in some circles that the government was de-emphasizing the process. But the AEC's Aebersold said in a speech in August that "our general attitude is one of confidence." He said there was "growing confidence elsewhere," and noted that Canada and Russia had approved for consumption potatoes subjected to low-dose radiation to inhibit sprouts.

DOG WATCH

Blackie Keeps Lonely Vigil

SALMON, Idaho (A)-A shy little black dog of uncertain ancestry has kept a lonely vigil on a midstreet traffic island here for about a month, apparently waiting for his unknown master to return.

Blackie, as he is known by concerned townsmen, won't make friends and re-treats when someone ap-proaches. But he always returns to get food which employes of a nearby grocery offer him. Recently, a lighted Christmas tree was erected on the island and Blackie spends most of his time under it, sieeping or just watching. Temperatures as low as 14 degrees below zero haven't driven him of tragedy for Jack and Sharon Jones.

A year ago, on Dec. 19, 1960, Mrs. Jones, 24, went on one last Christmas errand to pick up one last gift for her

At an intersection her automobile and another were in collision. She was hardly marked by the wreck. But the crash jarred her into unconsciousness.

Since that moment she has been, even when open-eyed in deep slumber.

She lives, unaware of the massive machines around her which keep her alive, unaware of the baby she delivered, a son she has never seen.

MRS. JONES was one of those ordinary city wrecks, an intersection collision.

She was taken to an Abilene hospital, on to Fort Worth for brain surgery which did not repair the damage, then back to the Abilene hospital where she gave birth. The baby, Eddie, was delivered by Caesarian section on July 5, 1961—six and a half months after his mother was knocked into unconsciousness.

The struggle goes on to keep his mother alive.

The struggle is costly. Earlier the hospital and nursing care required cost about $80 daily. Jones now does much of the work himself so that, with his wife now at home, bills are down to $30 daily.

LAST SPRING, a group of near-strangers decided to help. The Sharon Jones fund was set up at Abilene's Citizens National Bank. Some 18 persons began it and have contributed monthly gifts to it. Others, locally and from all over the nation, give irregularly. The fund has lately been as low as $200, but in all it has produced about $8,000 toward the $30,000 Sharon's injury has cost.

Last year's Christmas presents have not yet been opened. Jones says he will not open them until his wife

He says doctors tell him the life of his wife is "in higher hands than theirs.

many, are scheduled to be shipped to the United States December 15.

World's Fair officials are saying that monorail will be the "main gate" of the exposition, which will open next April 21 for a six-month run.

But Seattle very nearly did without monorail in the early days of fair planning. For several months, monorail was strictly an "on

named the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. as prime contractor to install a monorail system. But negotiations bogged down when the parties were unable to agree on financing. Lockheed was worried be-cause the company would have had to absorb several million dollars in design and engineering costs. Bargaining dragged along for several months.

But, all along, another monorail firm was in the background-Alwae International, parent organization of the Alweg firm.

Alwac submitted a proposal to the Transit Commission in August, 1959-more than $1,000,000 under the Lockheed figure. The big difference, however, between the two offers was that Alwac offered to finance, build and install the monorail, with no financial risk to the city itself. That gave Alwac the inside track.

At that point the Seattle World's Fair Corp. took over negotiations from the Transit Commission and made a deal with Alwac.
The Transit Commission, at the same time, voted to drop Lockheed from the monorail competition.

Finally in May, 1960, the World Fair Corp. decided to sign with Alwac. The price then was $3,500,000-but later advanced to $4,200,000.

The fair agreed to pay Alwac (now Alweg) 25 cents from each paid admission to the fair. Alweg also would retain the monorail fares, concessions revenue at the monorail terminals and advertising receipts related to monorail. · NEITHER THE CITY nor the fair were asked to put up any other money. Alweg and its subcontractors agreed to pay the entire bill, other than the 25 cents from cach fair ticket.

The Seattle Transit System will operate the trains for

After the fair the fair can decide whether to acquire the monorail-or assign its option to the city or the Transit System.

Alweg is required to remove the system at no cost to the fair or the city if there is no purchase,

The final contract was signed Dec. 22, 1960. TWO FARALLEL beamways—one for each train—are being constructed. The monorail cars literally will straddle the rails, with rubber tires hugging the sides of the beams as well as rolling atop the rails.

The sponsors estimate that the trains can carry 8,000 to 10,000 persons an hour.

The monorail will make the trip to the fair in about 95

General Electric Co. is supplying the 100-horsepower units. Automatic braking devices are included for emergencies, in addition to manual controls.

Each train will be capable of carrying 450 persons. An escalator-like "speed ramp" will lift passengers from street level to the loading platform in the downtown terminal. The monorail will coast to a stop at ground level on the fairgrounds.

SEATTLE, among other cities, is looking at monorail as a possible—repeat, possible—rapid-transit solution if the monorail proves a resounding success during the

formed originally by Scattlet and its neighboring communities to solve water-pollution problems.

A citizens' committee is at work in Seattle now studying the possibilities of rapid transit after the fair. Several major organizations, including Municipal League and the Central Association of Scattle favor the Metro concept.

A proposal may be on the ballot here next March. Will monorail fit into that

CAB Fare Holidayers

The Civil Aeronautics Board's elimination of bargain coast-to-coast air fares-coming after thousands of holiday reservations had been booked –left many passengers disappointed and angry Saturday

Among the estimated 10,-000 persons affected were students and military personiel, their trips home for Christmas budgeted to the last penny.

"Some of them cried and some of them got mad and asked for their money back," said an airline reservations clerk in San Francisco.

Some merely cancelled the return trip.

BUT THE majority, their holiday plans already made, paid the extra toll-amounting to as much as $92 on a round-trip jet flight between New York and San Francisco or Los Angeles, as little as $13 between Chicago and the West Coast.

Ticket cancellations ranged from 3 to 10 per cent among affected airlines in New York to 10 to 25 per cent in Los Angeles.

At Ft. Devens, Mass., about 400 soldiers held the cutrate tickets. One called the CAB action a "dirty, bureau-cratic trick." They all asked the same question: Why couldn't the ruling have been delayed until after the holidays?

"WE'D RATHER not comment on the timing," said an airline representative in New York.

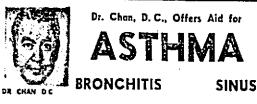

Airlines and government officials reported many com-

ONE of the jealously guarded privileges of a congressman or senator is that of announcing to home folks federal action on some local matter that makes them happy. This tends to associate the office-holder's name with good news and, justifiably or not, probably helps him later at the polls,

The thing can work both ways, of course. Sometimes the news from Washington about some local project or activity isn't so good. Under those circumstances, there's no scramble among the various officials for the privilege of being quoted in the re-

So it fell to the lot of Bro. Kuchel, the Republican, to inform us that some work would be held up at the shipyard and some recently employed workers might be laid off.

Sen. Tom faced up to it and put out the bulletin. Now we'll wait to see whether the next one is good or bad and who gets the "privi-

Coast Guard Testing Atom-Powered Buoy

No Refuel Need for 10 Years

By LOU JOBST

The U.S. Coast Guard is testing a nuclear powered navigation buoy which could revolutionize its system of tending remote lights and beacons,

The new device, a 7-ton, 26-foot high buoy, is designed to operate for 10 years or more without refueling, Present battery - operated lights must be removed from the water and overhauled once a year, posing a massive maintenance problem for the loast Guard.

Big buoys of this type are located near the entrances to Long Beach and Los Angeles harbors. They contain 2400 pounds of batteries and four lamps which rotate into use as each predecessor is burned out,

As a part of the elaborate maintenance these buoys must be checked visually every day to determine that they are working.

THE GENERATOR for the new buoy is called a Snap-7a and is the latest in a series of systems for nuclear auxiliary power under development by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The entire testing program of the nuclear buoy will take SANTA'S HELPERS cause that is where the Coast Guard's test and research department is located.

Lt. Cmdr. Charles A. Haley, chief of the aids to navigation department of the 11th Coast Guard District here, says there are no plans to use the buoys on the west coast or to test them here.

THE PROTOTYPE buoy will be tested for a six month period at a point in Chesa peake Bay opposite the mouth of the Potomac River.

Heart of the atomic generator is a four-sided fuel block loaded with Strontium-90 in the formal insoluble ceramic pellets. As the radioactive material decays it generates heat which is converted directly in electrical energy.

Boys Make Gifts for Hospital Patients

Youngsters are playing Santa Claus this year. Nearly half of the 5157 members of four branches of the Long Beach Boys Clubs have made gifts for the 392 patients at Long Beach General Hospital.

Lois Buffington of the Community Volunteers Office suggested the program and for several months the youngsters have been working with wood, leather and plastic. They have turned out more than 400 gifts working after school hours, said Lou Yantorn, Boys Clubs assistant director.

Among articles made by the boys are: long-handled shoe horns, boot pullers, change purses, jewel cases, tie clasps, letter files, pencil holders and games.

Wasteful Drift in Welfare Programs Due for Correction

THIRTY YEARS after the depression suddenly propelled public welfare into the front line of government functions, many of the programs are still being operated on a helter-skelter emergency basis.

"The main thing is to get the aid out," a supervisor told Edgar May, fledgling case worker. "You can always check things later if you have suspicions." But the opportunity to check things never came, so compelling were the distractions of paper work and an excessive case load. May, incidentally, won a Pulitzer prize last spring for his analysis of welfare shortcomings as reported in the Buffalo Evening News. More recently he brought his findings up to date in Harper's Magazine.

MEANWHILE the need for welfare reform has drawn nationwide attention. Many of the improvised techniques of the 1930s remain unimproved, though the types of public aid have increased along with the dodges of chiselers.

May quotes Abraham A. Ribicoff, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare: "I've come to feel that we have just been drifting. . . . Many welfare workers have become mere conduits between state treasuries and those they seek to help-neglecting prevention, rehabilitation and protective services."

Ribicoff has started a shakeup in the form of new administrative orders and proposed legislation intended to curb abuses and help people get off relief rolls. He can bring pressure on state and local agencies because the federal government supplies most of the MAIN PURPOSES of the federal department are: To enforce greater responsibility on the part of parents by such expedients as pressing the search for deserting fathers, taking children from unworthy mothers and issuing vouchers instead of cash for the use of dependent children.

Improvement of staff training and recruitingprobably controversial, since in many instances a corollary must be higher salaries for professionally qualified case workers.

Encouragement of more effective family welfare services directed at creating job qualifications and opportunities so that relief recipients may become self

ADMINISTRATIVE changes already ordered will cost $17.3 million the first year, Ribicoff estimates. This, too, will generate dispute. There is a considerable body of opinion that public welfare agencies should always be kept extremely cramped for funds to deter further waste and mismanagement,

A more tenable theory is that a short-term increase in outlay is justified if it buys improved order and method in public welfare.

In California a State Senate Committee has charged that the part-time Social Welfare Board has failed in its duties and should be replaced by a fulltime commission. More will undoubtedly be heard on that subject. As a prime target for seekers of public relief, this state should certainly be among the first to overhaul any creaking machinery.

A major problem, how-ever, could be Morton's bid for re-election to the Senate next year. He would have to win very big, the experts say, to convince the party he's the man to carry the banner in '64. Although Morton is popular in Kentucky, indications now are RN that he'll have a real fight on his hands if Wilson Wyatt, who has been mayor of Louisville and lieutenant governor, becomes the Democratic candidate.

But if he gets past Wyatt, Morton presumably will be aching to head the Republican ticket nationally.

We are living in an age in which the word "victory," once spoken bravely on every American street corner, has been replaced by the passive phrases like "peaceful co-existence," "containment," "deter- and his disrence," and sometimes even sent affects the cowardly phrase "sur-render." One reason that we are this close to disaster is because we are losing the ideological war. The reason we are losing is because we are not in it. THERE ARE, however. compelling reasons why the Berlin problem cannot be put on ice indefinitely. One is, of course, that since Khrushchev is willing to negotiate an agreement guaranteeing access to West Berlin, a refusal to enter into such negotiations would probably force him to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany. After that, dealing with Herr Ulbricht would not be a pleasure.

Doing nothing is not a way to perpetuate the status quo, which is radically changed anyhow since Aug. 13. Doing nothing is to perpetuate a state of anxiety, apprehension and jitters. West Berliners cannot live in that state of anxiety indefinitely, and, for their sake alone, a negotiated agreement guaranteeing their freedom and Western access is indispensable. We cannot make such an agreement if Gen. de Gaulle vetoes it. But that does not prevent us from finding out whether such an agreement can be made. If it cannot be made, the future of West Berlin is very bleak and the tensions of the world will mount. If it can be made, it will not be easy for Gen. de Gaulle to veto it, and thus to deny the anxious world a little relief.

JAPANESE WOO ENGLISH

Raised Eyebrow Usage Abounds

Editor's Note—Few people can fracture broken English as bewilderingly as the Japanese. So the fact that a current Japanese best-seller is a "How to Speak English" book should be good news. Unfortunately, however, the English is so basic that much of it would bring blushes even in the locker room.

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO UP—The sign in the Tokyo apartment house said: "The elevator is under repair for the next two weeks. During that time we regret that you will be unbearable."

In a prewar Tokyo clothing store, another sign intrigued foreign visitors. It announced: "Ladies have fits upstairs."

Between the clothing store of the 1930's and the apartment house elevator stretches a vast Japanese wasteland. It is studded with the mangled adjectives, misplaced verbs and broken sentences of a generation which has tried, but not quite succeeded, in mastering the English language.

BUT THOUGH, with some signal exceptions, the Japanese have failed they have not given up. An industrious people, they have thrown themselves into the pursuit of the dangling participle with a verve usually reserved for street demonstrations, baseball or mountain climbing.

Among the most popular radio and TV programs are the English lessons. One Japanese professor is in such demand he appears as himself on one show and in a handle-bar mustache in another.

Books which purport to unlock the mysteries of Eigo —English—are selling faster than dried squad. One, called "the book that strengthens your English," by Prof. Kazuo Iwata, has created a near-sensation.

In two months it has sold 800,000 copies and the end is nowhere in sight.

THE UNITED STATES postwar influence in Japan has renewed the Japanese interest in matters American. It is a rare stranger who has not been approached by

It is a rare stranger who has not been approached by an eager youth with these questions: "Sir, may I speak English to you? How old are you? Do you have a wife? How many children do you have? How much money do you earn? What do you think of Japan?"

If Prof. Iwata's book is any criterion, foreign visitors should be warned before hand that they may encounter some strange and wonderful English from their well-meaning hosts.

THE PROFESSOR, a man endowed with a full sense of humor, prefaced his best-selling book with a hypothetical situation.

"Suppose," he wrote, "you are in the toilet and there is a knock from outside. How would you answer? I asked this question of some 30 people. They included presidents of big businesses, government officials, journalists, housewives and students. No one could give me the right answer. Isn't it a pity that after learning English for some time you cannot express such a simple thing?"

The correct answer, he goes on to say, is: "Someone in."

This difficult situation is clinically illustrated.

The professor goes on to give some examples of everyday speech in America.

He describes the right phrase to use when speaking of someone who seeks advancement by flattering the boss. But, alas, it is one which never could be printed in a family newspaper.

HE NOTES THAT some people find that they learn English more quickly by reading "sexy," or earthy books and he throws in a few four-letter words which might be of use since they appear in no dictionary. The words would have curled the hair of Lady Chatterley's game-keeper lover.

In the more reprintable sections of the book he lists many idiomatic phrases which will be of real use to the student. But the strong spices he adds—without warning—to this salad give cause for pause.

He says, for example, without a word of explanation, that "in modern society, many words are made by mixing words." He calls these portmanteau words.

IF THE JAPANESE take him seriously, the unsuspecting foreigner may emerge from a movie and hear his companion observe: "Wasn't it sexciting. Quite a sexperience, don't you think?"

Or:
"She was a brilliant cinemactress. I thought the moneymoon scene was terrific. What a comedelirium!"

Afterwards, if his companion is a lady, he may suggest a visit to the "beautatorium," or maybe a little later some "sex-ploration." All this, of course, after drinking a little "joy water" in a "joy house."

THE PROFESSOR warms his readers against too readily saying "yes" to a foreigner when he asks a question they do not understand. What would happen, he asks, if you said "yes" to "do you love me?" or "lend me 100,000 yen."

Edward Seidensticker, a well-known American professor and translator living in Tokyo, reviewed Professor Iwata's book in the English Yomiuri under the headline "Seventy happy ways to better your English, startle your bostess"

"70 happy phrases" at the end of his book which included such words as attaboy! baby-wife, con game, hang-over, kiss-me-quick, varsity man and some others not usually mentioned in polite conversation.

"A BETTER BEGINNING," he wrote, "toward strengthening your English might be made by throwing away Professor Iwata's book and all books on the problem and listening instead to English as it is spoken. Then, when progress has reached the point where "lovely bride" as read by an eager student no longer sounds like "rubbery blight" the emphasis might shift to learning absolutely standard English to the point of being prim."

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)-All-America halfback Emie

Davis of Syracuse said Saturday he won't make up his mind which pro football contract to sign for "at least two weeks" and then probably will accept the biggest offer.

Davis, Heisman Trophy winner as the top college player of the year, became eligible to sign a pro contract as soon as the final gun banged in Saturday's Liberty Bowl game, in which he sparked Syracuse to a 15-14 triumph over Miami. Draft rights to the Syracuse star are owned by the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League and the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

"I have to make a living," Davis said, "so it's whoever makes the best offer."

Packers 'Twist' Into L.B.

Any doubts I might have harbored about the Green Bay Packers being a close-knit TEAM-and not just a Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor operationwere dispelled forever Thursday night when 17 of them got together for an unofficial "Welcome to 'Long Beach Party" at the home of their "rookie" placekicker, Ben Agajanian.

"I had figured on inviting about four or five players," explained Agajanian, "but they're so close to each other that I wound up inviting half the team."

Having been nurtured the past dozen years on Ram and Dodger cliques, this recorder was genuinely surprised at the 100 per cent harmony among these 17 Packers, who were bent merely on enjoying themselves for a few hours and not the slightest concerned with "cuttingup" a teammate here and

You might fall over when I tell you that these two-time Western Division champions spent most of the evening doing the Twist, sans females. The ringleaders were Ron Kramer, the very huge offensive end from Michigan State who looks more like one of Frank Nitti's "guns" than a dancer; end Gary Knafete and defensive back Jesse Whittenton, the ex-Ram.

The trio spent the night showing their beefy mates intricacies of the nation's newest dance craze.

"That Whittenton's a tiger when it comes to dancing," commented 240-pound linebacker Bill Forester, the subject of a lengthy sports magazine spread this past week. "He's gotta dance all the time. Kramer's a dance nut, too, but he hasn't got the class of Jesse." Defensive end Bill Quinlan, another 240-pound glant, showed the effects of his Twisting more than anyone else. He was so thoroughly drenched with perspiration that he looked as if he had gone four quarters against the Detroit

"Man, this beats practice," gasped Quinlan. "If Lombardi (Coach Vince) ever heard about this, he'd make us do it every day."

TWO OF THE QUIETEST PACKERS were a pair who get much of the headlines, fullback Jim Taylor and quarterback Bart Starr . . . and both are deceptively small compared to their 240-pound teammates. T've seen a lot of football players in 14 years of pro hall," mentioned Emlen Tunnell, who starred so many seasons with the New York Giants, "but this Taylor's about the finest fullback I ever saw."

"Aw, cut it out, Em," blushed the tiger from Louisiana State. "Anybody can run when they get holes like this club opens. The real star of this club is Bart. You don't win in this league without a great quarterback." Starr was the next to blush.

With guys like Taylor and Hornung running the ball, anybody can quarterback the Packers," hedged Starr.
"Cut out the talking and dance," ordered football's best center, Jim Ringo. The mutual admiration society came to an abrupt halt.

1 WAS SURPRISED how much these players thought of the Pro Bowl game, played annually in January in the Coliseum. Players on West Coast teams generally regard the game as an imposition on their off-season time. Not the Packers.

"My one ambition in football is to play in that game," declared guard Jerry Kramer, whose injury a month ago prompted the Packers to land Agajanlan, "This is the absolute proof that you're one of the finest football players in the world-and that's the kind of recognition I want."

"Me, too," chimed in Forester, "but it's tough making that Western team in my position. Guys like Bill George, Joe Schmidt and Les Richter are almost automatics for the game. If the Rams don't care about playing in the Pro Bowl, we've got a lot of Packers who'll take their

The entire Packer team hopes one teammate in particular lands on the Pro Bowl roster, guard Fuzzy Thurston.

"Fuzzy's the hardest working guy on the club," 👊 commented Henry Jordan, Green Bay's 260 - pound defensive lineman who's a cinch to make the Pro Bowl himself. "A lot of guys have got more natural ability than Fuzzy, but he worked day and night to get goodand we sure think he is right now."

Immediately after they had cinched the Western Division title two weeks ago, the Packers unfurled a huge :- banner that read, "Fuzzy Thurston for the Pro Bowl." If you get the idea they love Fuzzy in Green Bay, you're * ANOTHER THING that surprised me somewhat was the general Packer feeling about the Rams' Richter.

"Les is just an ordinary linebacker, but he's got the benefit of all this Hollywood publicity," summed up one Packer. "He's always trying, I'll have to admit, but the best thing he does is toss lists and elbows. Our linebackers-Forester, Currie and Nitschke-all are better than Richter, but they don't get that publicity that Les

Richter stories were swapped all evening, but space

so brings this dissertation to a halt, I'll be most interested this afternoon to see if their Twisting exhibitions improve the Packers' general play (not that they really need any improvement)—and also if the boys do a little twisting on Les the Lionhearted.

Teammates Rally to Brito Support

By JERRY WYNN

One of football's finest players is seriously ill.

Gene Brito was a giant of a man at this time a year ago. A star defensive end for the Rams, he exuded strength and courage while charging into the enemy backfield and snorting defiance at all who opposed him. He was a specimen of supreme health.

Today Gene Brito has little strength.

He lies in a bed at Wadsworth Hospital in Sawtelle unable to move his once-powerful legs.

He is suffering from a paralytic disease which doctors have been unable to check.

He is fighting a stiff battle for recovery by means of therapy and the will to succeed.

"Gene was a player's football player," says Les Richter, his roommate with the Rams. "He put out 100 per cent effort all the time, was always in top condition, was a leader on the field, was always willing to help

"Everybody wants to do something," says Richter, "and no one is taking credit."

Already the Rams have contributed $15,000; a Gene Brito Appreciation Breakfast last week netted $6,000; the Ram Fan Club and Ye Old Rams organizations are foregoing their annual player award funtions to raise money for the fund, and several other National League clubs are making arrangements to aid the program.

Hornung Makes the Difference

It was on Thanksgiving Day that the Green Bay Packers really wrapped up their second straight Western Division championship.

Although they didn't officially clinch the title until 10 days later, their 17-9 victory over the Detroit Lions that day was the key victory. And it was Pvt. Paul Hornung who made the difference for Green Bay once

He not only set up the lead touchdown with a tremendous pass reception, but as coach Vince Lombardi

PAUL HORNUNG Tired and Bruised said, "If he'd done nothing else but block the way he did, it would have been enough. We couldn't have won without him."

It was Hornung's first game after being called back into the Army. He has played in the past two games as well and expects to be on hand for today's finale with the Rams in the Coliseum . . . thanks to another week-end pass.

"He isn't the 'old' Hornung of a month ago. He isn't quick like he was carlier in the season. Not being able to practice daily has slowed him up some, but not too much, fortunately," says Lombardi.

Does Hornung himself notice the difference since becoming a "weekend player?" "Are you kidding? Why, I can't move after a game, I'm so tired and bruised. It's amazing what you lose in condition and timing in just a few days.

It has been only the last couple of years that Hornung has really come into his own. Last season, he smashed Don Hutson's scoring record that had held up for 18 years when he tallied 176 points, bettering the old mark by 38

HORNUNG WAS BORN AND RAISED in Louisville and his ultimate enrollment at Notre Dame resulted in one of the great tugs-of-war in recruiting history.

Many schools, of course, sought his services; but it finally narrowed down to Notre Dame and Kentucky. Paul (Bear) Bryant, coach of Alabama's national champions this season, was at Kentucky then.

A master recruiter, Bryant came close to selling Paul on Kentucky. The governor of Kentucky even made a presonal sales pitch to Paul's mother,
"But Paul is an only child and his mother had her heart set on Notre Dame and even the governor couldn't change her mind," a friend says.

Paul became one of Notre Dame's legendary heroes, Paul became one of Notre Dame's legendary heroes, the Irish were not big winners when he played. He n't have the supporting cast he now enjoys. However, play was great enough for him to be awarded the 66 Heisman Trophy.

ain his mother played a major role in his linal selection of Green Bay.

Hornung had a fabulous offer from Canada. Green Bay couldn't put up as much money, but it seemed that Paul would be better off in the NFL over the long haul. The Packers, of course, acquired the rights to Hornung by the luck of the draw. They pulled the winning number from the hat of the late commissioner Bert Bell and were awarded the bonus selection that year.

"We take Paul Hornung of Notre Dame," cried a jubilant Lisle Blackbourn, then coach of the Packers.

The road to Green Bay was not smooth. It led through Chicago where Paul served obscurely with the College All-Stars in a 26-0 defeat by the Cleveland

Curly Lambeau, head coach of the All-Stars whose pioneer days at Green Bay were over by then, didn't think very much of the Packer bonus choice and relegated Hornung to third-string quarterback behind John Brodie of Stanford and Len Dawson of Purdue,

—big No. 5." They were waiting to "give him the works," but when he got to camp he quickly toned them down.

As a team spokesman revealed "he always had a smile and he not only took all their ribbing, but really seemed to love it. Some of the players could hardly wait for the first scrimmage. They wanted to flatten Heisman, as they called him. They really clobbered him, too, but each time he jumped up with a big grin on his

Ducky Weather Means More Birds

California hunters are being treated to something unusual in the second half of the migratory waterfowl season; they are getting some real ducky weather and, as a result, the game hags are heavier.

Actually, it's the first time in several years that we have had that kind of fare on the hunting menu, unless, of course, we chose to go north to Tule Lake and do our shooting there.

From all points in Southern California came the glad tidings that the opening weekend was wonderful, Heushaw, Sutherland, Morena and Barrett Lakes, normally closed to hunting because of the drought, reported good shooting. So did Isabella Lake.

Best news came from the state-controlled areas, with Wister in Imperial Valley and Mendota in San Joaquin Valley, topping the public shooting areas. Mendota is averaging 3.7 ducks per hunter and Wister 3.4.

It's impossible to get on the state-controlled areas on Saturdays unless you have arranged in advance for permits. Sundays and Wednesdays are better for those who choose to try the first-come, first-served plan as practiced by the Department of Fish and Game.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIANS, who can fish the year around for trout, may have an extra bonus this season. The Fish and Game Commission has agreed to advance the 10-trout limit one month. That means that, beginning March I, you may take 10 trout instead of five, which is the legal limit through the winter.

Much depends on the trout-planting program. We are getting early rains and snows for the first time in years and the streams will be running for a longer period. But we must remember that most of those streams dried to the point where no fish life could survive, so if the DFG doesn't plant trout, there will be none to catch,

Another decision by the FGC that pleases this writer is the ruling to limit daily crapple catches to 15 and bluegill to 25 at Cachuma Lake. I believe that I have been fuming for years about anglers taking literally tubs of fish (mostly bluegill) from Southland lakes. So Cachuma is a

There were many minor changes in regulations, but all will be printed in the DFG booklet in plenty of time for the general trout season, which opens in the rest of the state April 28. Legg Lake's daily limit was increased from two to five fish.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS OF THE FGC meeting in Sacra-

California and Nevada have come to terms on fishing in Topaz and Tahoe Lakes, both split by the states' mutual boundary. Beginning in 1962, a California or a Nevada license will be valid on the shores of both lakes. It will not be necessary to have stamps, such as are required when fishing the Colorado River. It's too bad that Arizona could not have come to a similar agreement with this state several years ago.

There will be a five-fish limit at Tahoe and liver and other meat will be permitted as bait. However, only minnows native to Tahoe will be allowed. Chumming and underwater spearfishing (Br-r-r-r, I shudder to think of that) have been ruled out.

Effective Feb. 17, 1962, one salmon under 22 inches in length may be included in the limit of three salmon. That plan caused considerable debate at Sacramento, but it finally was passed.

William P. Elser, San Diego, was elected 1962 president of the commission. Jamie H. Smith, Los Angeles, took over as vice president. The commissioners announced the appointment of Leslie P. Edgerton as assistant to the FGC. He replaces William J. Harp, who retired after 33 years of service.

CALIFORNIA'S CONTROVERSIAL DEER management plan, which now permits the DFG to set up special shoots in which does may be killed, got an overwhelming backing of 61 of the 65 witnesses present at the Sacramento meeting. The commissioners, however, decided to put over until April a decision on a change in the deer

The present plan was started with the idea of keeping the deer heards and rangelands in good condition, but there were dissatisfied persons, particularly in Northern California, who felt that the killing of does was wrong

regardless of herd and rangeland conditions.

Bill Desmond, of the U. S. Forest Service, said that there are more deer in California now than the land can

"The hunter's bulict is for more humane than nature's method of harvesting, which is starvation or disease," he

Charles Bull, who hammers at the DFG at every opportunity, differed, as is his usual pattern. He said that the present program was wiping out the deer herds of the state.

He was one of four witnesses who favored the shooting of bucks only at all times

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS On the morning of Jan. 12, 1942, the Nitta Maru stood off the coral reefs of Wake Island to take on 200 American prisoners of war. Most of these prisoners were clad only in their underwear, some only in Their underwear shorts. As they stepped to the deck of The Japanese liner, they found sailors lined up in rows -- and armed with clubs,

The headline of this advertisement was written almost sixty years ago.

It is the motto of the men who build Cadillac cars-and it has served as both proud legend and stern taskmaster for three generations of Cadillac craftsmen.

We selected it to help tell our story today, because we think it still summarizes perfectly the quality and the care—the pride and the precision-that go into the making of every Cadillac motor car.

There is no really adequate way to describe the crafting of a Cadillac, But this recitation of facts might be helpful.

tsmanship a creed...accuracy a larv!

1. The average Cadillac craftsman has ten years of experience on the job.

2. One out of every seven people involved in the building of the car is an inspector. 3. Cadillacs are built in only one placeby men who build nothing else.

4. The car is crafted to unbelievably fine tolerances. Some engine parts, for example, must be accurate to within one ten-thousandth of an inch.

5. Every model undergoes more than 1400 different checks and inspections in the course of its assembly.

The list is longer, of course. But however lengthy, it could never be more impressive than the result, It's the 1962 Cadillac.

Daughter's People Are "Stepchildren"

By MARY NETH

"You don't need to go to Nigeria to see backward people in poverty—just to the Southwest."

That's the opinion of Mrs. Grant Thomas, 284 E. 56th St., who thinks President Kennedy's Peace Corp is needed at home as well as abroad.

"My daughter's people, the Navajos, live on a diet of weak coffee, frybread and mutton. They suffer famine and disease."

And Mrs. Thomas, a Long Beach housewife with a mission, is quite familiar with their plight.

She lived among them for six years.

Six years in which she saw first-hand, what she terms, "their continual battle to eke existence from land that could not support 5,000 whites—yet must support more than 80,000 members of the tribe."

The land itself, vast, barren and unrivaled in stripped-clean scenic beauty, consists of 16 million desert and semi-desert acres in three states: New Mexico, Arizona and Utah.

The Navajos, who still live in ancestral

one-doored, dome-shaped hogans, without floors or windows, rely on sheep raising as their means of livelihood.

AND WHEN THERE is no rainfall, both they and their animals starve.

It was during one of these years of drought that Mrs. Thomas and her husband first visited the reservation.

"We went to look over the situation and returned to open a non-profit, non-denominational mission," says Mrs. Thomas.

"Helping the Indians was something we had always wanted to do. My husband is full-blooded Crete and I am a quarter Miami—they are our people."

Thomas took leave of absence from his job to establish that first mission which was later turned over, debt-free, to the Navajo Council.

A second mission, still in operation today, was then opened in 1957 on 59 acres of land 19 miles North of Gallup, N. M. It was there at the "Bethel Mission, Inc.," that Mrs. Thomas put in her six years of unsalaried service.

After learning the language, she busied herself, teaching, conducting Sunday services, assisting the health nurse, transporting the sick to hospitals and distributing food and clothing.

Her husband commuted from his fiveday job in Long Beach—715 miles each way—to help on the weekends.

"It was not an easy life," says Mrs. Thomas, "but if it hadn't been for illness in our tamily, I would still be there."

Now, though the mission is operated by the Marrin Gleasons, the Thomases and their daughter make frequent return trips with clothing and other items for the program.

OF THE NAVAJOS, Mrs. Thomas has many words of praise. Says she, "They are a proud, shy and highly intelligent people, who distrust the white man-not without cause.

"Not one of the U.S.-Indian treaties has been kept," she says. "They've been promised schools with a teacher for every 30 students, yet only a third of all the children receive an education—and it doesn't prepare them for off-reservation

As to the inadequacies of hospitalization and medical treatment, Mrs. Thomas cites the case of the elderly Indian who waited 15 years for a bed in a TB clinic and died before he could be admitted.

"Think of how many people were infected during his later years," she says.

"The Indians are pathetically grateful for help given them," continues Mrs. Thomas. "Many walked more than 100 miles to attend the mission services. And the medicine men were eager to work with, and not against me, once they understood that I really wanted to help the tribe.

"I'm so weary of hearing people say that the Navajo won't accept help, wants to live as he does. It's not true."

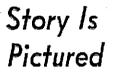

But dealing with a pre-industrial and pre-literate people like the Navajo is admittedly a knotty problem, says Mrs. Thomas.

However, she feels that if this country is going to make an impact on the backward populations of the world it must somehow work harder to solve the problems of the primitive peoples within its own boundaries.

A grass roots Peace Corp policy for our own Indians is called for she believes, and her daughter, little Tsianina readily

In fact Tsianina has already planned her own program of aid for her people.

While jets zoom overhead and sleek cars speed along nearby highway 68, Navajos on arid reservation live in hogans of old, (pictured top of page) and dress in mixture of traditional garb and cast-off white men's clothes and blankets (as worn by woman and child above).

Primitive and modern man living side-by-side have found no way to understand one another. "Nearby fast - paced guardian culture makes little effort to communicate with tribe," says Mrs. Grant Thomas (right). She and adopted daughter, Tsianina, working together on Indian loom, hope picture will change.

Beware Lonely Heart Road

DEAR ABBY: Tell me in plain language, how does a rice woman find a nice man? I am a very respectable unmarried woman of 42 who would like male companionship. I disapprove of going alone to bars. I have even thought of writing to a Lonely Hearts Club, or

—RESPECTABLE AND LONELY.

DEAR R AND L: In this big, wonderful world no one need be "lonely."

Try to make YOURSELF attractive and interesting to men and women.

When I am on a dinner date with a young man and I am asked to order a beverage, I am stuck, You see, I love milk and drink it with all my meals at home, but it seems so babyish to order milk on a date. I don't drink coffee or tea, so it seems foolish to order it and take a few sips. It seems incorrect to order no beverage with my dinner at all, yet I feel funny ordering milk. DEAR ABBY: A letter in your column applied to me, but I didn't write it. My husband has a bigmouthed sister who tells everyone who mentions my name that I am her sister-in-law. This burns me up because as far as I'm concerned, I married my husband and not his family. Furthermore, if this person were not my husband's sister, I wouldn't even speak to her. She is vicious, two-faced and I am not proud to be related to her. What is the solution, Abby? I hate having her call me her sister-in-law. —PROVOKED.

DEAR PROVOKED: Whether you like it or not, she IS your sister-in-law, She is apparently prouder of you than you are of her, but the best way to handle the situation is to have as little to do with her as

Ho! More Fur-Bearing Santas This Year

I, P-T Fashion Editor

Generally speaking, men are planning to dress up their ladies for Christmas.

They're attending "for men only" fashion shows, taking in men's nights at local smart shops, also are haunting fur, jewelry and lingerie departments.

And that's fine with the ladies. Because, like other years, they're thinking mink for Christmas,

A study of America's gift-buying habits (done by an independent research firm for Chicago gift-wrapping manufacturer) finds that women are hoping for a fur coat or other fur piece, preferably mink, in their Christmas stocking.

They also want dresses, jewelry, robes and other wearing apparel. Fact is, in the study, clothing proved to be the most popular gift men planned to give their wives, and expected to get in return.

A SAMPLING of local fashion resources Indicates men in Long Beach are acting just like self-styled Santa Clauses in New York, Chicago and Timbucktoo.

Most amazing news: they're buying dresses like crazy.

"Men are better clothes shoppers than women," said Genivieve Wood, Town and Country Fashions, who noted that before Christmas the store's largest clientele is of the male gender.

"We do everything to help men make their selections," she observed, "even to modeling the garments for them.

Result: very few of the gifts are re-

BUT IN large department stores, it seems, men aren't so daring about invading female fashion domains.

According to John Hersey, fashion coordinator at Buffums', male shoppers more often confine their gift-hunting activities to first floor perfume, accessory and jewelry

Attention, Publicity Chairmen: the writer of this col-umn is now located in Room 115 of the (old) administration bullding With Christmas almost upon us, several LBSC groups are involved in projects appropriate for the season. For instance, a combined Tau Kappa Epsilon-Delta Gamma actives contingent is giving a party this afternoon at the YMCA for 25 orphans. There will be Santa Claus, gifts, and a dinner. While the DG actives work with the Tekes, Delta Gamma pledges are sponsoring a needy family.

Looking backward a bit, Thursday's Christmas Formal had an extra admission price-one toy per couple. Circle K will supervise distribution.

Disneyland is the scene today of the traditional Phi Kappa Tau outing. The PKTs host 45 orphans from foster homes for a day of rides, gifts, and a picnic.

Two LBSC groups have projects to benefit Indians: Delta Delta Delta is collecting toys, blankets, warm clothing, and food for Indians near Gallup, N. M.; and Chi Gamma Iota (Veterans Club) is conducting a food drive for Navajo Indians near Winslow, Arizona. Alpha Phi has adopted a family and will provide gifts, food, and clothing: Delta Zeta's plans include caroling and visits to hospitals; and Kappa Sigma is another with a party for underprivileged children.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON, long a LBSC fixture on the Christmas project scene, is still present, but in a different way. After years of selling Christmas trees with proceeds to the Exceptional Children's Foundation, SAE is planning a dance early in January with proceeds still headed in the same direction. More on this in a couple of weeks.

Belated hirthday greetings to Phi chapter, Phi Delta Gamma, which met last weekend with Omicron chapter of USC at the Huntington Sheraton for a luncheon commemorating the 1923 founding of this national fraternity for graduate women, Brenda Bernsten is the Tri-Delt "Pearl-of-the-Month." The selection is based on outstanding service to the sorority, and Brenda certainly qualifies for the many hours she devotes as DDD house president.

Latest group to sponsor a series of noon lectures is Epsilon Pi Tau, industrial arts honorary fraternity, Dr. Oliver Johnstone spoke on "Education in Mexico" in the first program last Monday in the studio theater on the lower campus. Watch bulletin boards for future program. Everyone is welcome.

Congratulations to St. Anthony's High School whose Allen Frankel took top individual honors in last weekend's "Math Saturday" at Long Beach State, and whose team of Frankel, Donald Westenhaven, and Tom Walsh, posted the highest aggregate score for the 16 high schools entered. The sponsoring LBSC Mathematical Society termed the event a big success.

So to Heck WithExec; Stay Poor

"Lady, if your husband doesn't make a pile of money —you're a lucky girl, He's more likely to come right home after his day at the office and not turn up missing."

This is the theory advanced by Ed Goldfader, general manager of Tracers Co. of America, the New York firm which has specialized in locating all sorts of "missing" people for the past 37 years. It is Goldfader's conclusion that married couples with modest means are the happiest.

POINTING out that 85 out of 100 divorces occur among people in higher income brackets, Goldfader says, "Money is an evil. Maybe its the kind of evil you can't get enough of, but its possession has some definite draw-backs."

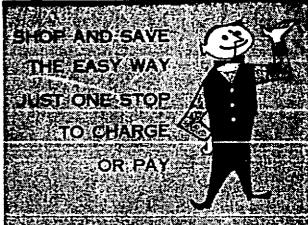

Goldfader describes the average John Doe as a man who has a job with routine hours that keep him occupied from 9 to 5 daily. He is expected home every evening after work and earns a modest income. Even if he does harbor a notion to have a fling, he can't afford the extravagance.

ON THE OTHER hand, the set-up of the higher wage-earner offers opportunities for leading a more complicated life. The vary nature of his job may present plausible excuses for being absent from the home.

When a husband is tempted, and can finance some extra-curricular activities, the seeds of disruption of family ties have been firmly planted.

Economic Outlook Good for New Year

By KEN CHILCCTE

Long Beach economy moves into the new year in a confident mood with more employment assured and extensive building activities that will see more changes on the city's skyline.

Over the Long Beach trading area there is glowing optimism in financial, building and retailing circles, boosted by the increased consumer spending noted the past six weeks and by announced plans for industrial and housing developments.

Across the nation the U.S. economy, its health restored, has many rosey pictures painted of an improved 1962, Increased government spending is expected to bolster conditions in most states.

LOCALLY, huge developments in the harbor area already have been announced for the coming months and there are many millions of dollars already alloted for commercial building in the downtown and beach areas.

Soon to be announced and already on planning boards are such major projects as a large hotel, a major develop-ment of luxury homes on one of the few large tracts available in the city, and some decided improvements in the

Optimistic forecasts for the 1962 housing market came from a variety of national sources.

The Department of Commerce predicted a total of 1.4 million new private housing starts (compared to an anticipated total of 1.3 million for this year). The Department said that this prediction was based on "anticipated favorable money-market conditions and relatively low interest rates for residential mortgages.'

Robert C. Weaver, Administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, forecast between 1.4 and 1.5 million starts in 1962.

"Thousands of families who could not afford to buy homes are now able to do so," he said.

Joseph P. McMurray, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said that "if interest rates on mortgages stay reasonably close to what they are, and I believe they will, I expect that you will have from 1.4 million to 1.45

Preservatives Save Woodwork

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)-The woodwork on the outside of your home can be made to last four times as long through proper treatment with water-repellant preservatives, says Texas A&M College forester Bill Smith.

Smith says surface treatment with pentachlorophenol and a water repellant can help wooden siding, steps, porches, exterior trim and other wooden items exposed to seepage from rain. The wood can be treated either by complete immersion or by brush application.

Among her show-business dates have been Paul Anka and Frankie Avalon. Any red-blooded American feminine teen-ager would give up a month of chocolate malts just to be able to get close enough to Paul and Frankie to say hello.

AND ANY GIRL who would complain about dating these idols should probably have her pretty head examined, beginning with the hole in it.

Annette's not really complaining about dating Paul and

"It's just that I don't want to marry anyone in the business," she explained.

Annette has, she dreamily admits, been thinking about marriage quite a lot recently.

The Garner repeats, basically, are the idea of the sponsor, Henry J. Kaiser.

As you may recall, James Garner won a court battle with Warner Bros. that permitted him to romp out of their video corral.

Another actor, Roger Moore, was tried out as a replacement near the end of last season but didn't cut the "Maverick" mustard. The devision was made that it would be very difficult to find anyone who could replace Garner, so why try. Warner Bros. went ahead and made 13 new "Maverick" programs for this season which starred Kelly. Other than the 13, the rest of the programs will be repeats.

You're also right, Mrs. Bellint, about "Mayerich" not being on at all "a while back.

It got booted from the air by the American Football League. ABC-TV, the network which airs "Maverick," also features an AFL game every Sunday.

When the game is played on the West Coast, the telecast starts 1:30 p.m. our time, which means it be-gins on the East Coast at

Sure, Mrs. Bellint, that doesn't need to happen on the West Coast. The game winds up in plenty of time for us — in our Pacific Standard Time zone — to catch "Mayerick" as regularly scheduled.

But the sponsor figures he has already lost 51 per cent of the total audience, that percentage being represented by East Coast viewers.

So why pay the whole bill for the Pacific Coast's 19 per cent, the Mountain Zone's 4 per cent, and the Central Zone's 33 per cent?

I was so pleased to see that someone has finally spoken up for the adult viewers of the "Soupy Sales Show." Mrs. Brown, thank you!

Soupy's show is something for "kids" of all ages, not just teenagers as so widely publicized. His comedy is the kind that makes everyone glad to be alive,

Speaking for myself, I sincerely think that the "Soupy Sales Show" is by far the best half hour on TV.

O WAS WHO' OF TV HUMOR

* A List of the Lost Legion of Video Comedians

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The bravest men in the world—astronauts, test pilots, frog men and marriage counselors—don't need the steel nerves a television comedian does,

Astronauts, test pilots and the others real-ize the chances of survival are on their side.

The percentages favor them.

Even a nitroglycerin handler at the epicenter of an earthquake has better odds going for him than the poor clowns who think they can make a career of a weekly TV series.

Those who tried, and were eventually lynched by ratings and/or heartless sponsors, make up a "Who Was Who" of TV humor.

Today only two authentic comedians are in business on a weekly basis, Red Skelton and Jack Benny, Both have survived the appalling casualty rate through the years while fellow funnymen dropped by the wayside.

Bob Newhart, a newcomer, is struggling along this season, but the old pros doubt if he will be account to years become.

will be around two years hence

HERE IS A RUNDOWN on "Where Are They Now?"-the lost legion of weekly video comedians:

Jackie Gleason - Now working in motion plctures with occasional television "specials."

He bombed out of two weekly shows.

George Gobel — Recently escaped from a
Broadway flop in which he had invested heavily. He has plans for starring in a weekly situation comedy series next season.

Wally Cox-At loose ends since "Mr. Peepers" and "Hyram Holliday" collapsed, Wally now makes infrequent "guest" appearances on TV when he isn't birdwatching in the woods

Red Buttons-Keeps himself out of mischief by working in movies and appearing on TV shows, playing most dramatic roles. He guest stars 9 p.m. today on "General Electric Theater," channel 2.

Milton Berle-Another two-time loser, hopes star in dramatic TV shows and movies in addition to guest appearances as a comedian. His last regular show was as an emcee on a bowling show.

Sid Caesar—Appears infrequently in television, usually in "dramatic" roles.

Phil Silvers-Back on Broadway

EVEN THE TOP comedy teams, Burns and Allen, Martin and Lewis, not to mention Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, have disappeared.

Distaff members of the trade are not spared the inevitable pink slip either.

Gale Storm—Is semi-retired and playing housewife to her insurance-man husband in the Eve Arden—Tours the country in plays.

Nanette Fabray—She concentrates on "specials" and "spectacular" guest shots.
Imogene Coca — Now spends most of her time on the road appearing in plays.

SUSAN Harrison, Kelton Garwood (the tramp) and Clark Allen are featured on "The Twilight Zone" at 10 p. m. Friday, channel 2. They are three of "Five Characters in Search of an Exit.

Monique Stars in Spy Story

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UPI)-Monique Van Vooren, Belgium's gift to mankind, was a child in Brussels during the second world war but she wants one thing clearly understood:

"I was never in the underground. My parents were never in the underground. I was never an urchin. I never starved, If all the underground stories about girls coming from Europe were correct, there'd be nobody above ground."

Miss Van Vooren majored in philosophy in college and then studied law. She speaks six languages. She was junior figure-skating champion of Belgium for three straight years. She designs clothes and writes short stories.

And yet, in television and movies, she is not asked to play the part of philosopher, lawyer, linguist, designer, or writer—and junior figure-skating is out because Miss Van Vooren long ago lost her junior figure. For some years now, she's been senior to practically every-body. As figures go, her's goes almost too far,

"I'M ALWAYS PLAYING parts where I get killed, or pushed, or I steal or I lie," she said. "I don't think I've ever done anything where I don't end up killed. They say wicked girls have to die-that's so untrue,

"However, I'm happy to be playing the other woman." The other kind is always kind of dull. In this TV show, I'm a spy for the Nazis, And I get shot.

"As a small girl I always used to play spy, I remember. Like you in America play cow-boys and Indians, in Europe the kids play spy. But this show I'm doing is a true story of World War II. It took a long time for it to be cleared by the OSS."

The show to which she refers is tonight's (Sunday) offering of the Du Pont Show of the Week titled "Trick or Treason." It airs 10 p.m. on channel 4.

"They picked me up for this part as a spy because I looked like one," Miss Van Vooren continued. "As soon as they got me, they be-gan trying to make me not look like a spy. The makeup department tried to make me look about like a peasant."

IT IS SAID that the makeup people tried to de-glamorize Miss Van Vooren for this part. The effort must have shaken their resources. However, she was exposed to makeup at an early age in Brussels:

"I remember one Christmas Eve during the war we were asked to take home an American soldier for dinner. To our family came a private, Richard Gully, and he had worked for Warner Bros. He later sent me my first movie magazines and pancake makeup. I had asked him to, and my mother was furious."

As a singer-actress, Miss Van Vooren has run through the whole show business gamut in several countries-television, movies, theater, night clubs—and has shown a considerable talent on TV panels such as "To Tell the Truth" and "I've Got a Secret."

Of panels, she says: "They're easyhearsal, good pay—I feel like I'm stealing the money." But she wants to concentrate on act-

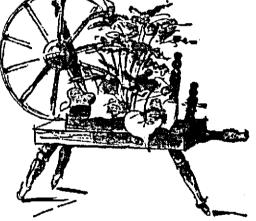

"When I entered show business eveybody said: 'Good lord, a name like Monique Van Vooren—you can't use it.' But I kept it. And acting is what I like and want to do. I've done night clubs all over. But I like acting, And I'm like the Russians—I've got a five-year plan and three more years to go."

My goodness, what is your goal?

SUGGESTION FROM CITY PHOTO TRADE UP TO THE FINEST LEICA

ANOTHER CHRISTMAS

Ready for better pictures? Whether you're deeply involved in photography or take "just anapshots" let us show you a Leica. You may have a friend who owns a Leica; he's probably told you that it never disappoints. A Leica owner never gets into a photographic situation where his camera can't deliver. Bring in your old camera; let's discuss a trade-in for a new Leica M-3 or Leica M-2, with automatic features that make photography easier than ever, Once you own a Leica, you'll never want to trade again.

Bert's Eye View

Baby Pose Marie no longer is

When a child hits age 36, it is time to shed the swaddling clothes.

In fact, swaddling shedding is way overdue.

But it is difficult to shuck the raiment of childhood when you are a phenomenon.

Legend does not stop becoming legend with added age. Its flavor mellows with time.

When Baby Rose Marie was 5 years old, she started becoming a legend. She had a phenomenal voice.

It was a husky, masculine voice that sometimes led sceptical listeners to believe that Lawrence Tibbets was in the wings singing the song the pint-size girl was mouthing.

Lawrence Tibbets was not in the wings. The voice actually boomed from the girl.

It was not just a freakish voice. It was not just some-throat rasping.

It was harmonious, It was pleasant,

So was the child who used it.

She used it on radio. She used it in motion pictures. She used it on the stage and in recordings.

She professionally used it and the name Baby Rose Marie until she was 13 years old "and I became fat and ugly."

THE FATNESS AND UGLINESS are gone now, if, indeed, they ever did exist save in the mind of the then teen-ager.

They are gone but the name, "Baby," legend-lingers on. "Lots of people still call me 'Baby'," she said.

"Actually, they mean it with love and affection and I really shouldn't resent it."

But the fact remains that "Baby" Rose Marie no longer is. Rose Marie, yes.

An accomplished comedienne—who can still belt out a tune in a voice that has shown remarkably little change-she is featured in the role of Sally on "The Dick Van Dyke Show" at 8 p.m. Tuesdays on CBS-TV (channel 2).

The women who was "Baby" has been married for 15 years to trumpeter Bobby Guy. They have a 13-year-old daughter, Georgiana.

Understand this woman. She is not resentful because she was a child star.

"Listen," she said. "I don't know where people get the idea that a child actor has to be deprived of a normal childhood.

"I had time, most of the time, to attend public school, I had everyday friends. 'On Saturday mornings I had to clean my room, including scrubbing the floor.

"My mother (Mrs. Stella Curley) repeatedly told me: 'Whenever you want to stop being an actress, just say so and you can "I never said I wanted to stop.

"A child actor has got to want it to do it.
"I don't care what kind of a 'stage' mother or father he has. There is nothing any 'stage' mother or father can do about It if their child rebels. If he doesn't want to act, they can't force

"Because, even if they could force him out on the stage, the forcing would show in his performance. His performance would be a nothing. And 'nothing' performers don't last.'

\*  $\star$ ROSE MARIE, who wasn't forced, has lasted.

The child, who "was born in a wind tunnel," became an acting adult that traipsed the nightclub circuit from East Coast

The child became an adult that was co-starred with Phil Silvers in a Broadway musical, "Top Banana."

The child is a woman who has appeared in dramatic roles on such television programs as "Gunsmoke," "Studio 57" and "M-Squad."

She is a comedienne.

"Two drunks went to a zoo and stopped to look at a lion, The lion roared. One of the drunks started to run away. The other stopped him,

"'You can't leave now,' the second drunk said to the first, The movie just started'."

She is a housewife who cooks, knits and believes marriage and a career can successfully mix.

She is a mother who isn't sure whether she should be concerned or amused because her 13-year-old daughter has a mania

She is all these adult things. Just don't call her "Baby." The same of the sa

An original musical fan-'The Enchanted Nuteracker," airs 9 p.m. Saturday on channel 7, Three Broadway stars, Carol Lawrence of "West Side Robert Goulet "Camelot" and Pierre Olaf of "Carnival," are featured in the production.

The story was written by Sam and Bella Spewack, Academy-Award winning authors.

It is based on Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite" ballet score.

LINDA CANBY enacts the role of an 8-year-old girl whose parents are in show business. They are unable to visit the youngster at her boarding school during Christmas vavation.

The unhappy child is befriended by a French teacher who gives her an unusual gift, a magic nutcracker that makes dreams come true.

Carol Haney, choreographer, has "translated" the tradi-tional Nutcracker ballet into the modern for the "Westinghouse Presents" production.

Original lyrics were penned by Edward Eliscu and Tchaikovsky's music was adapted by Sol Kaplan.

The role is that of a San Francisco Chinatown night club entertainer. Nancy won the praise superlatives as a result superlatives as a result of her debut in the title role in "The World of Suzie Wong," filmed in London and Hong Kong. In "Flower Drum Song," Nancy sings and dances to such outstanding Rodgers & Hammerstein hits as "Grant Avenue," "Fan Tan Fannie," "I Enjoy Being a Girl," and has a duet number with Jack Soo in "Sunday." The film is a Ross Hunter adaptation of the Broadway musical hit. For more about "Flower Drum Song" see Page 10.

NEXT WEEK

Christmas long ago in Long Beach lacked the fanfare of the modern approach and the brilliance of today's electronic age, but the spirit of Christmas shone brightly and the thrill of Santa's impending visit was evident in young hearts weeks before the big day. Social events and school entertainment were built around the season. In 1885, the whole community joined in celebrating yuletide. Southland next week will recall these happy by-gone days in a nostalgic article, "Early Day Christmases in Long Beach," by Maymie R. Krythe.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the meaning of SEBAS-TIAN. - Mrs. C. S., Bellflower.

C. S.: SEBASTIAN can be German, Austrian or English. The family founder in each country was named in honor of the celebrated Roman Christian martyr St. Sebas-tian. The Sebastian coat-ofarms granted in Austria pictures St. Sebastian tied to the trunk of a black tree, and is centered on a golden shield. This ancestral insignia refers to the Roman torture of Sebastian, who was tied to the trunk of a tree and shot with arrows.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the genealogy on SCAGGS. Mrs. B., Garden Grove;
 Mrs. W.S., Long Beach,
 B., W. S.: SCAGGS, often spelled Skaggs, is an English name that originated among the Norsemen who invaded and settled part of the British east coast in the 8th century. The source is the Norse given-name Skaggi meaning "bearded or rough-haired one." In the ancestry was Thomas Skegge of Howdenshire who lived in 1375. The coat-of-arms of the Skeges or Scaggs lineage has a blue lion at the top of a shield colored gold on the upper half, blue on the lower half, with a gold and blue chevron across the center.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like data on MUNOZ.-S.M., Long Beach.

Dictionary Habit

NEEDING two of a certain kind of animal for a jungle movie, a motion picture director wrote his supplier:

"Dear Sir—Send me two mongeese . . . !

That didn't sound right, so he tore up the letter and started again:

"Dear Sir—Send me two mongooses . . ."
That didn't seem right, either, so he decided on this version:

"Dear Sir—Send me a mongoose. By the way, while you're at it send me another."

Then there was the policeman who discovered a dead horse on Conquistador Avenue. The conscientious officer couldn't spell conquistador, so he hauled the animal over to Main Street before writing his

If you want to help your child acquire a strong vocabulary, and one which he will use correctly in writing as well as in his speech, teach him the dictionary habit. The dictionary helps him get acquainted with the spelling and pronunciation as well as the meaning of a word.

A person has three vocabularies: (1) the words he recognizes and understands in the books he reads and in his conversations with others; (2) his own speaking vocabulary; (3) his written, or spelling vocabulary. Use of the dictionary helps him shift words from the first category to the second and third.

THE BEST spellers - such persons as teachers, writers, newspaper copyreaders and proofreaders— are the ones who use the dictionary most. They WANT to use and spell words correctly. A person cannot learn all the tens of thousands of words in our language. He can, however, look up the ones which come to his attention.

Make sure your child has a good dictionary. (Ask your librarian to recommend one.)

Encourage him to learn five words a week, A new word becomes a permanent part of his vocabulary when he looks it up in the dictionary and uses it at least three times in his speaking and writing. Encourage him, by example, to consult his dictionary whenever in doubt—instead of hauling the horse over to Main Street,

WHAT'S YOUR HOBBY?

Oodles of Poodles

By Robert Hazelleaf

GIVE Mildred Long a hank of yarn, a couple of small wicker baskets and some cloth, then watch. In a little while she'll come up with a purse that looks like a poodle.

Mrs. Long's interest in small dogs began about eight years ago, when she acquired a toy poodle as a family pet. Remember, the toy breed looks just like the larger French poodle and lends itself to the fancy coiffure, rhinestone-studded collar and 14-karat leash. The difference between the breeds is size. If the toy poodle looks much larger than a Chihuahua, it's mostly hair.

Presently, there are five toy poodles making their home with the Long family at 1293 Cameron St.

But there is another side to Mrs. Long's poodle hobby. Her real kicks come from devising purses and other dress and home accessories. She began about four years ago, and most of her product went to friends who showed interest. They were so in-trigued that they suggested Mrs. Long show her novel products at the 1960 Los Angeles County Fair.

SHE SAYS: "The fair was a real dud the first three days that year. I'd taken a booth with the idea that it might be a bad gamble. Those three days, I just knew it. People did nothing but stay away.

"But, then, by the fourth day, the rush started. For the next two weeks I did nothing but make poodle purses as fast as I could. It was rough,

but it was wonderful, too."

In the few years she's been making them, Mrs. Long's purses have sold to George Jessel (a gift for his daughter), to Lucile Ball from a stock of them at Palm Springs' Acapulco Shop, and to other celebrities.

A friend of Mrs. Long's, Bobbie Norwood, is a fashion model who makes it a point to take a purse with her as she travels about the country. Her last trip, to San Antonio, Texas, aroused both interest and orders.

From purses, Mildred Long has branched into decorative pillow covers with poodle heads, knitted overcoats for wine bottles with poodle heads, small baskets with poodle heads, and other accessories-with poodle heads.

Santas certainly do have their share of troubles!

It Happens Every Christmas

THAT DO YOU want for Christmas, little one?"

Department store Santa Clauses ask this question unendingly each working day. Yet, each answer is a new experience. A toothless grin, a shy request for a doll, a little tyke who breaks into tears and clings to mama on his first trip to Santa's toyland—all these make a typical day for an average Santa Claus.

Although they are enthusiastic about their work, most department store Kris Kringles suffer the occupational hazards of the trade. Last year they reported a variety of casualties ranging from having their beards sud-denly and violently wrenched from their bleeding chins to receiving the kicks and punches of disappointed small fry. One youngster even whipped out a cigarette lighter and converted Santa's beard into a flaming torch.

IN DETROIT last year, one little boy reduced Santa Claus to a quivering hulk before the season was half over. He was delivering his list to Santa and the old fellow was nodding at each item. "You'd better write it down," the lad suggested.

"Oh, that won't be necessary,"
Santa smilingly replied. "I'd never forget a nice little boy like you. You just wait and see. Santa Claus never forgets."

A couple of hours later the same little boy made his way into another department store and headed for the smiling bearded gentleman. "Aha," said the completely unsuspecting

Santa. "and what would you like Santa to bring to your house?"
"See, I knew you'd forget," howled the youngster, kicking Santa in the shins. "I told you to write it down."

To most of us walking into a busy there to do our Christens shoring.

store to do our Christmas shopping, Santa Claus is just another guy earning his living. He's that to be sure and much more. He's the most important man in the world to millions of youngsters—a fact he must never forget. And it's sometimes difficult to remember, especially when his adulators drive him to the brink of physical exhaustion, exasperation and even despair.

FORTUMALELY, this doesn't occur every day. Even so Mr. Claus en-counters a hatfui of woes. After counters a hatful of woes. After bouncing a couple hundred kids on and off his knee each day, one prac-titioner of the St. Nick profession could scarcely walk by the end of the day. A doctor diagnosed the case as a bad attack of "Santa's Lap," and warned the nationt that his knee just warned the patient that his knee just wouldn't take the traffic. So the store came to the rescue with a little seat that swung out over Santa's lap.

On his first day at work, the Santa Claus at a Los Angeles department store had his pocket picked of his wallet and watch. The same morning he was embarrassed to the toes of his shiny black boots by the skeptic dreaded by all Kris Kringles-the little beard tugger. "This boy came up to me," the hapless St. Nick recounts, "and said he wanted to pull my whiskers.

"I said okay, if I could pull his hair, figuring a little child psychology would scare him off. Instead, he gave would scare him off. Instead, he gave my beard a tremendous yank. Down it came, mustache and all—clear to my Adam's apple."

On the other hand, a cuddlesome little girl in Philadelphia stood back and studied Santa for some time. Then she tiptoed up to him and with a look of adoration whispered, "Santa, will you promise me you will never shave?"

One thoughtful little lass climbed on Santa's knee and presented him with a safety razor and an aerosol bomb filled with shaving cream. Comnever relax their vigilance for a moment because children are unpredictable. Innocent and shy as they appear, they may have mayhem, or worse, on their minds. And that's not to mention the questions, often em-barrassing, that they may spring.

pletely miffed when the old gent firmly declined to use the gift on the spot, the little lady squirted him with shaving cream.

In Pekin, Ill., a Kris Kringle was victimized by a band of "enlightened" youngsters. They lay in wait for Santa to appear in a street parade. When he came on the scene, the little monsters snowballed the old boy right off the street and out of his honorable profession.

TROUBLE plagues Santa Claus in so many forms that it is a wonder he ever leaves the North Pole. In St. Louis, a harrassed Santa inadvertently dropped a 4-year-old from his lap and wound up paying a $10,000 judgment. An unsympathetic judge ruled he had shattered the kid's faith.

Kids ask for everything from live Rids ask for everything from five elephants to baby brothers and sixeters. One 6-year-old girl in San Francisco asked for a pair of boxing gloves. "The boys in the first grade are getting too fresh," she informed Santa. "The next kid that gets smart, I'll biff him one." A couple of years are appropriate asked for a new ago one youngster asked for a new Co. and sample corner representative remanagementations to page and propression and property of the englandina of the daddy because hers was "wearing out on top." Another lassic requested a wedding gown "so that I can marry my daddy."

ONE OF THE strangest requests a Santa Claus ever received came from an 8-year-old boy. Listing the items he wanted for Christmas, he wound up with a request for $500 in cash. Puzzled, Santa asked him why he wanted all that money.

"Well, sir, Santa," he said, "after this year I'll not believe in Santa and I'll want the cash to purchase my own Christmas gifts."

Selecting the right man to fill Santa's boots is a painstaking project. The final decision comes only after hundreds of applicants have been carefully screened. Usually sixtyish, the average St. Nick boasts a ruddy face, a prominent paunch and a benign air. Above all, he has an abundant fondness for children. And if he's a graduate of the Santa Claus School at Albion, N. Y., so much the better.

Founded a number of years ago by Charles W. Howard, this unique school tutors would be Kris Kringles in such subjects as child psychology, realistic make-up, the educational value of toys, and how to make tacted the constructions. ful suggestions. Graduates of the week's course receive a diploma. Further study qualifies them for a B. S. C. degree—Bachelor of Santa Claus. A number of students have earned the emblem of this honor—a silver pin representing a chimney.

DOUBTING Thomases occasionally bring Santa a trying moment or two. One Santa Claus tells of a young man who held grave doubts as to Santa's who held glave alouds as to Sainta true identity. Being precoclous, he investigated the whole matter to his own satisfaction and pronounced: "Santa, you are all right."

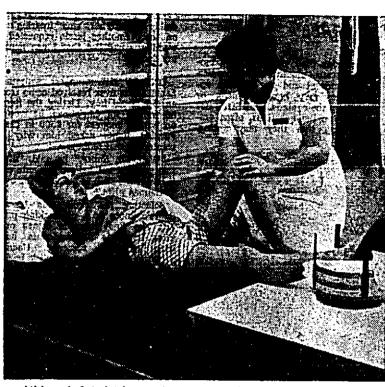

Pressed for an explanation, the youngster told his story. "When I was in here the other day, I swiped one of the hairs from your beard. My granddaddy has a white beard. too, and I pulled out one of the hairs. My daddy is a doctor and has a mi-croscope. I put both hairs under it and they were both alike. Santa, you are real."

Despite trying moments, there's probably not one Santa Claus in a thousand who would give up the thousand who would give ap the privilege of meeting the starry-eyed little people. For every mayhemminded kid, there's probably a hundred others who throw their little arms around the old gent, sit on his lap and kiss him.

Kris Kringles of long experience can recall a barrel of pleasing ex-periences. One youngster, who had been listening to the motley array of goodies his small tyke friends were going to leave out for Santa's midgoing to leave out for Santa's midnight snack, visited the bewhiskered gentleman at the local department store. "Santa Claus," he said, "I've been listening to all the stuff the other kids are going to leave for you to eat. I feel sorry for you. If you want to come to my house, I'll leave some Alka-Seltzer."

A little blind girl, though, who was led to Santa's side, deftly epitomizes one of the chief attractions that keeps Santa Clauses on the job year after year. She felt his whiskers and ran her hands over his fur cap to make kid that gets smart, are manus over his fur cap to make sure who he was. Then she hugged him and said, "Yes, you're Santa Claus. I love you very much."

Quickly, though, she trundled back to the privacy of her room.

"Why are they all staring at me?" she pleaded. "Because I can't walk?"

"No," replied physical therapist "No," replied physical therapist Louise Obenchain truthfully, "It's because you're pretty."

In the gymnasium on Memorial's fourth floor, the first order of business was arm exercises.

Janice winced, "But they'll make my arms too big," she objected. Then she shrugged, complied.

JANICE DIDN'T realize it but her rehabilitation was under way.

Next, there was tilting on the tilttable a half hour at a time (to fa-miliarize her once more with the upright stance)... Balance exercises on hands and knees (to get her used to the feeling of body weight)... Electrical stimulation of hips and knees (to prevent muscles from wasting). . . . Standing in "keystone splints" (to ready herself for leg braces). . . Letting her foot move back and forth on a "skate board" (more leg exercise). (more leg exercise). . . . REHABILITATION physical restoration of a sick or disabled person by therapeutic measures and re-educa-tion to participation in the activities of a normal life within the limitations of his physical disability. — Web-ster's Third New Interna-tional Dictionary.

THE Rehabilitation Department of the Memorial Hospital of Long Beach is one of the most up-to-date units of its kind in the world.

Occupying one whole wing on the hospital's fourth floor. it offers the services of two physiatrists (doctors specialphysiatrists (doctors special-izing in physical medicine and rehabilitation), two physical therapists, an occupational therapist, a social service director, a psychologist, a speech pathologist and a re-habilitation coordinator.

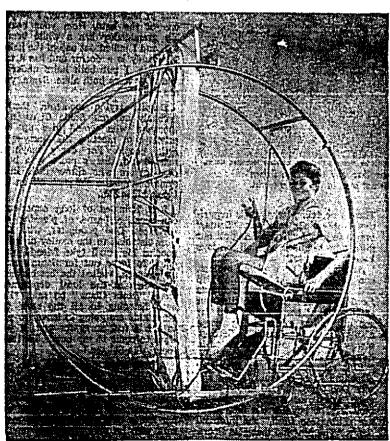

Its patients are admitted only upon the referral of a doctor.

Its facilities are divided into two major sections: physical therapy and occupational therapy.

The physical therapy section offers a gymnasium equipped with more than a dozen exercise devices.

Janice eases into a wheel chair at Memorial Hospital from a special bed for disabled patients, a $700 device known as a Stryker CircOlectric bed.

There's much to do in life again for Janice who has learned to get about as therapy advances under direction of the Memorial Hospital rehab staff.

Around the World in Cheesecake

International parade of cheesecake comes to the screen as one of the musical high lights of "Flower Drum Song," starring Nancy Kwan, James Shigeta, Miyoshi Umeki and Juanita Hall and produced by Ross Hunter for release by Universal-International. Twelve songs from Rodgers & Hammerstein musical hit that ran for 18 months on Broadway are utilized on the screen in 17 musical sequences.

The song number "Gliding Through My Memory" is performed by a Chinese night club master of ceremonies in the musical's famed Celestial Gardens and the musical offering recalls the many loves of a vagabond sailor in his journeys around the world. To backdrop the number, producer Hunter and director Henry Koster personally selected an all-Oriental chorus line to depict the girls from the foreign lands mentioned in the song.

Take a delightful peek at global cheesecake as depicted by four striking Oriental chorines.

"In sunny Barcelona, a dancing chick I picked . . ." sings the sailor, to which Carol Kikumura, above, answers "Ole!"

Lovely Casablanca miss is Amy Liu ... ending this sampling of beauty, but there's more, much more in the film.

T LOOKS NEW, modern, and spacious, and the wide living room with a glass wall in the rear faces a large, expertly landscaped formal gar-den—such is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wang, 2508 Vuelta Grande Ave. Actually, it is a tract house that received a professional face lift that almost puts it in the custom class.

The original Plaza home had the chopped-up look that several small rooms give to a house. It did, however, have a large lot than ran 64 feet wide and 185 feet long. An expert landscape Wang waited until this particular house was available because he wanted an outsized let.

Construction changes in the house Construction changes in the house include enclosing the back porch and making it part of the living room; removing the rear wall (that included a fireplace) of the living room and forming the glass wall; and adding a service porch to the house.

THE FURNITURE in the living room is tailored to enhance the spaciousness of the area. Oyster white carpeting adds to the smooth, streamlined look. Peacock blue is the predominating color in the sectional couch, with low walnut benches at either end. The golden goddess bamboo plant fits well with the decor. Furniture in the dining area is light oak. The ceiling-high plant in the far corner, so well formed that it appears at a glance to be artificial, is a ficus lyrata, excellent as an indoor decoration.

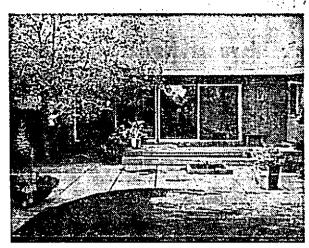

Directly ahead of the entry is a cus-tom music corner with an electric organ facing the entry and acting as a divider for the area. TV and stereo line the far wall.

Mahogany cupboards are s t a i n e d

As the Wangs worked out their face lifting of the house, this music area (right) evolved. Extensive alterations have given the living section a streamlined look.

The floor is a cream-beige, formica working areas are Folding cupboard yellow. doors on the working area open to reveal such muchused appliances as mixers, blenders and the like. Storing these appliances away when not in use is not a problem since they almost don't have to be moved from their storage place, Partitioned drawers (such as one might find in a desk) keep pie tins, muf-fin tins, and cake pans neat and orderly. Large lazy susans in the corners provide easy-to-reach shelves for other cooking utensils.

DOUBLE DOORS open to a tall, narrow (in depth) pantry in the next room. Shelves have been built into the doors themselves, thus almost doubling the storage area. In the laundry room a corner closet holds bulky items such as the vacuum cleaner, mop, brooms,

clothes closet. The smaller room is still very functional with one wall lined with bookshelves, and a built-in corner chest of drawers.

The garden in the Wang home is not unlike some of the famous formal gardens in the Santa Barbara area, Directly in front of the glass wall in the living room is a cemented area, then flower garden and behind that a filigree fence and another flower garden. Trees, shrubs and flowers are abundant,

When the glass wall was put in the living room and the fireplace removed, the Wangs decided that they still wanted a fireplace but not in the house. Therefore, they built a low square fireplace right in front of the full length window. It is not a barbecue type of unit, but of simple design that does not detract from the formality of the garden.

This is a tract home that received the full beauty treatment in the often forgotten back yard as well as the home itself. Expert planning in both cases puts the home in the very special category.

Above, the exterior of the Los Altos residence where the current owners have wrought outstanding changes.

One Woman's Diary of Nazi Horrors

AN American writer doing research for an article on the trial of Adolf Eichmann discovered documents in Israel disclosing that Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York had a sister who had been a prisoner in Germany's Ravens-bruck concentration camp for women during World War II.

When the writer, S. L. Shneiderman, returned to the United States, he found Gemma La Guardia Gluck, now 80, living in New York-probably the only native American woman ever sent by the Nazis to a horror camp. He per-suaded her to complete her memoirs, which be edited and prefaced,

Arrested as an important political hostage, along with her husband, daughter, son-in-law and grandson, in Budapest after a bitter denunciation of the Nazis by her brother in New York, she kept a record of her experiences and was especially proud of her uniting of women of many nations at a clandestine International Table despite Nazi ef-forts to incite them against each other,

Not until her release, eventual repatriation to New York and short-lived reunion with the cancer-stricken Mayor La Guardia did she learn that she had been marked originally for extermination but was kept alive on Eichmann's orders for possible exchange for an important German,

By Ruth C. Ikerman

TT IS a well accepted seasonal fact that Santa Claus has the marvelous ability to read the letters which small boys and girls scribble or print for him. Or even those they write only in their hearts and with their smiles and dimples.

But sometimes it is hard to remember that he can also read the correct and ordinary letters of adults, provided they remember to ask him for what they truly want from life. He can also read the paw prints of the family cat or dog. Finding this fact out for certain has given me new faith in Santa Claus, and in marriage as well,

For when my husband asked me what I wanted for Christmas, I told him there was one thing which I needed every day of my life. Looking at the scratches on my hand I ruefully confessed that I needed a pair of gloves to wear during the daily romp with the family tomcat and his bouncing rubber ball. For sometimes this cat forgets that I am not a cat, and I forget that he is not completely human.

"Gloves to wear while play-ing with a cat? That's the very silliest letter ever writ-ten to Santa Claus," said my husband grimly.

So I thought I was much too old to write such letters, and stood ready to receive a staid proper gift for adults. Yet on Christmas morning a certain box seemed light in weight.

Inside were gloves, and you'll never guess but those gloves were made of FUR. That's right, Santa Claus had not only read my letter but had known that the gloves ought to be of fur, if they were to be worn while playing with my cat, transforming my hands temporarily into furry paws.

WHAT I AM wondering now is whether the cat wrote his letter to Santa Claus, too, with his own soft pawprints? I didn't know enough to specify fur gloves when I wrote my letter to him. Yet Santa knew that a cat needed fur gloves to fondle him in a romp.

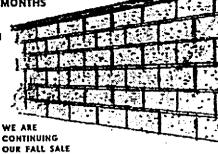

It's a wonderful world despite the Russians and men from Mars when Santa Claus can once each year read the craziest letters of tension filled adults, the soft pawprints of kittens and puppies, as well as the hidden wishes of children.

Shaving Vote: 'Wets', 2-1

By Ben Zinser and George X. Trimble, M. D.

WillCH IS better—wet shave or dry dry shave?

No one knows for sure, says Dr. Herbert Mescon, chairman of the department of dermatology at Boston University School of Medicine.

"You can cut yourself just as much with an electric razor as with a blade," he contends.

ON THE OTHER hand, he adds, the closer you shave, with either instrument, the more nicks you can expect-and a blade razor shaves closer than an electric razor.

After-shave lotions are of no real value, he continues. But pre-shave preparations for dry shaving permit easier shaving, he believes.

American men prefer wet shaving to dry, 2 to 1, he says.

Here are tips for wet shavers:

- Wash the face with soap and hot water for at least one minute to soften whiskers and remove the water-resistant film of natural oil that collects on them.
- Rinse with hot water and apply shaving preparation. Let whiskers soak for 60 seconds.
- Keep razor and face wet while shaving.
- Shave chin and upper lip last to allow the heaviest concentration of whiskers the longest time to soften.

Men with oily skin are urged to use a lather-type of shaving cream and a brush, an aerosol foam or a mentholated cream. Men with a dry or soap-sensitive skin should use a brushless cream.

The report is in Today's Health, a publication of the American Medical As-

THEN MAN makes a better lifejacket, Seaworthy Sierra Sam probably will show the way. Sam is the name researchers have given a specially made dummy used to develop lifejackets.

In preliminary trials in Great Britain, Sam has behaved like an uncon-scious human: In still fresh water he sinks, slightly feet first; when wearing an RAF Mae West, he floats in a 45degree, face-upward position.

RESEARCHERS earlier used human subjects, under general anesthesia, to de-termine precisely how an unconscious person behaves when immersed.

Dr. E. A. Pask, professor of anesthetics at the University of Durham, reports in the British Medical Journal that Sam is being used in experiments conducted by the RAF Institute of Aviation Medicine and the Royal National Life-Boat Institution.

The dummy is manufactured by the Sierra Engineering Corp. of California.

Taste Treats from Raisinland

RESTIVE DESSERTS, resplendent with fruit and nuts, traditionally receive top billing during the holidays. Some of these are newcomers and others are old-timers done up with flair for the modern hostess.

Fruit cake is one of these, supplying eye appeal, taste delight and stirring memories of happy holiday seasons gone by.

And while the ingredients are being assembled, raisins claim attention, having been used in feast day celebrations since long before Christ was born. Down through the ages, treasured raisin recipes for holiday foods have been passed from mother to daughter. In only 100 years, California has come to supply all of America's raisins, with a large tonnage besides for export to foreign countries.

Fruit cake is a choice gift, too; particularly if the giver can say: "I made it myself." Here is help with the making:

Golden West Fruit Cake

1 cup dried apricots cups dark seedless raisins cups golden seedless raisins cup slivered blanched almonds cup chopped walnuts cup halved candied cherries cups diced mixed candied fruits and peels cups diced candied pineapple

cups shortening

Cover apricots with boiling water and let stand 5 minutes. Drain land slice. Combine with raisins,

Both dark and golden raisins star in this fragrant, moist Golden West Fruit Cake as traditional desserts claim attention for the holidays. A variety of colorful candied fruits and peels join with raisins to make this beautiful cake. Honey and spices add Old World touches to this favorite.

Stir in fruits and nuts, mixing well. Turn into greased 10-inch tube pan lined with 2 thicknesses of greased brown paper and one of waxed paper. Bake in very slow oven (250 degrees F.) with shallow pan of hot water on floor of oven about 5 hours. Makes 1 tube cake (71/2 pounds).

Raisin Crown Cake

cup mixed candied fruits and peels cup sliced brazil nuts or almonds

cups sugar

teaspoons rum extract

teaspoon vanilla

large eggs, separated

cup cornstarch teaspoons baking powder teaspoon salt

teaspoon cream of tartar

Sift flour, cornstarch, baking powder and salt together, Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Stir in fruits and nuts. Beat egg whites with cream of tartar to soft peaks. Beat in remaining ½ cup sugar to make meringue. Carefully fold into batter. Spoon into well-buttered tube pan or mold (about 2½ quart size) that has been lightly sprinkled with sugar. Bake in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) about 1 hour, 10 minutes or until cake tests done. Remove from oven and allow cake to stand in pan 10 minutes before turning out on wire rack to cool. Wrap cake in foil and store in a cool place until served. Powdered sugar may be lightly sifted over top of cake, it desired. Cut cake with a thin bladed, sharp knife. Makes I large cake.

MONTEGO BAY, JAMAICA DON'T get the idea that this island in the British West Indies is only a pancake with a palm tree on it.

Jamaica, 148 miles long and more than 50 miles wide, and lying about 90 miles offthe southeast coast of Cuba, is the largest island in the West Indies Federation, Its area of 4,411 square miles is 390 miles greater than Hawaii, biggest island in our 50th state and the one on which Hilo is located.

I got my first glimpse of it as our 880 Convair, on its inaugural flight into this part of the world for the rapidly expanding Delta Air Lines, swooped down from 37,000 feet for a landing beside the

The Jamaica Tourist Board took over immediately, es-corting us through crowds of native Jamaicans who had gathered to greet us. In an unused portion of the air terminal, members of the board extended to C. E. Woolman, president of Delta, and to Mrs. Woolman and the other 84 members of our party Jamaica's greeting and served the official drink-a Planter's Punch

AND THERE WAS plenty left for seconds because, we learned later, Jamaica produces 2 million gallons of rum annually. Later, tooeverywhere we went — we were greeted first with a glass of rum punch.

Refreshed by tropical rains, the island is indescribably lush and green. As we motored to our hotel, the Colony, the warm Caribbean surf pounded on one side, the wind whistled through a jungle of coco palms and banana trees on the other.

Travel the world over and you will encounter no friend-, lier people. More than 90 of every 100 persons are Negro, or mixed Negro and white ancestry. Visitors will agree that an unforgettable memory is that of these natives walking along the highway, most of them dressed in bright-colored costumes, waving or speaking a friendly greeting as they pass.

A GREAT MANY of them earn their living in agricul-tural pursuits, of course, since the island's economy is largely fruit, coffee, sugar cane and tobacco. Miles of sugar cane, ready for cutting, stretch out on either side of the highways, interspersed by coco palms and rice fields. Bananas are everywhere: in fact, Jamaica ranks eighth in banana exports among the countries of the world. Citrus fruits are common, and much of the tobacco grown is manufactured into Jamaicamade cigars, one of the big industries along with rum.

Little did Christopher Columbus know, when he discovered Jamaica in 1494, that it would become first a refuge for buccaneers, and later the greatest slave market in the Western Hemisphere, before entering the peaceful way of life it knows today.

Of the 1.6 million people on Jamaica, 300,000 live in Kingston, the capital, Every corner of the island is in-habited. Most American tourists traveling by air spend the greatest part of their time here in Montego Bay, where splendiferous hotels and clubs line the powdered coral strand. Another popular spot is Ocho Rios, 65 miles east of Montego, which boasts such fine hotels as the Silver Seas.

JAMAICA SEFAIS to have quickly assimilated 15,000

Cubans who have found refuge here from the Castro regime. The natives, in fact, never speak of the troubles their neighbors to the north are having. Castro, to them, does not exist, it seems.

Only English is spoken except for a native dialect which is basically English. This is particularly true in areas outside Kingston. Visitors often are surprised to hear natives speak with a marked British accent.

Climate, naturally, is what brings tourists to Jamaica. The island sits aside the trade winds, which keep days cool. Breezes from the mountains -Blue Mountain Peak rises 7,520 feet — keep out the tropic heat at night. In the winter, the average temperature is in the mid-70s; in the summer, in the low 80s.

Sports include golf, tennis, polo, boxing, horseracing and, of course, fishing and such water sports as skin-diving, water skiing and spear-fishing. Rafting is popular on the rivers of the interior. Others go for mountain climbing.

shows from the ranks of their regular employes, and permit their guests to dance to

Some of Europe's finest municipal garages are located in Frankfurt where it is possible to park one's car for about 10 cents an hour. A new garage, accommodating 1,000 cars, is under construction near the main railroad station and city fairgrounds, reports the German Tourist Office, In contrast to American practice, motorists drive their own vehicles into the structure and park in slots indicated on a ticket obtained at the entrance.

calypso music and watch the Limbo and fire dances. The Silver Seas in Ocho Rios is such a spot, A special act here is the appearance of the singing Lord Composer, whose recordings are well known in the States.

Delta Air Lines' new direct service departs Los Angeles International Airport each Friday at 1:30 a.m., stops briefly at Dallas and New Orleans, and reaches Montego Bay at 12:50 p.m., EST, the distance of 4,027 miles. The return trip is made each Saturday, which makes it just right for a week or two-week visit and get back in plenty of time to report back on the job Monday morning.

Either way the view of Hong Kong on approaching Kai Tak Airport is one of the most stunning aerial sights in the world. The plane swoops low among the brown hills, and in the sharp tropical light details stand out and envelop the viewer like Cinerama.

The scenes shift and change from stacks of angular apartment houses to dismal slum shacks to the skyscrapers of Victoria City. But dominating all is the twisting winding harbor and its limitless variety of traffic - the cruise liners, the freighters, the ribsailed junks, the compact sampans, the chunky ferry boats and the jazzy cabin

Boatloads of families, giggling teen-age girls and leering youth, float through the evening.

A group of musicians glides by. One of them strums a long guitar-like instrument, singing with his eyes closed in the curious undulating falsetto of Cantonese music. There is a violin, a xylophone, and a tambourine slapped by a young girl.

There are floating hot dog and hamburger stands, floating schools and school buses and water taxis, hailed like any taxis. And there are the inevitable teen-agers who want their own boats when they turn 14 so they can attach outboard motors to them and zoom around in hot rod sampans, to the dismay of their parents.

Modern styling is possible with a budget bonus if home furniture is made from easy-to-follow plans.

MOUNG couples setting up housekeeping — or, for that matter, anyone wishing to redecorate a stodyy room — have an advantage unknown a few decades ago. They can furnish much of a home or an apartment in high fashion on a ridiculously low budget. The method, of course, is to build the furniture yourself, says the designer, Ursula M.S. Dadras.

Illustrated are a cocktail table and founge, both modern and easy to build by following a simple but effective plan.

The table is 40 inches long, 22 inches wide. Lounge platform is 71x18½ inches. The Sketchbook plan gives all dimensions and easy-to-follow instructions.

Q. When did hotels adopt the American and European plans of service? T. L. A. The American plan (under which guests pay a fixed rate for board as well as for room) goes back to early Colonial days, when the guests at the inn ate whatever the landlord and his family hap-pened to have. The European plan of furnishing hotel accommodation and leaving the guest to eat when and where he wishes, originated in France and was introduced here about 1835. Some hotels offer a guest his choice of plans.

Q. Is there more than one kind of "fool's gold"? D. V.

A. The mineral pyrite (iron pyrites), a pale brass-yellow in color, is the one usually called fool's gold. Chalcopyrite (copper pyrites), a deeper yellow, also resembles gold. Flakes of weathered biotite (black mica) washed up in stream gravels are said to look so much like flake gold that they have fooled many finders.

Last of the Hell-for-Leather Pilots

As a matter of fact, all of them pay for this privilege of helping the nation. Cadets buy their own uniforms, pay $1 for books needed in their studies. At the two-week en-campment held last summer they shelled out $21. Adults pay $7 a year in dues. Uniforms on the senior level are expensive. Col. Aughton, for example, has $150 invested in his work and dress uniforms.

FOR THIS, the CAP member is allowed to wear Air Force blues (with CAP auxiliary patch), use a govern-ment field (a section of the Long Beach airport) and buy goods in the PX (but not cigarettes). The Air Force also has loaned the local group three aircraft.

Despite this, a Long Beach policeman such as Aughton and a Long Beach Douglas security supervisor such as James E. Brady—as a major, he serves as executive officer of the group—consider it no sacrifice to serve in the CAP. With a paternal nod of approval, they point out to visitors that 78 former CAP cadets were in the most recent graduating class at the Air Force Academy in Colo-

Perhaps, veteran pilot Lt. Bill Raso, a process engineer at Long Beach Douglas, best sums it up when he says: "When I'm out on a rescue, I put myself into the person's place and that I'm downed. In that case, I know I would hope that the CAP would come looking for me."

THE CAP does not store its eggs only in the nests of cadet training and rescue missions. It maintains the world's biggest civilian radio network and, as a result of a recent contract with the state, is designated as California's Paul Revere in the event of nuclear attack.

The California Disaster Office would use the CAP as speedy couriers in civil defense work during emergencies in addition to aerial surveillance of traffic, transport for personnel and supplies, and aerial photography and reconnaissance flights.

Through its more 1,000 fixed radio stations across the country, the CAP is able to provide vital communication for military and Civil Defense leaders. In the Long Beach area alone, the CAP maintains 15 receiving and sending sets.

Another important function is aerial radiological monitoring. The Long Beach group has one airplane with equip-ment that could be used to skirt the area to record fallout in case of war. The local CAP group only recently completed a training mission for such radiological monitoring.

The Civil Air Patrol, which marked its 20th anniversary Dec. 1, is chartered by the U. S. Congress "to provide aviation education and foster civil aviation in local communities" and serve in times of emergencies.

THEIR BEST tribute comes from their neighboring Air Force buddies in the 8646 Air Recovery Group at Long Beach Air Force Base, Says Maj. Ev Hosking, in-formation officer:

"Aeronautically, the CAP fellows are damn good. Militarily, they've got snap and poise

"More important - they've got drive, they're ready to do a job on a minute's no-

Maj. Hosking adds: "They're the last of the hell-for-leath-er pilots."

By Eleanor Avery Price

Of course, pick a healthy pet. A kitten or puppy should be bright-eyed, alert, with a shining coat and an air of well-being. Don't consider a shy, apprehensive pet nor one with a runny nose or eyes, dull coat or bloated stomach.

PICTURED WITH this article are five pug puppies, a breed once widely popular and seemingly regaining popularity. Origin of both Euro-pean and Chinese pugs is wrapped in obscurity, but it seems likely that both are offspring of Chinese ances-tors. In England during the reign of William III, the pug was called Dutch pug and was popular among the courtiers and often was decorated to a warning given by one The pug is a clean-limbed or apricot-fawn with darker markings; a few rare pugs are

By Bob Knight

YOU CAN have a whole family Christmas movie on one roll of film-if you plan for it.

Of course, you may like to shoot more freely and use more footage-and far be it from me to discourage your doing this. Christmas is such a wonderful, personal time of the year that you can't have too many pictures.

But, if you're budget-

minded this year and want a whole movie for the price of a $2.40 roll of 8mm color film (plus approximately $1.50 for processing), let's imagine a family whose holiday activities revolve about a boy named Billy,

On this single roll of film, you'll be able to get 40 to 50 average length movie shots. Since variety adds interest, you'll want to vary the lengths of your shots, the distance, and the camera angle.

PLAN YOUR script to take in some of the tree decorating and preliminary activities to the actual passing around of gifts. Use your imagination.

To illustrate what we mean, here's a sample excerpt from a simple script (c.u. means closeup shot and m.s. medium shot) of a boy named Billy and his Christmas:

c.u.-Billy's hand knocking on parent's door, 3 sec.; c.u.

A Puppy Could Be a Christmas Gift

by Vera Schenck, Japanese spaniel fancier.)

SINCE the puppy dearly loves to rip things apart, take a tip from the gypsies and give him cabbage clumps or roots of non-poisonous plants. (Poisonous ones include elephant ear, narcissus, jimson weed, mountain laurel, four o'clock, cyclamen, pimpernel, lily of the valley, spi-der lily, rhododendron, bayonet, tulips, monkshood.) I have found that worm-free river driftwood aged until it has become harmless vegetable matter, can be crumbled in your fingers, and is light in weight and non-slivery makes a fine rippable toy.

Housebreaking a puppy is 99 per cent anticipation, Take him outside after awakening, after meals, after play peri-ods, and several other times.

Female puppies are every bit as playful as male, Children should not be too rowdy with any puppy, however, or they may be nursing teeth marks and the pets may develop bad habits.

A light shaking or scolding is far better than a spanking. Never make the puppy afraid of your hands,

Glad Trio Tops '62 Selections

By George W. Lasch

THREE NEW developments in the gladiolus field, Ben-Hur, Horizon and Thunderbird, have earned the 1962 rating of All-America Gladiolus Selections.

BEN-HUR promises outstanding performance for years to come. Its parentage is Spic & Span and Burma. From Spic & Span, a winner of grand championships in the past decade, comes the consistent ability to produce perfect spikes time after time, and, from Burma, one of the most beautiful glads ever introduced, comes rose color, form and fancy ruffling. The overall effect is a soft, harmonious, medium shade of rose pink. Vigorous, heauty and sound bulbs give assurance of longevity.

HORIZON is noted for its dawn-fresh, pure rose-laven-der color and ease of growth. The large, recurved florets, with their own inherent lustre and sparkling sheen, are formally placed on towering spikes that are remarkably uniform in height and performance. Ten of 26 buds will open at one time. The unusually strong plants produce healthy, plump bulbs.

THUNDERBIRD color is fiery, vibrant, deep persimmon and is of heavy sub-stance and exquisite ruffling. Seven to 10 of 20 or more buds open at one time in precise symmetrical placement on a sturdy spike, and flowers of championship caliber are produced with ease. Dur-ing the time T-Bird was rigorously tested, it compiled an amazing show record of ten championships and the coveted American Home Magazine Award.

Of special interest to all gladiolus show enthusiasts is the announcement that the Ford Motor Co, will award a specially mounted 1962 authentic scale model Thunderbird car to the exhibitor having the best entry of Thunderbird gladiolus at each of approximately 75 gladiolus shows to be held in the United States in 1962

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . Camellias should be bought during their bloom season so you can see what you're getting. Check nurser-ies for different varieties as they come to bloom.

Spring blooming bulbs are still to be found, but you should plant them without further delay.

ENGINEERING SALES

By Dorothy Jonson

Many people get a great deal of enjoyment out of growing house plants, especially during the time of year when they cannot work in their gardens.

The pottings soils available from the nurseries are usually so good that few of us bother to mix our own. How-ever, for those who wish to do so, the combination I like best consists of about half leaf mold, the other half good rich loam mixed with a little sand, the sand constituting less than one-third of the mix-

We have the choice of many good commercial fertilizers especially prepared for house plants and planters. My first choice is liquid fish; however, for a "change of diet," I sometimes mix 1½ teaspoonfuls of blood meal to a gallon of water, permit it to stand over night, then stir thoroughly and keep it to use occasionally to feed my indoor plants. And about once a month I give a treatment with a trace element product that contains chelates

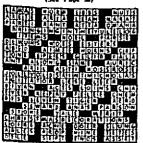

For philodendrons, a little cottonseed meal (1 table-spoonful to an 8-inch pot), given about two or three times a year, is a good prac-

Camellia Show

With camellias at their flowering peak, the interest of cafanciers turns next weekend to the 8th annual Descanso Gardens camellia show at 1418 Descanso Dr., La Canada, Display hours will be from noon to dusk Saturday and from 8 a. m. to dusk Sunday. Admission to the show and the gardens is free at all times.

Exhibitors from throughout Southern California will be represented with Japonica camellias, now at their peak, and camellia reticulata, just starting their season. Descanso Gardens, a facility of the Los Angeles County Department of Arboreta and Botanic Gardens, has more than 1,000 camellia bushes, most of which will be in bloom during the show period. The grounds will be open at 8 Saturday but judging will keep the show area closed until noon.

MILES ARNOLD Chicken Every Sunday

GENIUS is a word that should not be casually applied. It should be reserved for inventors, mathematicians, poets and possibly (when you really need one) for plumbers. It also can be used occa-sionally to describe a restaurateur.

In one area of his life Miles Arnold is definitely a genius. Owner of Arnold's Farm House, 6601 Manchester Blyd., Buena Park, and Arnold's Town House, 3925 Atlantic Ave., he is the wizard who revolutionized the cafeteria business half a dozen years ago. He was so successful he has since been imitated by other 'restaurant men throughout Southern Califor-

Analyzing why people go out to eat, Arnold decided they wanted excellent quality food, plenty of salads, brisk counter service and also waitress service at their tables. When he supplied those ele-ments, people flocked to his restaurants by the hundreds and have continued to do so ever since.

At his huge Farm House restaurant in Buena Park, Arnold offers 17 varieties of salads at a long gleaming glass counter. Patrons ordering his complete dinner (priced from $1.60) receive not one salad, not just two, but three. They also enjoy a potato, vegetable, beverage and roll and butter. Among the many entrees offered are Arnold's famed round of roast beef, tender, juicy and flavor-ful; baked ham, filet of northern halibut and fried chicken.

Each day additional entrees are offered, such as leg of lamb, Swiss steak or roast turkey. On Sundays, for example, the special entree is chicken and dumplings ($1.70), an item so popular that peo-ple drive from towns many miles away in order to feast upon it. Closed Mondays, the Farm House is open daily from 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m.

PERSONALITY PARADE

If you have a question on a personality, send it to Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., N. Y. 17, N. Y. Names will be used unless otherwise requested. PARADE cannot reply individually to questions.

Q. Henry Fonda is scheduled to do a TV spectacular on the American family. Can you tell me how many times Fonda has been married?—Mrs. Roland McGill, Levittown, N. Y.

A. Four times.

Q. What's happened to the late Aly Khan's girl friend, Bettina?—Anna Levin, Newark, N. J.

A. She's gone into the dress business, opened a shop in Paris on the Place Gastand called "Bettina."

Q. Where is Mrs. Bruno Richard Hauptmann, whose husband was executed for kidnapping the Lindbergh baby?—T. R., Trenton, N. I.

A. Mrs. Hauptmann was living in Kamenz, Germany, in 1954, then moved to Bautzen. Since both cities are in the East Zone, occupied by the Russians, no news has been forthcoming of Mrs. Hauptmann.

Q. Which book is the all-time best-seller in the U.S.?— Dorothy West, Oakland, Calif.

A. The Holy Bible. Since 1900, about 500,000,000 copies have been sold.

Q. Would you please tell me the real name of Dean Martin and where he was born?—Virginia Benzek, Chicago, Ill.

A. Dino Crocetti, Steubenville, Ohio.

Q. Does former Vice President Nixon send his two daughters to private or public schools?—Loren Lundigan, Buffalo, N. Y.

A. The Nixon girls go to Marlborough, a private school in Los Angeles.

Q. Who succeeds the President and Vice President of the U.S. should they both die in office? — B. Beer, Columbus, Ohio.

A. The Speaker of the House. Prior to the Presidential Succession Act of 1947, the Secretary of State was third in line, but no longer.

Q. Recently Art Linkletter was stopped near Bakersfield at the beginning of dove-hunting season with 124 doves. What was the penalty? — Steve Giacomazzi, Hartford, Calif.

A. No truth whatever to that story. Linkletter never goes hunting, probably wouldn't recognize a dove if he saw one.

Q. Does the Duke of Windsor still own a large cattle ranch in Canada?—Charles Coulter, Seattle, Wash.

A. A few weeks ago the Duke of Windsor announced through his ranch manager that he was prepared to sell his real estate near High River, Alberta, which he has owned for 42 years.

Q. I would like to ask if Dorothy Provine is married. Also what is her age, and is that her real name? — Debbie Griffin, Madison, Wisc.

A. Miss Provine is 24. She is not married and does use her real name.

Q. For 15 years I've been trying to get the answer to this question: How come in 1941, nine hours after news reached General MacArthur in the Philippines that the Japanese had attacked Pearl Harbor, almost all our aircraft in the Philippines were lined up like sitting ducks on the airfields of Luzon waiting to be destroyed by Japanese bombers—and they were, too. Who was responsible for this shocking negligence and why have the American people never been told the full truth?—P. B., Fort Bragg, N. C.

A. Congress has investigated every aspect of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, has reported on the alleged poor judgment of the Army and Navy officers then and there in command—but it has never investigated what happened in the Philippines on December 8, 1941 or apportioned blame for military ineptness there.

Q. Why does Carol Burnett of the Garry Moore Show rub her finger under her nose or twitch her ear at the end of the show? Is she giving some secret message to some one?—Jo Szymanski, Richmond Hill, N. Y.

A. It's a sign to relatives back home that she's OK.

Q. What was Premier Nikita Khrushchev's position in the Communist Party during the regime of Josef Stalin?

—Adrian Gitana, U.S.Navy.

A. Khrushchev was the party's first secretary in the Ukraine, also a member of the presidium of the U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet.

Q. Please tell me if Miss Norma Shearer ever remarried after being widowed, and also how old she is.—Mrs. Nicholas Stanislo, Dayton, Ohio.

A. Miss Shearer, 57, is the wife of one-time ski instructor Marti Arrouge, whom she married in 1942 six years after the death of her first husband, producer Irving Thalberg.

'HOW I GOT AN ISLAND-FREE'

Waving sign, family landing party sweeps ashore for official naming of the Mississippi River Island "discovered" by Mrs. Dorothy Duncan Storer, Legal techniculfities forced her to choose the name "Dorty" instead of first choice, "Dorothy." To make trip, they had to borrow skiff. Storers have no boat of their own.

by SID ROSS and ROSALIND MASSOW

MEMPHIS, TENN.

THERE'S THIS ISLAND, you see.

In 1954, it didn't exist. Then in 1955 it showed up on maps—a tiny pinprick of sand in a bend of the Mississippi 10 miles north of here. By 1958 official aerial photos showed it was growing. In 1960, it sprouted willow trees. Today the island is a mile and a half long and 15 fect above low water—a genuine, tangible, brand-new parcel of real estate.

Then there's this housewife.

Her name is Dorothy Duncan Storer. She's 37, the wife of a surgeon, mother of three children, bulwark of the PTA and a Sunday school teacher. For a long time, she had nursed a great dream that her family should own some land.

This is the oddball story of how Dorothy Storer practically over the dead bodies of half of Tennessee officialdom—came to be sole owner of the Mississippi's new island—and she got it free.

It all began innocently enough, sometime last spring. Dorothy got to thinking about her urge for property. "All my life," she recalls, "I've been a dogooder and now I wanted to be a capitalist. There's a lot of barren, unused, useless land around, so I decided I'd try to find some of this non-productive land and develop it into something useful and productive.

"I figured I could make some money out of it and give people work, too. I thought maybe I'd grow pine trees on it, or something like that."

One day Dorothy was wistfully explaining her land hunger to a friend, John Spence. Spence immediately told her about the sport of Mississippi land-claiming.

Islands, Dorothy learned, are always being formed and washed away in the broad Mississippi. Most of them, mere slivers of sand, don't last long. But some accrete into "towheads"—sandbars with trees—and others grow into permanent pieces of real estate, which can be purchased, developed and used. The trick is to find one that is new and looks as though it might be around awhile, then to buy it or claim it.

Exploring Old Maps

This sounded exciting—"and intellectually interesting," as Dorothy puts it. "The next day," she recalls, "I set out for the U.S. Army Engineers' office in West Memphis and went to their map room. I told them what I was doing. They gave me a pile of old and new maps and let me study them.

Right away I struck a prospect. It was an itty-bitty sandbar in the river between Mile 742 and 743—that's the way they measure and locate things in the Mississippi. The actual geography of the island places it at 35 degrees, 17 minutes North Longitude; 90 degrees, 6 minutes West Latitude. It was obviously new. The only question was whether someone else had claimed it."

Dorothy bought a book of maps, a sheaf of aerial photos, 10 surveyors' quadrangles, hired a lawyer. Almost immediately it became apparent she had stumbled onto something. No one seemed to have claimed the island. She went back to the Engineers six times to re-check and even to the Engineers' real estate office. There was no record.

"For the first time," she says, "my husband and children got real excited. Up to now, they had been tolerant of me, but now they all began to talk about it.

"My daughter Susan, who's 14, started on a science project to learn what might grow on such an Island. Scott—he's 8—decided we could raise minnows. We had long discussions about what to name the island."

When Dorothy found that the Army Engineers had built dikes on the east bank of the river opposite the island, shifting the main channel to the west, that was the deciding factor. It looked like the island—which was now under eight feet of water—might be protected in the future.

"I didn't know," Doruthy recalls, "whether the island ever would appear again. Every morning when I woke I would ask how high the water was." None-

The problem now was to take title to the island. State laws and regulations regarding islands are a be-wildering jungle, she found. In Tennessee and Arkansas, title stays with the state. In Missouri, counties hold title. In Mississippi, private owners may own "any land that appears from the shore to the thread of the stream." "Thread" is the deepest part of the channel.

Dorothy was satisfied that, due to a shift in the river channel, both banks were in Tennessee, so that state owned the island. She immediately launched a campaign to claim the land.

She started by writing the Tennessee administrator of property services and offering to pay $76 (a figure she arrived at simply by plucking it out of the air) for the island. After a few days, she got a letter back couched in tones usually reserved for addressing a child. Tennessee didn't think it owned the island, the

Then, Dorothy checked with local title companies. They could find no record of ownership of an island 10 miles north of Memphis.

Next she decided to establish her claim by paying Shelby County taxes on the land. The tax collector acted "like she was tetched." If you don't have a title, he reasoned, how can you get an assessment? So Dorothy wrote to the state again, asking for a quitclaim, by which Tennessee would voluntarily surrender the property. This time a huffy letter came back saying in effect, "Couldn't you understand us the last time around?"

Officials in Circles

But these rebuffs only made Dorothy more determined. "I wasn't going to give up just because all the officials were going around in circles," she says. "I heard about the old English common law that possession of unclaimed property could be gained in seven years by the claimant's occupying it openly. I posted a notice on the Shelby County Court House bulletin board and sent out copies to the State Land Commission, county tax assessor, county trustees and U.S. Engineers."

Her notice read:

"I wish it known that I, Dorothy D. Storer, having by my own efforts located a newly formed island in the Mississippi River... which is above the mean low water and is clearly in the State of Tennessee... having exhausted means open to ordinary citizens of limited means to purchase title from the State and County of Shelby, or to find a person paying taxes on said island. I hereby want it known that I plan to establish title by holding it publicly and notoriously and to use it for agriculture... If anyone knows good reason why I should not put Dorothy's Island to good use and pay the taxes that should be paid on it, let them speak now or forever hold their peace."

To date no one has spoken.

Meanwhile, Dorothy and her family paid their first visit to the low-lying island. The whole family, except 14-year-old Susan, who preferred to go horse-back-riding, piled into a borrowed aluminum skiff with outboard motor and chugged out into the river.

"We just wanted to see whether it was really there," Dorothy said. "I sat at the bow and looked at the maps. I didn't know if we could even find the island or what it looked like. I watched for landmarks while my husband Ed steered.

"The closer we got the more excited we were. Finally we saw this low sandbar thing—it looked like part of the bank at first. But the closer we got, the bigger it got and it had the right configuration. It was my island!

"We felt like Christopher Columbus. We beached the boat, and my husband jumped out. He got his feet wet. When I stepped on that sand, I guess I struck a pose and leaped high in the air with joy. My island, my own island! We really carried on.

"We estimated that it was about 75 acres, but later found it was more. It was pretty barren with only one sycamore tree. The willows had washed away, but 1 didn't care. It was really there, not just something on a piece of paper."

'Island Dorty'

But Dorothy hasn't taken possession of the island without one last tussle with bureaucracy. After long and exhaustive conferences, the family decided to name the place "Dorothy's Island." The new owner wrote to the Department of Interior's Board of Geographic Names to register the name. She got back a legalistic reply which said no island could be named for a living person. At the suggestion of Scott, it became "Island Dorty—it rhymes with Island Forty." (Island Forty is a well-known Mississippi landmark.)

Now, with the red tape finally tied up, the family is busy making plans about what to do with the island. There's talk of using the island for farming or camping out. But Island Dorty's new owner doesn't always listen to these practical discussions. Instead, she gets a faraway look in her eyes. Why? Well, there's this other island in the Mississippi, you see, and it's...

WHAT CAN YOU GROW on a sandy island that's under water three months a year, in a generally warm, moist climate? Mrs. Dorothy Storer, no farmer, is considering a crop of willow trees or barbaseo rout, a tropical herb used in making drugs. But she would like further suggestions from Parade readers. If you know of a cash crop that might flourish under such conditions, write her at 3312 Homewood Drice, Memphis, Tenn.

You can't believe what you see

HOLLYWOOD.

A TIME WHEN almost every woman wants to lose inches (below the waist, at least) it's difficult to believe that there are thousands of women who want to add a few.

One man who became profitably aware of this fact a few years ago is Fred Mellinger, 47, founder of Frederick's of Hollywood, which specializes in a variety of padded girdles with such catch titles as Sitzappeal, Glad Paddy, Hidden Flattery, and The Living End. These padded foundation garments are meticulously engineered for the woman who doesn't have enough to go around her hip-line. She is a victim of what Mellinger describes as "derrière deficiency."

Apparently there are thousands of such women, many of them Orientals—Mellinger receives a good portion of his orders from Hawaii and the Far East—who want to be rounded out in the right places. In a world where the girls are forever mascarading behind false eyelashes, bleached hair, layers of rouge, cakemakeup, eye-shadow, wigs, and falsies, the padded girdle is simply one more innovation in modern woman's attempt to achieve physical perfection.

"The idea for the padded girdle came to Mr. Frederick (as he's called in the business) about four years ago," explains his assistant Helene Peterman, "when he saw women in his retail stores trying to fill up the space for curves in the dresses he was then selling. We had padded bras to take care of their fronts but nothing to add curves to the flat bottom or bony hips. Right then Mr. Frederick went to work with foam rubber—what a marvelous invention that is—and after much cutting and fitting, came up with garments which add curves in different places, just over the fanny or the hip bones or both spots. The shaped foam-rubber pads are located in pockets permanently sewn into the girdles and are easily removed when the garment is laundered."

Big-but Curvy

Women write in from everywhere—not only small, tiny, thin, undersized women but even those who are enormous. For example, one woman wrote: "I'm very, very wide but, unfortunately, straight and wide. If I'm going to be big, I might as well be big and curvy, so could you fix me up with a padded girdle for a 40-inch waist?"

Mellinger says his business zoomed from failure

Born on New York's Lower East Side, son of an immigrant tailor, Mellinger at 17 went to work as an office boy in a mail-order firm. He started his own business after the war, sold his merchandise right from the door to make ends meet, then realized that what women wanted most was "to appear sexy to their husbands and boy friends."

Well-grounded in foundation garments, Mellinger decided to specialize in these. He created a blow-up brassiere which the customer inflates according to the size she desires. He then perfected a bra called the "in-up pushup" which has an angled pad and provides a woman with her own cleavage.

Then came his padded girdles, and business skyrocketed. Today Mellinger has a multi-million dollar business and is about to franchise others to operate Frederick's stores across the nation.

Having made various surveys, he knows a good deal about his customers, most of whom fall into two age brackets: between 16 and 25 and between 30 and 40.

"There's a lull between the two groups," he explains. "The young teenager wants to look glamorous and then the gal of 30 who probably is married and has had her children—she wants to regain her shape and keep her husband interested."

Mellinger provides his customers with a shape insurance policy in which he guarantees that a Frederick's garment "will improve your figure or you get your money back." And of course, he is sworn to secrecy.

Recently he received a letter from an army colonel in Louisiana. "I am going with a young woman," the colonel wrote, "who regularly receives your catalog. I went through it the other night and was bug-eyed and speechless as I saw your illustrations of padded bosoms, padded hips, false derrières. You are indeed a master of black magic. Before I propose to my girl friend, would you be kind enough to let me know if her attractive curves, both fore and aft, are true or false?"

Three prisoners from "Operation Youth" talk to students of Kailua High School in a Honolulu suburb. Meeting was so successful school asked men back.

'DON'T BE LIKE US'

by BARBARA PROCK

THE YOUNG MAN who stood before the student body was handsome, poised, well educated. He was young, still in his

Just a few years before he himself had been an undergraduate on this same campus, popular with classmates and teachers, leader of his class scholastically. Eight scholarships to college awaited him when he graduated.

But instead of a college degree, he had earned a court conviction; instead of a family. he had only the companionship of prisoners. He was a convicted burglar.

Even as he talked, a prison official sat unobtrusively nearby. Ten long terms stretched ahead of him. And the only reason he was back at his alma mater was to warn the students from the kind of success he had won.

Pranksters or Prisoners?

The young man is a member of Operation Youth, an organization of inmates at Oahu prison here whose aim is to keep juvenile pranksters from becoming adult prisoners. Its handful of members, whose sentences range from ten years to life and whose crimes include everything from narcotics violations to rape and murder, visit schools, clubs, service organizations and PTA groups.

They Introduce themselves, tell why they're doing time and for how long, talk about prison life. They answer as best they can any questions thrown at them by the audience-usually made up of teenagers and young adults.

Operation Youth was born in 1956, the idea of the Rev. William Steeper, who had arrived in Hawaii a few years before from his native Canada. One of a group of ministers who took turns conducting Sunday evening services at the prison, Steeper eventually was asked to return during the week to talk with some of the inmates about the problems that troubled them.

"We talked about a boy in my parish who had been caught stealing," the minister recalls, "about another who was showing signs of getting into real trouble, and always I asked the men for their advice on how such youngsters could be helped. What I was trying to do, of course, was to build up their self-confidence. I knew that if they could give, they would be better able to receive."

Breaking the Ice

Soon Steeper asked if he might bring others to share the sessions. The first were high school boys from his Sunday school.

Embarrassed and shy, they hesitated to question the prisoners, and the prisoners in turn didn't know how to break the icc.

Finally a thirteen-year-old asked a prisoner, "How long are you in for?"

"What for?"

In the laughter that followed, men and boys relaxed, and before the meeting ended Steeper and the prisoners knew they had stumbled on something important.

They convinced officials to let them go outside the prison to talk with groups that invited them. The Rev. Steeper quietly spread the word through a few schools and community groups, and slowly, without fanfare or publicity, the men started going out into the community to carry their message and their warnings.

The men prefer to talk to teenagers, particularly those who are headed for trouble, and look forward to their frequent sessions at the detention home, where youthful offenders are kept until they go to court.

The men of Operation Youth try to speak honestly. When they disagree on a particular problem, they admit their differences and explain that they speak only from personal experience and that each individual must judge for himself what is right.

Only once have they been unable to capture the attention of a group. These were young toughs who had been tangling with the police with increasing frequency and who were obviously headed for serious trouble.

"lust the kind of kids who really needed to listen," the men point out.

Realistic Advice

The advice they give is realistic and to the point. In one recent session a youngster asked, "What do I do when someone comes looking for a fight?"

"If there's a principle involved, stand up and fight. If he's just looking for trouble, say 'Okay. You win' and walk away."

"What if he calls me vellow?" "Tell him again he wins."

"What if someone tries to hijack my lunch money?"

"Report him. If he comes back and beats you up, fight him. May! a you take a beating. maybe you don't but you lose anyway. whether you report him or not."

The group's slogan is a paraphrase of the famous observation about the bent twig: "It is easier to build youngsters than to mend

That these men, some of whom were as tough as any prisoner ever to enter Oahu prison, have mended themselves enough to be able to advise a youngster to walk away from a fight is an indication of the success of Operation Youth.

Kids-Not Statistics

There is, obviously, no sure way to measure how big a success, for the youngster who heeds the warning will never become a statistic on a police report. But the fact that they are working without visible rewards doesn't bother the men.

"If we can just talk to enough of these kids, particularly the ones who need it most, we're bound to be successful," they believe. "We'll probably never be able to point to a particular kid and say, 'We saved him,' but we'll know there are such kids someplace and that's good enough for us."

"These men probably have more to offer in combating juvenile delinquency than anyone else in the city," the Rev. Steeper points out, "if they can just get to the right groups at the right time."

"We're no heroes," the prisoners say flatly, "and we don't want kids thinking we are. It's all right for them to like us. We're just trying to make sure they won't BE like us."

Flowing slides: You can give still pictures some of the continuity of movies with a new slide projector. Composed of two separate optical systems, it works at the touch of a remote control button to "fade out" one slide from the screen while "fading in" another. It's also said to make possible double-exposure and other unusual effects. For complete details, write Bell & Howell, Dept. PP, 7100 McCormick Road, Chicago 45, Ill.

Something new in a dustpan: This one has a deep well trap in back that catches and hold all sweepings, even liquids. Its feathered plastic edge hugs the floor to make pick-up of fine dust easy. And the pan sits by itself on the floor so you have both hands free for the broom and no need for bending. In pink, yellow or turquoise. 79¢. Beeline Products, Dept. PP, Terminal Sales Building, Portland 5, Ore.

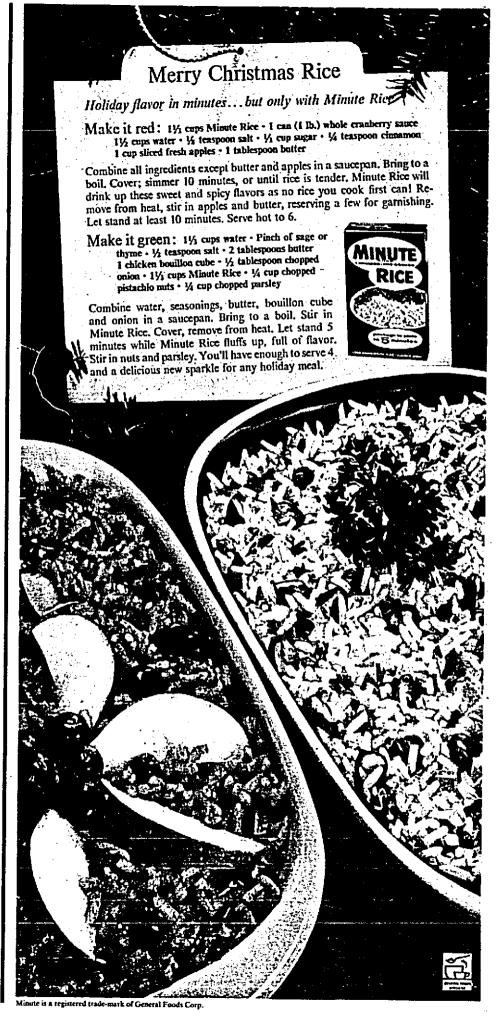

For the stairs: Newest kind of stair tread is made of rubber but looks like wood. An embossed oak grain—in light or medium shade—provides a striking oak-like appearance, yet the tread, like any rubber type, is easy to install and simple to maintain. Special colors can be obtained by use of wood stains and wax. In 18", 24" and 36" lengths and in curved nose and full riser styles, from 89¢. Crown Rubber, Dept. PP, 1615 Croghan St., Fremont, O.

Pedal extender: Slipped onto the gas pedal of your car, a new 7" x 2" steel platform with a black rubber top adds 2 inches to pedal height. It's said to make driving more comfortable, especially for short people and women wearing high heels. Installs in seconds, fits all pedals 1" to 3" in width. $1.98. Eezee-On, Inc., Dept. PP, 1205 New York Ave., Union City, N.J.

Portable bridge set: Open as shown below, here's a standard bridge set of table and four chairs. But when you fold the table's legs and top, it becomes a 34" x 17" x 5½" deep case—with clasp lock and handle—that holds the four folding chairs for easy storage and portability. Useful for patio, picnics or camping. All aluminum, the complete set weighs 22 lbs. About $29.95. For details: Caschome Co., Dept. PP, 4598 East 10th Lane, Hialeah, Fla.

Maria Beale Fletcher poses outside her home in Asheville with parents Peggy and Béale, sisters Margaret, 18, and Bonnie, 10, brother Walter, 10. At right Maria arrives for Miss America Ball.

MISS AMERICA COMES HOME

ASHEVILLE, N.C.

Miles Maria Beale Fletcher, 19 (see cover), was chosen Miss America last September, it was news to the rest of the country, but it was no surprise to the people of this mountain city.

"The others just took a long time to catch up with us," one of Maria's neighbors declared proudly.

With this tone of fond, I-told-you-so admiration, Asheville turned out recently for Maria's first visit home since she won the na-- tion's top beauty crown. They gave her a tumultuous welcome.

Nearly 3000 persons were at the airport to greet her. And-as these photos showfor the next three days she was in demand by everyone in town for personal appearances, parades, banquets. Yet Asheville never forgot that Maria was the city's favorite daughter, home for just a little while. They wanted her three days to be as much a personal reunion with friends as a triumphal return.

Thus Miss America got her first opportunity since her sudden leap to fame to catch her breath. She could talk to her parents until 3 a.m., rekindle old acquaintanceships, even spend a few minutes by herself. "Ever since the contest, it's been one thing after another," Maria says, "I had no idea how really hectic it was to be Miss America. But don't get me wrong-I adore it. It's just that every now and then I need a little time with Maria Beale Fletcher."

"This is my town," declares Maria, "and I love it." She showed it by scrapping the rigid schedule that had governed her actions ever since the pageant. When she was asked to crown the Homecoming Queen at Lee Edwards High School but not at Reynolds High, her alma mater, she balked. She insisted on going to Reynolds too. When her timetable left no time for church on Sunday, she ignored it and went to worship with her friend the Rev. Mark Hopkins.

Aping the Frogman

The limelight is nothing new to Maria. who made her first stage appearance-unheralded-at age 2. "My wife and I were in a USO show," recalls her father, Beale, a former entertainer who now runs a dancing school, "and we left her in care of the performer who went on before us, a fellow called Leroy the Frogman. One night in Baltimore Leroy let her slip away from him. Maria toddled out on stage and did her own stifflegged version of the frogman. She completely nudged Peg and me out of the spotlight."

When she was 7, Maria won her first contest. She sang "Molly Malone" in the Mountain Youth Jamboree, an annual Asheville event, and took first prize. She came back to the Jamboree ten years more and won prizes nine times. Then she went off to New York to dance as a Radio City Music Hall Rockette. Last summer, she returned home to enter the Miss Asheville contest. She won that, won the Miss North Carolina contest, and with this title went on to Atlantic City.

She'll Study Drama

Ironically, Maria won't have much time with her friends in Asheville in the future. After her three-day respite, she set off on a new whirl of public appearances, fashion shows, luncheons, dinners. When her regime ends next fall, Maria will use her $10,000 scholarship to study drama—"probably," she says, "in the Pasadena Playhouse or somewhere like that."

She doesn't plan to accept any of the modeling or movie offers that have followed in the wake of the contest. "I have a lot to learn before I think about a career," she says.

Maria waves to crowds lining Asheville's streets for homecoming parade.

Maria speaks at home-town banquet; intent faces testify to her eloquence.

CONCRESS killed the federal aid to education bill and I don't blame them. If it's one thing those fellas have to worry about, it's educated voters.

I THINK those record companies are going too far. Did you hear that new one just out?—ALBERT SCH-WEITZER SCHWINGS.

KHRUSHCHEV says he cannot and will not stop nuclear testing until complete disarmament is agreed on. Like we've known all along—this boy waves the olive branch like it was a club... Strontium 90 has quadrupled in the last 24 hours. Merrill Lynch is getting calls from people wanting to buy some... This fall-out scare is really lousing up those health instructors on TV. They're saying: "All together now—breathe deep!" And nobody'll do it!...

I DON'T BLAME our Indians for being discouraged. They were the only ones ever to be conquered by the United States and not come out ahead.

THE WAY THINGS ARE GOING, I can't imagine why all these Martians want to be taken to our leaders. They're gonna learn something?

IN CASE of atomic attack, don't panie. Go to your local finance company, take out a $25,000 loan, then relax. They'll make sure nothing happens to you!

WENT OUT to the art museum to look at the Rembrandts. What a genius this man was! Can you imagine what he could have done if he had numbers to fullow?

I WON'T SAY the railroads are in trouble—but what do you wanna bet, come 1980, this country'll have 8,000,000 station wagons and no stations!

ONE COLLEGE is doing so well with football, they're de-emphasizing education.

YOU CAN'T WIN. Last week 1 got into the office a half hour early every morning. Friday, the boss comes over and asks me if I'm having trouble at home.

I WANNA KNOW when Kennedy is gonna deal with the biggest surplus of them all—bigger than wheat, bigger than corn, bigger than butter—wire coat hangers!

THEN THERE'S the ten-year-old with problems. She wants to know when she'll be old enough not to wear lipstick like the rest of the girls.

1 DON'T KNOW why everybody's criticizing our foreign policy. We're still getting along with Bermuda.

MY WIFE'D BE A BEATNIK right now if it wasn't for one thing—she can't find a leotard size 46!

YOU THINK Khrushchev's mad now-wait'll be hears about that picture, Nikki, Wild Dog of the North!

I GET PHILOSOPHICAL about money and the stock market—like there's plenty more where that went! ... I'll say this about the market, though—it's creating a whole new class in America, the nouveau poor.

I HEAR they sighted a Bussian scientific observation ship off Cape Canaveral—secretly trawling for fish.

YOU-DON'T KNOW what fear is until you've danced the tango with a girl wearing pointed shoes.

WE KEEP TALKING about co-existence with Bussia, but I wonder if co-existence isn't what a farmer does with the turkey—until Thanksgiving Day.

Our chips are great, if you can stand the noise.

We have received several letters of complaint recently about the loudness of our chips. In reply we say: A noisy potato chip is a crispy potato chip. And conversely, a quiet potato chip is a soggy potato chip. That's life. If

tions: Until further notice, then, Laura Scudder's potato chips will remain the noisiest chips in the world. Therefore we make just one request. If you eat Laura Scudder's potato chips, chips for dips or barbecue chips after 11 o'clock at night, please try to chew softly. LAURA SCUDDER'S

Look for our barbacua chips, potato chips and chips for dips in their bright new bags.
